Studies In Ancient Greek Topography:

Studies in Ancient Greek Topography William Kendrick Pritchett, 1965 Professor Pritchett continues his study of topographical data to test the veracity of Greek historians This sixth volume focuses on Pansanias s account of the sites in the Thyreatis on the historical record on the use of the Thermopylai pass and on Polybios s accounts of Philip V s march across the Peloponnesos in 219 B C and on Thermon in 218 B C with new identifications proposed for sites in Arkadia and Aitolia

Studies in Ancient Greek Topography William Kendrick Pritchett, 1965 The thrust of the eighth volume of Professor Pritchett s topographical studies is on Demosthenes Amphilochian campaign in 426 BC described in the closing chapters of Thucydides Book III with suggested identifications for the sites of the battles of Olpai and Idomenai Included is a commentary on the Thucydidean text dealing with such problems as Thucydidean seasons Demosthenes generalship and the marching time of armies This study is followed by a survey of sites in northeastern Akarnania probably the best preserved walls of any province in Greece The author argues that these were not open cities in the late fifth and early fourth centuries offering comments on the use of siegecraft and scaling ladders in Greek warfare The position of gates in several enceintes prove that the road structure in the mountains of Akarnania was quite different from that of modern roads The volume concludes with a study of sites east of Thermopylai and in the Parnon range
