Studies in the English Mystery Plays Charles Davidson, 2018-03-09 Excerpt from Studies in the English Mystery Plays A Thesis Presented to the Philosophical Faculty of Yale University In some form singing of psalms had been a feature of the church worship from the first There had been some definite assignment of musical parts in temple and synagogue worship moreover Psalms 24 and 134 appear to have been composed for antiphonal singing Philo speaks of such singing among the Essenes in language which agrees closely with that used by Basil Bishop of Caesarea in 370 A D when he says And now divided into two parts they sing alternately to each other Afterwards they commit the leading of the melody to one and the rest follow him Pliny s statement that the Christians sang amongst themselves in turn proves its survival among the Christians Nevertheless whatever the method of singing may have been that lively alternation which gives movement and interest to antiphonal singing must have been lacking Indeed there are signs that music itself fell into disuse or was of little prominence for no writer after St Chrysostom could have omitted as did Justin Martyr all mention of it in a description of the service About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works      Studies in the English Mystery Plays: A Thesis Presented to the Philosophical Faculty of Yale University Charles Davidson, 2018-11-13 This work has been selected by scholars as being culturally important and is part of the knowledge base of civilization as we know it This work is in the public domain in the United States of America and possibly other nations Within the United States you may freely copy and distribute this work as no entity individual or
