Studies in the History and Method of Science Charles Singer, 1917 This is a collection of essays by several authors

Studies in the History and Methods of the Sciences Arthur David Ritchie, 1958      The Politics and Rhetoric of Scientific Method J. Schuster, R.R. Yeo, 2012-12-06 The institutionalization of History and Philosophy of Science as a distinct field of scholarly endeavour began comparatively early though not always under that name in the Australasian region An initial lecturing appointment was made at the University of Melbourne immediately after the Second World War in 1946 and other appointments followed as the subject underwent an expansion during the 1950s and 1960s similar to that which took place in other parts of the world Today there are major Departments at the University of Melbourne the University of New South Wales and the University of Wollongong and smaller groups active in many other parts of Australia and in New Zealand Australasian Studies in History and Philosophy of Science aims to provide a distinctive publication outlet for Australian and New Zealand scholars working in the general area of history philosophy and social studies of science Each volume comprises a group of essays on a connected theme edited by an Australian or a New Zealander with special expertise in that particular area Papers address general issues however rather than local ones parochial topics are avoided Further more though in each volume a majority of the contributors is from Australia or New Zealand contributions from elsewhere are by no means ruled out Quite the reverse in fact they are actively encouraged wherever appropriate to the balance of the volume in question

Methods in the Philosophy of Science Sophie J Veigl, Adrian Currie, 2025-07-15 A guidebook to methods and methodology encouraging deeper engagement across the philosophy of science and beyond The last twenty years have seen multiple methodological revolutions in the philosophy of science There has been increased diversity concerning the questions asked who asks those questions who the relevant audiences are and what the techniques and tools involved are In Methods in the Philosophy of Science A User's Guide Sophie Veigl and Adrian Currie introduce this range of methods through both practical advice and philosophical reflection Each chapter introduces the reader to a method or set of methods in the philosophy of science discusses its advantages and limitations and provides practical guidance on how to learn skills relevant to applying the method The volume fulfills several critical roles First by introducing and discussing methods in the philosophy of science the collection increases philosophers awareness of methodological options of particular importance for younger scholars who are often not exposed to the diversity of practice Second the collection's practical focus will aid established philosophers in diversifying their own methodological toolkits Third collecting this diversity serves as a ground for philosophical reflection on what we as philosophers take ourselves to be capable of Fourth the collection hopes to increase interdisciplinary links between philosophy and other fields by laying clear the methodological continuity and complement between them

Historical Information Science Lawrence J. McCrank, 2001 Here is an extensive review and bibliographic essay backed by 5 000 citations about developments in information technology since the advent of personal computing and the convergence of the disciplines Its focus is on the access preservation and analysis of historical information primarily in electronic form and the relationships between new methodology and instructional media technique and research trends in library special collections digital libraries electronic and data archives and museums

Methodology and Method in History (RLE Accounting) Lee Parker, Finley Graves, 2013-12-04 This bibliography provides the reader with a comprehensive reference tool that will enhance understanding of methodological issues and enable the user to employ research methods appropriate to their subject of study It also provides accounting historians a comprehensive data base for the development of papers addressing methodological issues in an accounting history context Access to this type of resource is particularly crucial to the development of accounting history research since the number of papers dealing with methodological issues published in accounting history literature is very small Hence the references in this bibliography are drawn from the literature of general history economic and business history legal and social history and philosophy The scope and range of its contents are broad references are taken from texts as well as papers published in over 450 journals

History as a Science: The Philosophy of R.G. Collingwood Jan van der Dussen, 1981-10-31 1 1 COLLINGWOOD S RECEPTION Collingwood s scholarly reputation is a complicated and variegated affair For one has not only to make a distinction between his reputation during his life and after his premature death in 1943 but also between his reputation as a philosopher and as an archaeologist and historian Collingwood himself considered philosophy as his primary occupation and his work in archaeology and history as that of an amateur This work however reached the highest standards and his contributions to archaeology and history have always been appreciated accordingly Though Collingwood s reputation as the main expert on Roman Britain in the period between the two wars remains unchallenged modern developments in this field have inevitably superseded his contributions and made them primarily voices from a past period Philosophy was the other half of Collingwood s scholarly life In his own thinking

there was always a close relationship between philosophy and archaeological and historical practice His interpreters have not always recognized this connection I have met archaeologists who were surprised to hear that Collingwood was a philosopher as well who either did not know that he had been a practising and philosophers archaeologist and historian or thought it no more than a private hobby Collingwood's reputation as a philosopher was very different from the one he gained in archaeology and history For in the philosophical climate at Oxford between the wars he was always an isolated figure
