ABSTRACT

There has been a recent explosion of interest in experiential avoidance as a source of human psychopathology and acceptance-based interventions as a means of combating the deleterious effects of such avoidance. Most of this work has focused on clinical outcome measures, but a small body of research has also employed experimental analogs. The first part of the current article reviews the key studies in this analog research and concludes that the results support the argument that acceptance interventions provide some possible advantages over more traditional control- or distraction-based interventions. The second part of the article provides the beginnings of a technical analysis of acceptance in terms of Relational Frame Theory, a modern behavioral approach to human language and cognition.

RESUMEN

Se ha producido una reciente explosión de interés en la evitación experiencial como fuente de psicopatología humana y en las intervenciones basadas en la aceptación como herramienta para combatir sus efectos nocivos. La mayor parte de este trabajo se ha centrado sobre medidas de resultado clínico, pero algunos estudios han empleado también análogos experimentales. La primera parte de este artículo revisa los estudios clave de esta investigación sobre análogos y concluye que los resultados apoyan el argumento de que las intervenciones de aceptación proporcionan algunas posibles ventajas sobre otras intervenciones más tradicionales basadas en el control o la distracción. La segunda parte del artículo proporciona los comienzos de un análisis técnico de la aceptación en los términos de la Teoría de los Marcos Relacionales, una moderna aproximación conductual al lenguaje humano y la cognición.

Howard,2015-05-18 Keep students engaged and actively learning with focused relevant discussion Second only to lecture as the most widely used instructional strategy there s no better method than classroom discussion to actively engage students with course material Most faculty are not aware that there is an extensive body of research on the topic from which instructors can learn to facilitate exceptional classroom discussion Discussion in the College Classroom is a practical guide which utilizes that research frames it sociologically and offers advice along with a wide variety of strategies to help you spark a relevant conversation and steer it toward specific learning goals Applicable across a spectrum of academic disciplines both online and on campus these ideas will help you overcome the practical challenges and norms that can undermine discussion and foster a new atmosphere of collaborative learning and critical thinking Higher education faculty are increasingly expected to be more intentional and reflective in their pedagogical practice and this guide shows you how to meet those expectations improve student outcomes and tackle the perennial problem of lagging engagement Thoroughly grounded in the scholarship of teaching and learning this book gives you concrete guidance on integrating discussion into your courses You ll learn to Overcome the challenges that inhibit effective discussion Develop classroom norms that facilitate discussion Keep discussion focused relevant and productive Maximize the utility of online student discussions The kind of discussion that improves learning rarely arises spontaneously Like any pedagogical technique careful planning and smart strategy are the keys to keeping students focused engaged and invested in the conversation Discussion in the College Classroom helps you keep the discussion applicable to the material at hand while serving learning goals Knowledge In Motion Jan

Nespor,2014-01-21 Using an analysis of learning by a case study comparison of two undergraduate courses at a United States University Nespor examines the way in which education and power merge in physics and management Through this study of politics and practices of knowledge he explains how students once accepted on these courses are facilitated on a path to power physics and management being core disciplines in modern society Taking strands from constructivist psychology post modern geography actor network theory and feminist sociology this book develops a theoretical language for analysing the production and use of knowledge He puts forward the idea that learning usually viewed as a process of individual minds and groups in face to face interaction is actually a process of activities organised across space and time and how organisations of space and time are produced in social practice Within this context educational courses are viewed as networks of a larger whole and individual courses are points in the network which link a wider relationship by way of texts tasks and social practices intersecting with them The book shows how students enrolled on such courses automatically become part of a network of power and knowledge The Role of Leadership Educators Kathy L. Guthrie, Daniel M. Jenkins, 2018-02-01 Leadership as a discipline leadership education as a field and leadership educator as a profession are still in their infancy and rapidly evolving As professionals in higher education we are constantly asked to provide opportunities for students to learn leadership whether that is inside or outside of the classroom However very little if any professional development occurs in how to create such learning opportunities This book provides resources for leadership educators in three sections The first section sets the stage for leadership education and the professional work of leadership educators culminating with a variety of professional development resources for leadership educators The second section introduces a leadership learning framework provides characteristics and examples of strong leadership programs and assessment practices and describes the transformative practice of leadership education The third and final section offers specific instructional and assessment strategies ranging from discussion case study and reflection to team based and service learning to self assessments role play simulation and games to fulfill learning outcomes Conference proceedings.
