Studies On Philippine Labor:

Studies on Philippine Labor Institute of Labor and Manpower Studies, 1985* The Political Economy of Philippine Labor Laws Edberto M. Villegas, 1988 Filipino Studies Martin F. Manalansan, Augusto Espiritu, 2016-05-10

After years of occupying a vexed position in the American academy Philippine studies has come into its own emerging as a trenchant and dynamic space of inquiry Filipino Studies is a field defining collection of vibrant voices critical perspectives and provocative ideas about the cultural political and economic state of the Philippines and its diaspora Traversing issues of colonialism neoliberalism globalization and nationalism this volume examines not only the past and present position of the Philippines and its people but also advances new frameworks for re conceptualizing this growing field Written by a prestigious lineup of international scholars grappling with the legacies of colonialism and imperial power the essays examine both the genealogy of the Philippines hyphenated identity as well as the future trajectory of the field Hailing from multiple disciplines in the humanities and social sciences the contributors revisit and contest traditional renditions of Philippine colonial histories from racial formations and the Japanese occupation to the Cold War and independence from the United States Whether addressing the contested memories of World War II the voyage of Filipino men and women into the U S metropole or migrant labor and the notion of home the assembled essays tease out the links between the past and present with a hopeful longing for various futures Filipino Studies makes bold declarations about the productive frameworks that open up new archives and innovative landscapes of knowledge for Filipino and Filipino American Studies Artificial Intelligence and the Philippine Labor Market Micholo Cucio, Tristan Hennig, 2025-02-21 This paper combines labor force survey microdata with measures of occupational AI exposure and complementarity to examine the potential impact of recent advancements in AI on the Philippine labor market We find that around one third of workers are highly exposed to AI with around sixty percent of those also rated highly complementary indicating potential productivity gains College educated young urban female and well paid workers in the services sector are most exposed Business process outsourcing BPO is identified as the sector with the highest proportion of jobs at risk of displacement Addressing regulatory gaps infrastructure needs and workforce reskilling is crucial to maximize benefits and mitigate negative impacts Studies on Philippine Labor , 1985 Philippine Migration Studies , 1998 Militant Labor in the Philippines Lois A. West, 1997 Using extensive interviews and first hand observations West traces the KMU s rise and eventual fragmentation in a time of economic and political crisis Developing Socioemotional Skills for the Philippines' Labor Market Pablo Acosta, Takiko Igarashi, Rosechin Olfindo, Jan Rutkowski, 2017-10-05 While the Philippines has achieved remarkable progress in raising the education level of its labor force the standard proxy for educational attainment years of formal schooling is increasingly inadequate as a measure of workforce skills About one third of employers report being unable to fill vacancies due to lack of applicants with the requisite skills Most of these missing skills are socioemotional skills also known as non cognitive skills soft skills or behavioral skills Emerging international evidence suggests that socioemotional skills are increasingly crucial to the types of jobs being created by the global economy The following study presents new evidence from employer and household surveys on the role of socioemotional skills in the Philippine labor market The analysis reveals that Two thirds of employers report difficulty in finding workers with adequate work ethics or appropriate interpersonal and communications skills Firm based training increasingly focuses on socioemotional skills The more educated and employed workers tend to score higher on measures of grit decision making agreeableness and extroversion Socioemotional skills are associated with an increase in average daily earnings in particular for women young workers less educated workers and those employed in the service sector Higher levels of socioemotional skills are also correlated with a greater probability of being employed having completed secondary education and pursuing tertiary education Studies suggest that primary school is the optimal age for shaping socioemotional skills but the Philippines elementary education curriculum devotes limited resources to their development Schools continue to be judged solely by students performance in cognitive achievement tests but not on soft skills competencies and teachers are not appropriately trained to foster the development of them Finally interventions targeting workers entering the labor force can also effectively bolster their socioemotional skills complementing effects to improve labor market information and vocational counseling

Globalization, Labor Export and Resistance Ligaya Lindio-McGovern, 2013-10-18 Examines international labour export of Filipino migrant workers and forms of resistance to globalization

East Asian Labor Markets and the Economic Crisis Gordon Betcherman, Rizwanul Islam, 2001 This book looks at the impacts of the Asian economic crisis on the labor market examining how various countries responded It identifies the labour policy reforms needed in areas of unemployment benefit active labour market programs support for vulnerable groups and social dialogue

Official Gazette Philippines, 1976 Philippine Studies, 1978 Labor Law and Practice in the Philippines Michael Benedict Zuzik, 1963 Institute for Labor Studies ... Annual Report Institute for Labor Studies (Philippines), 2000 Philippine Studies Newsletter, 1990 The Economy of the Philippines Peter Krinks, 2003-09-02 In the late 1950s the Filipino economy could reasonably have been described as more advanced than those of its South Asian neighbours Ever since then however it has consistently lagged behind and only really started to grow strongly in the mid 1990s and even then it failed to achieve the growth rates of the rest of Southeast Asia ten years earlier This book critically analyses the Filipino economy and attempts to explain the problems that it has faced as well as the solutions that need to be put into practice This accessible and comprehensive book will be of great use to students academics and business professionals with an interest in the economies of Asia

Globalisation, Human Rights and Labour Law in Pacific Asia Anthony Woodiwiss, 1998-04-30 Anthony Woodiwiss's pathbreaking book was the first substantive contribution to a sociology of human rights In it he takes up the question of whether so called Asian values are compatible with human rights discourse and argues against human rights issues being the major obstacle to East West co operation Dr Woodiwiss's sociological and post structuralist approach to the concept of rights and his incorporation of the transnational dimension into sociological theory enable him to demonstrate how the global human rights regime can accommodate Asian patriarchy while Pacific Asia is itself adapting by means of what he calls enforceable benevolence His studies of Hong Kong the Philippines Malaysia and Singapore highlight similarities between Pacific Asian and Western societies and offer a positive view of the social forces obtaining in these territories

Labor Markets in Asia Jesus Felipe, Rana Hasan, 2006-07-03 This volume argues that while labour market reforms may be necessary in some specific cases by no means are labour market policies the main explanation for the widespread increase in unemployment and underemployment across Asia and country specific studies undermine the case for across the board labour market reforms

The Filipino Migration Experience Mina Roces, 2021-10-15 Winner of the New South Wales Premier's History Awards General History Prize 2022 The Filipino Migration Experience introduces a new dimension to the usual depiction of migrants as disenfranchised workers or marginal ethnic groups Mina Roces suggests alternative ways of conceptualizing Filipino migrants as critics of the family and cultural constructions of sexuality as consumers and investors as philanthropists as activists and as historians They have been able to transform fundamental social institutions and well entrenched traditional norms as well as alter the business economic and cultural landscapes of both the homeland and the host countries to which they have migrated Mina Roces tells the story of the Filipino migration experience from the perspective of the migrants themselves drawing on underused primary sources from the migrant archives and more than seventy interviews Bringing together migration studies and Filipina o x American studies The Filipino Migration Experience explores how these migrants have profoundly reshaped the status quo

Employment Relations in the Growing Asian Economies Thomas Kochan, Russell Lansbury, Anil Verma, 2005-08-17 This book analyses the role of employment relations in the context of economic development in some of the key Asian economies China Hong Kong India Malaysia the Philippines Singapore South Korea and Taiwan In recent years these Asian economies have become increasingly more open and export driven and there is strong interest all over the world in the Asian economic miracle among practitioners and scholars alike Although much has been written on this region few books have concentrated on the human resource aspects of this growth The authors build on the basic premise that the initial success of these countries has lain in low wages and suppression of workers rights However they point out that as employment relations evolve enterprises will either pull out due to rising wages or stay and prosper by adapting to higher wages Cases are provided to illustrate both of these features The evidence in the book suggests that unless a synergy is created between firm level and state level human resource policies in areas such as skill formation and workers need for voice economic growth is unlikely to be sustainable
