The Invention of Peter George E. Demacopoulos, 2013-05-29 On the first anniversary of his election to the papacy Leo the Great stood before the assembly of bishops convening in Rome and forcefully asserted his privileged position as the heir of Peter the Apostle This declaration marked the beginning of a powerful tradition the Bishop of Rome would henceforth leverage the cult of St Peter and the popular association of St Peter with the city itself to his advantage In The Invention of Peter George E. Demacopoulos examines this Petrine discourse revealing how the link between the historic Peter and the Roman Church strengthened shifted and evolved during the papacies of two of the most creative and dynamic popes of late antiquity ultimately shaping medieval Christianity as we now know it By emphasizing the ways in which this rhetoric of apostolic privilege was employed extended transformed or resisted between the reigns of Leo the Great and Gregory the Great Demacopoulos offers an alternate account of papal history that challenges the dominant narrative of an inevitable and unbroken rise in papal power from late antiquity through the Middle Ages He unpacks escalating claims to ecclesiastical authority demonstrating how this rhetoric which almost always invokes a link to St Peter does not necessarily represent actual power or prestige but instead reflects moments of papal anxiety and weakness Through its nuanced examination of an array of episcopal activity diplomatic pastoral political and administrative The Invention of Peter offers a new perspective on the emergence of papal authority and illuminates the influence that Petrine discourse exerted on the survival and exceptional status of the Bishop of Rome

A Biblical Defense of Catholicism Dave Armstrong, 2003 Author David Armstrong shows that the Catholic Church is the Bible Church par excellence and that many common Protestant doctrines are in fact not Biblical

Rome and the African Church in the Time of Augustine J. E. Merdinger, 1997-01-01 This groundbreaking book examines the vibrant North African Christian Church of the 4th and 5th centuries and its relationship to Rome Merdinger provides a lively account of cases of canon law that arose in Africa but were adjudicated in Rome including the notorious Apiarius affair and shows how African Christians gradually became dependent on the papacy for enforcement of church discipline A tour de force Engagingly readable full of lively details it provides both an accessible introduction to the development of papal and episcopal authority in the West and a challenging new reading of the evidence for the initiated scholar Merdinger's use of the recently published Divjak letters of St Augustine to re-interpret the relations of the Roman and North African Churches in the early fifth century is particularly exciting. Clearly this is the fullest and most sophisticated treatment available in English of a crucial period in the growth of Church life and structures. Brian E Daley, S.J., University of Notre Dame. Merdinger's book achieves the seemingly impossible task of making the subject not only of wide general interest but actually a gripping read. The excitement of the cases which illustrate her central thesis often read like a very good historical novel. Her gift for telling a good story holds together a complicated and often protracted plot in an engaging way. Characters breathe, emotions are stirred, circumstantial details beguile, complexity lends richness rather than confusion. This is history at its best. Carol Harrison, Church Times.

Spiritual Letters John Chapman, 2003-01-07. Abbott Chapman's Spiritual Letters, collected and edited posthumously by Dom Roger Huddleston, have been read and found of profound help by countless thousands since they were first published almost half a century ago.
