- Museum artefacts
- The visit to the museum was an expedition into surveying the collections of artefacts, attires, memorabilia and dioramas depicting the tribal men and women going about their daily activities in the past which could be used in the narrative. Some examples of artefacts put on display that seemed to have an interesting backstory or cultural significance were as follows:
 - Seemingly ordinary stones that were almost spherical in shape and obsidian black with a title card that read "Prosperity stones: The person who owned one was said to get rich without working much."
 - An exhibit of indigenous community games that each tribe used to play.
 - A whole gallery of photographs taken during the war times and the portraits of people during those days.

Anthropology and Cryptozoology Samantha Hurn, 2016-11-03 Cryptozoology is best understood as the study of animals which in the eyes of Western science are extinct unclassified or unrecognised In consequence and in part because of its selective methods and lack of epistemological rigour cryptozoology is often dismissed as a pseudo science However there is a growing recognition that social science can benefit from engaging with it for as social scientists are very well aware scientific categorisation and explanation represents just one of a myriad of systems used by humans to enable them to classify and make sense of the world around them In many cultural contexts myth folk classification and lived experience challenge the truth expounded by scientists With a reflexive anthropological approach and drawing on rich empirical and ethnographic studies from around the world this volume engages with the theoretical and methodological issues raised by reported sightings of unrecognised animals Bringing into sharp focus the anthropological value and challenges for methodology posed by beliefs about unclassified creatures Anthropology and Cryptozoology Exploring encounters with mysterious creatures will be of interest to anthropologists sociologists and geographers working in the fields of research methods anthrozoology mythology and folklore and human animal interaction A Pragmatic Approach to Religion And Sustainability Deepanjali Mishra,Jeffery D Long,2024-09-20 This volume outlines various religious practices followed across the global south and highlights their correlation to sustainability It features more than 30 chapters from scholars across diverse disciplines including philosophy economics ethics theology sociology ritual studies and education The interdisciplinary volume mines religious rituals and practices for answers that could aid and alleviate unsustainable lifestyles Delving deep into the cultural practices of tribal religions in India the book highlights humanistic elements to establish sustainable ways of thinking feeling acting and being Including perspectives from Buddhism Judaism Hinduism Christianity and tribal religious traditions this book is a must for scholars interested in sustainability and religion in the global south The Ao Naga Tribe of Assam William Carlson Smith,John Henry Hutton,1925 Religion, Material Culture and Archaeology Julian Droogan,2012-11-22 Religion Material Culture and Archaeology offers a new understanding of the materiality of religion By drawing on the field of archaeological theory and method the relationship between religion and material culture is explored It is argued that the material elements of religious life have been largely neglected by the discipline of religious studies while at the same time religion has been traditionally seen as problematic for archaeologists Why do we not talk of the discipline of the archaeology of religion in the same way we do the anthropology of religion or the sociology of religion The volume considers the historical problems of approaching the material elements of religious life and bridges the methodological gap between religious studies and archaeology by proposing a new way of understanding the materiality of religion as active engaged and projecting a level of autonomous social agency Finally the critical examination of archaeological approaches to the materiality of religion is furthered through the consideration of non archaeological ways of examining the social roles that material culture plays in human life Practical Theology and Majority World Epistemologies Alfred Brunson,Calida Chu,2024-11-08 This book offers insights into the thinking of majority world practical theologians and introduces the reader to faith realities previously unknown in a quest to create a more inclusive and welcoming practical theological network Practical theologians are situated in all corners of the globe attempting to make sense of their lived experiences and of those around them from a faith perspective Historically practical theology tended to be constructed from academics situated in the West and indirectly marginalized those in and from the majority world Against this backdrop this book is a deliberate attempt to empower practical theological voices from the further corners of the global village based upon the conviction that sharing epistemologies creates an opportunity not only to learn about others and the contexts in which they live but from them enhancing the meaning making of practical theology in the present Cognisant that epistemology as a formal discipline does not always centre lived experience practical theology has historically prioritised the importance of wisdom worldview and a way of life for individual and collective knowing The diverse issues addressed in this work offers insights into the thinking of mainly Asian and African practical theologians and introduces readers to the faith realities previously unknown to create a more inclusive and welcoming practical theological network This book was originally published as a special issue of the journal Practical Theology
