The Skeptical Tradition Around 1800 J. van der Zande, R.H. Popkin, 2013-03-14 In the early 1980s the late Charles B Schmitt and I discussed the fact that so much new research and new interpretations were taking place concerning various areas of modern skepticism that we as pioneers ought to organize a conference where these new findings and outlooks could be presented and discussed Charles and I had both visited the great library at Wolfenbüttel and were most happy when the Herzog August Bibliothek agreed to host the first conference on the history of skepticism in 1984 published as Skepticism from the Renaissance to the Enlightenment ed R H Popkin and Charles B Schmitt Wiesbaden 1987 Wolfenbütteler Forschungen vol 35 Charles and I projected a series of later conferences the first of which would deal with skepticism and irreligion in the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries Unfortunately however Charles died suddenly in 1986 while lecturing in Padua Subsequent to his death Constance Blackwell his companion of many years established the Foundation for Intellectual History to support research and publication on topics in the history of ideas that continued Schmitt's interests One of the first ventures was to arrange and fund the already planned conference on skepticism and irreligion in the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries After many difficulties and problems the conference was sponsored and funded by the Foundation for Intellectual History one of its first public activities It was held at the lovely facilities of the Netherlands Institute for Advanced Studies in Wassenaar in 1990

Rousseau and Liberty Robert Wokler, 1995 Rousseau is considered to be at once the most modern political thinker of the 18th century and the most ancient in his allegiance to classical republicanism These essays address the place of liberty in his moral and political philosophy and the origins meaning strength weakness and significance of his argument

Classical Learning in Britain, France, and the Dutch Republic, 1690-1750 Floris Verhaart, 2020-06-10 For much of western history the achievements of classical antiquity were seen as unsurpassable and works by Latin and Greek authors were viewed as treasure troves of information still useful for contemporary society By the late seventeenth century however the progress of scientific discoveries and the new paradigms of rationalism and empiricism meant the authority of the ancients was called into question Those working on the classical past and its literature debated new ways of defending their relevance for society The different approaches to classical literature defended in these debates explain how the writings of ancient Greece and Rome could become a vital part of eighteenth century culture and political thinking Floris Verhaart analyses these eighteenth century debates about the value of classics arguing that the Enlightenment though often seen as an age of reason and modernity in fact continuously sought inspiration from preceding traditions and ages such as Renaissance humanism and classical antiquity The volume offers an interesting parallel with the modern day in which the relationship between experts and the general public has become the topic of debate and many academics especially in the humanities face pressure to explain how their work benefits society at large

Architecture, Print Culture and the Public Sphere in Eighteenth-Century France Richard Wittman, 2007 This book focuses on the complex ways in which architectural practice theory patronage and experience became modern with the rise of a mass public and a reconfigured public sphere between the end of the seventeenth century and the French Revolution Presenting a fresh theoretical orientation and a large body of new primary research this book offers a new cultural history of virtually all the major monuments of eighteenth century Parisian architecture with detailed analyses of the public debates that erupted around such Parisian monuments as the east facade of the Louvre the Place Louis XV the Place de la Concorde and the church of Sainte Genevieve the Pantheon Depicting the passage of architecture into a mediatized public culture as a turning point and interrogating it as a symptom of the distinctly modern configuration of individual society and space that emerged during this period this study will interest readers well beyond the discipline of architectural history

Difference of a Different Kind Iris Idelson-Shein, 2014-04-02 European Jews argues Iris Idelson Shein occupied a particular place in the development of modern racial discourse during the late seventeenth and early eighteenth centuries Simultaneously inhabitants and outsiders in Europe considered both foreign and familiar Jews adopted a complex perspective on otherness and race Often themselves the objects of anthropological scrutiny they internalized adapted and revised the emerging discourse of racial difference to meet their own ends Difference of a Different Kind explores Jewish perceptions and representations of otherness during the formative period in the history of racial thought Drawing on a wide range of sources including philosophical and scientific works halakhic literature and folktales Idelson Shein unfolds the myriad ways in which eighteenth century Jews imagined the exotic Other and how the evolving discourse of racial difference played into the construction of their own identities Difference of a Different Kind offers an invaluable view into the ways new religious cultural and racial identities were imagined and formed at the outset of modernity

The Formation of the Parisian Bourgeoisie, 1690-1830 David Garrioch, 1996 Despite their importance during the French Revolution the Paris middle classes are little known This book focuses on the family organization and the political role of the Paris commercial middle classes using as a case study the Faubourg St Marcel and particularly the parish of St M dard David Garrioch argues that in the late seventeenth and early eighteenth centuries the commercial middle classes were steadfastly local in their family ties and outlook He shows too that they took independent political action in defense of their local position This gradually changed during the eighteenth century and the Revolution greatly accelerated the process of integration at the same time broadening the composition of what may now be termed the Parisian bourgeoisie Central to Garrioch's argument is the idea that family politics and power are intimately connected He shows the centrality of kinship to local politics in the first half of the eighteenth century and the way new family structures were related to changes in the nature of politics even before the Revolution Among the many important issues considered are birth control the role of women the importance of lineage the spatial limits of middle class lives and the language and secularization of politics

The Dutch Republic and the Birth of Modern Advertising Arthur der Weduwen, Andrew Pettegree, 2019-12-16 With the birth of a serial press in the seventeenth century the introduction of paid advertising was the most crucial step in pointing the newspaper industry towards a sustainable future Here as in so much else the laboratory of invention was the seventeenth century Dutch Republic In this study based on an exhaustive examination of the first six thousand advertisements placed in Dutch newspapers between 1620 and 1675 Arthur der Weduwen and Andrew Pettegree chart the growth of advertising from an adjunct to the book industry advertising newly published titles to a broad reflection of a burgeoning consumer society Businesses and private citizens used the newspapers to offer a wide range of goods and services publicise new inventions or appeal for help in recovering lost and stolen goods pets or children In these evocative colourful and sometimes deeply moving notices we see the beginnings of marketing strategies that would characterise the advertising world over the following centuries and into the modern era

A Critical Bibliography of French Literature V4 18th C , The Genres of Thomson's The Seasons Sandro Jung, Kwinten Van De Walle, 2018-09-01 Critics since the eighteenth century have puzzled over the form of James Thomson's composite long poem The Seasons 1730 1744 1746 its generically hybrid make up and its relationship to established genres both Classical and modern The textual condition of the work is complicated by the fact that it started as a stand alone poem Winter 1726 but was subsequently expanded as part of a revision process that lasted almost two decades through the addition of three further seasons poems Transforming from primarily devotional poem to georgic account of the role of man's laboring role in the creation the meaning of The Seasons shifted with each addition of new material Each revision introduced diverse subject matter while existing material was reorganized and occasionally moved from one season installment to another The Genres of Thomson's The Seasons is the first collection of essays exclusively devoted to the study of the work's formal heterogeneity polyvocality and polygeneric character All contributions examine the different modes descriptive reflective pastoral hymnal amatory epic georgic dramatic discourses political sentimental scientific and kinds that cooperate to make up the different installments and variants of The Seasons They probe the multifarious interactions between different genres and modes and how a renewed focus on the form of Thomson's long poem will result in an understanding of the processual character of The Seasons as a synthesizing simulacrum of various discourses and theories of composition The volume's essays map the generic anatomy of the poem in its different incarnations They shed light on the poet's conception of the descriptive long poem and his engaging with formal traditions that would have enabled contemporaneous readers to conceive of The Seasons as an assimilating and learned work to be read through both the works of the Classics and moderns Contributions revisit models explaining the structural complexity of The Seasons proposing others in their stead and consider Thomson as the author of a long poem in relation to other poets both English and in a transnational study Swedish The poem is furthermore contextualized in terms of sexuality and animal studies
