INTRODUCTION

by Alfred Kazin

GEORG LUKACS is probably the only Communist philosopher and literary critic in East Europe who still has the power to interest and to teach many readers in the West. This is due entirely to his intellectual gifts and to the systematically moral vision of history that he has retained as a writer despite his many servilities to Stalin and the hegemony of his own intellectual standards that he has in times past committed as a Communist leader. Lukacs owes his reputation entirely to the logical skill and intellectual vision with which, as a thinker rather than as a "poor intellectual," he has sought to illuminate the deepest aspects of Marxism. He gives the impression that no other Communist philosopher has done for some time—that despite official awards and mechanical formulas, here is an individual thinker who is fascinated by and thoroughly committed to Marxism as a philosophy, and who uses it for the intellectual pleasure and moral satisfaction that this gives him. Yet unlike the really noble figures in the early days of Communist history like Rosa Luxemburg, and brilliant writers like Leon Trotsky, who were truly revolutionary intellectuals committed to Marxism as a basic philosophy of human liberation, Lukacs is actually a mere "bourgeois" and academic humanist—who because of his inner detachment can stimulate and provoke us by his insights into a text and his formulations of an esthetic issue. The Luxemburgs and Trotskys, far more imposing and admirable figures, were in persons so much identified with their thoughts that they have become the heroes and martyrs of an embattled Western-appealing. Georg Lukacs remains simply useful and pertinent as a critic.

Although Lukacs has been called "the Soviet Marxist since Marx," the brilliance of his best work no more confirms the truth of Marxism as a social philosophy of history than the vindictive attacks on him by the party bosses in Hungary after
