Dimmendaal, 2020-03-19 This book provides a comprehensive overview of current research in African languages drawing on insights from anthropological linguistics typology historical and comparative linguistics and sociolinguistics Africa is believed to host at least one third of the world's languages usually classified into four phyla Niger Congo Afro Asiatic Nilo Saharan and Khoisan which are then subdivided into further families and subgroupings This volume explores all aspects of research in the field beginning with chapters that cover the major domains of grammar and comparative approaches Later parts provide overviews of the phyla and subfamilies alongside grammatical sketches of eighteen representative African languages of diverse genetic affiliation The volume additionally explores multiple other topics relating to African languages and linguistics with a particular focus on extralinguistic issues language cognition and culture including colour terminology and conversation analysis language and society including language contact and endangerment language and history and language and orature This wide ranging handbook will be a valuable reference for scholars and students in all areas of African linguistics and anthropology and for anyone interested in descriptive documentary typological and comparative linguistics Suppletion in Verb Paradigms

Ljuba N. Veselinova, 2006 This book examines stem change in verb paradigms as in English go go PRESENT vs went go PAST a phenomenon referred to as suppletion in current linguistic theory The work is based on a broad sample of 193 languages and examines this long neglected phenomenon from a typological perspective In addition to identifying types of suppletion which occur cross linguistically the study brings to light areal patterns of the occurrence of suppletive forms in verb paradigms Several hypotheses as regards the diachronic development of suppletive forms are presented as well The author also seeks to explore the methodological issues of evaluating the frequency of linguistic features in large language samples by introducing a method of weighting languages according to their genetic relatedness All figures obtained in this way are compared to the proportions yielded by more familiar counting methods and the results and implications of the different procedures are compared and discussed throughout Formulaic Language: Distribution and historical change

Roberta Corrigan, 2009-01-01 Printbegr nsninger Der kan printes 10 sider ad gangen og max 40 sider pr session The Linguistics of Eating and Drinking John Newman, 2009-03-11 This volume reviews a range of fascinating linguistic facts about ingestive predicates in the world's languages The highly multifaceted nature of eat and drink events gives rise to interesting clausal properties of these predicates such as the atypicality of transitive constructions involving eat and drink in some languages The two verbs are also sources for a large number of figurative uses across languages with meanings such as destroy and savour as well as participating in a great variety of idioms which can be quite opaque semantically Grammaticalized extensions of these predicates also occur such as the quantificational use of Hausa shaa drink meaning roughly do X frequently regularly Specialists discuss details of the use of these verbs in a variety of languages and language families Australian languages Papuan languages Athapaskan languages Japanese Korean Hausa Amharic Hindi Urdu and Marathi

Negation Patterns in West African Languages and Beyond Norbert Cyffer, Erwin Ebermann, Georg Ziegelmeyer, 2009-08-27 This volume deals with issues on negation patterns in languages of West Africa and the adjacent north and east The first aim is to provide data on various aspects of negation in African languages Although the topics addressed here reflect a great diversity of negation patterns the following typological features have been identified to be prominent in our region conflict or even incompatibility between negation and focus use of other indirect means of negating non indicative mood covered under the term Prohibitive different negation patterns in different Tense Aspect Moods e g Imperfective vs Perfective lack of negative indefinites and disjunctive negative marking often referred to as double negation The articles presented here show that areal factors have played a significant role in the development of negation strategies in the languages of West Africa and beyond On the other hand genetic factors seem to be less prominent

Variations on Polysynthesis Marc-Antoine Mahieu, Nicole Tersis, 2009 This work is comprised of a set of papers focussing on the extreme polysynthetic nature of the Eskaleut languages which are spoken over the vast area stretching from Far Eastern Siberia on through the Aleutian Islands Alaska and Canada as far as Greenland The aim of the book is to situate the Eskaleut languages typologically in general linguistic terms particularly with regard to polysynthesis The degree of variation from more to less polysynthesis is evaluated within Eskaleut Inuit Yupik vs Aleut even in previously insufficiently explored domains such as pragmatics and use in context including language contact and learning situations and over typologically related language families such as Athabascan Chukotko Kamchatkan Iroquoian Uralic and Wakashan

Formulaic Language Roberta Corrigan, Edith A. Moravcsik, Hamid Ouali, Kathleen Wheatley, 2009-05-20 This book is the second of the two volume collection of papers on formulaic language The collection is among the first in the field The authors of the papers in this volume represent a diverse group of international scholars in linguistics and psychology The language data analyzed come from a variety of languages including Arabic Japanese Polish and Spanish and include analyses of styles and genres within these languages While the first volume focuses on the very definition of linguistic formulae and on their grammatical semantic stylistic and historical aspects the second volume explores how formulae are acquired and lost by speakers of a language in what way they are psychologically real and what their functions in discourse are Since most of the papers are readily accessible to readers with only basic familiarity with linguistics the book may be used in courses on discourse structure pragmatics semantics language acquisition and syntax as well as being a resource in linguistic research

Tense-aspect Paul J. Hopper, 1982-01-01 The verbal categories of tense and aspect have been studied traditionally from the point of view of their reference to the timing and time perspective of the speaker's reported experience They are universal categories both in terms of the semantic functional domain they cover as well as in terms of their syntactic and morphological realization Nevertheless their treatment in contemporary linguistics is often restricted and narrow based often involving mere recapitulation of traditional semantic and morphotactic studies The present volume arises out of a symposium held at UCLA in May 1979 in which a group of linguists gathered to re open the subject of tense and aspect from a variety of perspectives including in addition to the traditional semantics also discourse pragmatics psycholinguistics child language Creolization and diachronic change The languages discussed in this volume include Russian Turkish English Indonesian Ameslan Eskimo various Creoles Mandari Hebrew Bantu and others The emphasis throughout is not only on the description of language specific tense aspect phenomenon but more on the search for universal categories and principles which underlie the cross language variety of tense and aspect In particular many of the participants address themselves to the relationship between propositional semantics and discourse pragmatics in so far as these two functional domains interact within tense aspect systems

A Grammar of Dazaga Josiah Walters, 2016-08-29 In A Grammar of Dazaga Josiah Walters provides the first detailed description and analysis of Dazaga a Saharan language in the past half century Based on a review of previous work on Dazaga and with his own more recent data the author describes the phonology morphology and syntax of Dazaga He provides a new analysis of the categorization of verbs in to classes demonstrating the prominence of light verb constructions in Dazaga His analysis of the syntax brings to light several striking features of Dazaga including optional ergative case marking mixed alignment of objects a variety of causative constructions and verb serialization Throughout the work the author relates his findings to work on related languages and to recent typological studies

Prototypical Transitivity Åshild Næss, 2007-07-13 This book presents a functional analysis of a notion which has gained considerable importance in cognitive and functional linguistics over the last couple of decades namely prototypical transitivity It discusses what prototypical transitivity is why it should exist and how it should be defined as well as how this definition can be employed in the analysis of a number of phenomena of language such as case marking experiencer constructions and so called ambitransitives Also discussed is how a prototype analysis relates to other approaches to transitivity such as that based on markedness The basic claim is that transitivity is iconic a construction with two distinct independent arguments is prototypically used to refer to an event with two distinct independent participants From this principle a unified account of the properties typically associated with transitivity can be derived and an explanation for why these properties tend to correlate across languages can be given

Indo-Aryan Ergativity in Typological and Diachronic Perspective Eystein Dahl, Krzysztof Stroński, 2016-06-14 This volume presents a state of the art survey of synchronic and diachronic dimensions of Ergativity in the Indo Aryan language family It contains an introduction drawing on the most important recent typological and theoretical contributions to this field plus seven papers about the origin development and distribution of ergative alignment in ancient and modern Indo Aryan languages written by well established expert authors The articles provide detailed explorations of language specific synchronic systems or patterns of change and large scale studies of the distribution of ergative morphosyntax across the Indo Aryan languages The papers have a typological functional approach and are based on thorough fieldwork experience and or philological investigation As the Indo Aryan language family has played a paramount role in recent theories of Ergativity and of alignment typology and change this volume is highly relevant to experts working on these languages and to scholars interested in grammatical relations and it will figure in all future debates in these fields A grammar of Komnzo

Christian Döhler, 2019 Komnzo is a Papuan language of Southern New Guinea spoken by around 250 people in the village of Rouku Komnzo belongs to the Tonda subgroup of the Yam language family which is also known as the Morehead Upper Maro group This grammar provides the first comprehensive description of a Yam language It is based on 16 months of fieldwork The primary source of data is a text corpus of around 12 hours recorded and transcribed between 2010 and 2015 Komnzo provides many fields of future research but the most interesting aspect of its structure lies in the verb morphology to which the two largest chapters of the grammar are dedicated Komnzo verbs may index up to two arguments showing agreement in person number and gender Verbs encode 18 TAM categories valency directionality and deictic status Morphological complexity lies not only in the amount of categories that verbs may express but also in the way these are encoded Komnzo verbs exhibit what may be called distributed exponence i e single morphemes are underspecified for a particular grammatical category Therefore morphological material from different sites has to be integrated first and only after this integration can one arrive at a particular grammatical category The descriptive approach in this grammar is theory informed rather than theory driven Comparison to other Yam languages and diachronic developments are taken into account whenever it seems helpful The Diachronic Typology of Non-Canonical Subjects Ilja A. Serzant, Leonid Kulikov, 2013-11-15 This volume is an important contribution to the diachrony of non canonical subjects in a typological perspective The questions addressed concern the internal mechanisms and triggers for various changes that non canonical subjects undergo ranging from semantic motivations to purely structural explanations The discussion encompasses the whole life cycle of non canonical subjects from their emergence out of non subject arguments to their expansion demise or canonicization focusing primarily on syntactic changes and changes in case marking The volume offers a number of different case studies comprising such languages as Italian Spanish Old Norse and Russian as well as languages less studied in this context such as Latin Classical Armenian Baltic languages and some East Caucasian languages Typological generalizations in the form of recurrent developmental paths are offered on the basis of data presented in this volume and in the literature Semantics -

Typology, Diachrony and Processing Klaus Heusinger, Claudia Maienborn, Paul Portner, 2019-02-19 Now available in paperback for the first time since its original publication the material in this book provides a broad accessible guide to semantic typology crosslinguistic semantics and diachronic semantics Coming from a world leading team of authors the book also deals with the concept of meaning in psycholinguistics and neurolinguistics and the understanding of semantics in computer science It is packed with highly cited expert guidance on the key topics in the field making it a bookshelf essential for linguists cognitive scientists philosophers and computer scientists working on natural language Basque Word Order and Disorder Jon Aske, 1997 Passivization and Typology Werner Abraham, Larisa Leisiö, 2006-01-01 Is the passive a unified universal phenomenon The claim derived from this volume is that the passive if not universal has become unified according to function Language as a means of communication needs the passive or passive like constructions and sooner or later develops them based on other voices impersonal active middle reflexive specific semantic meanings such as adversativity or tense aspect categories stative perfect preterit Certain contributors review the passives in various languages and language groups including languages rarely discussed Another group of contributors takes a novel theoretical approach toward passivization within a broad typological perspective Among the languages discussed are Vedic Irish Mandarin Chinese Thai Lithuanian Mordvin and Nganasan next to almost all European languages Various theoretical frameworks such as Optimality Theory modern structuralist approaches Role and Reference Grammar cognitive semantics Distributed Morphology and case grammar have been applied by the different authors Linguistics: An Introduction William

McGregor, 2009-03-15 A fresh and contemporary introductory textbook for all students of linguistics and language studies

Rethinking Grammaticalization María José López-Couso, Elena Seoane, 2008 This volume and its companion one Theoretical and empirical issues in grammaticalization offer a selection of papers from the Third International Conference New Reflections on Grammaticalization held in Santiago de Compostela in July 2005 From the rich programme of the conference over 120 papers the twelve contributions included in this volume were carefully selected to reflect the state of current research in grammaticalization and suggest possible directions for future investigations in the field Combining theoretical discussions with the analysis of particular test cases from a wide range of languages from various language families the selected papers focus on such central questions as the need for a broader notion of grammaticalization the distorting effects of grammaticalization on grammar the areal perspective in grammaticalization and the relevance of contact induced change to grammaticalization Other topics discussed include the development of markers of textual connectivity and the emergence of cardinal numerals and numeral systems The Genesis of Grammar Bernd Heine, Tania

Kuteva, 2007-10-04 This book reconstructs what the earliest grammars might have been and shows how they could have led to the languages of modern humankind It considers whether these languages derive from a single ancestral language what the structure of language was when it first evolved and how the properties associated with modern human languages first arose

The Synchronic and Diachronic Phonology of Ejectives Paul D. Fallon, 2013-12-16 This study is the first book length examination of ejectives and their phonological patterning deepening the empirical understanding of ejectives and contributing to both phonological theory and to typologies of sound change
