Discounting the Future Liliana Doganova, 2024-02-13 A pioneering exploration of the defining traits and contradictions of our relationship to the future through the lens of discounting Forest fires droughts and rising sea levels beg a nagging question have we lost our capacity to act on the future Liliana Doganova's book sheds new light on this anxious query It argues that our relationship to the future has been trapped in the gears of a device called discounting While its incidence remains little known discounting has long been entrenched in market and policy practices shaping the ways firms and governments look to the future and make decisions accordingly Thus a sociological account of discounting formulas has become urgent Discounting means valuing things through the flows of costs and benefits that they are likely to generate in the future with these future flows being literally dis counted as they are translated in the present How have we come to think of the future and of valuation in such terms Building on original empirical research in the historical sociology of discounting

Doganova takes us to some of the sites and moments in which discounting took shape and gained momentum valuation of European forests in the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries economic theories devised in the early 1900s debates over business strategies in the postwar era investor state disputes over the nationalization of natural resources and drug development in the biopharmaceutical industry today Weaving these threads together the book pleads for an understanding of discounting as a political technology and of the future as a contested domain National Proceedings ,2005 Business Administration Reading Lists and Course Outlines ,1995 Proceedings RMRS. ,1998 Finance: Corporate finance & investments ,1985 Study Guide for Use with Principles of Corporate Finance Richard A.
