The Terror and Other Stories Arthur Machen,2005 Arthur Machen produced some of the most evocative weird fiction in all literary history Written with impeccably mellifluous prose infused with a powerful mystical vision and imbued with a wonder and terror that he felt with every fiber of his being his novels and tales will survive when works of far greater technical accomplishment fall by the wayside The Terror is a short novel that inspired a host of imitations of its basic plot animals turning against human beings ranging from Philip Macdonald s brief tale Our Feathered Friends to Daphne du Maurier s much better known but sadly mediocre novelette The Birds The Terror reveals several features characteristic of Machen's later fiction. The first perhaps is frank autobiography. The first person narrative voice not only seems to be Machen himself but he plays upon his own role as a journalist and reporter.

Anti-Foreign Imagery in American Pulps and Comic Books, 1920-1960 Nathan Vernon Madison, 2013-02-18 In this thorough history, the author demonstrates via the popular literature, primarily pulp magazines and comic books of the 1920s to about 1960, that the stories therein drew their definitions of heroism and villainy from an overarching nativist fear of outsiders that had existed before World War I but intensified afterwards. These depictions were transferred to America's new enemies both following U.S. entry into the Second World War and during the early stages of the Cold War. Anti-foreign narratives showed a growing emphasis on ideological as opposed to racial or ethnic differences and early signs of the coming multiculturalism, indicating that pure racism was not the sole reason for nativist rhetoric in popular literature. The process of change in America's nativist sentiments so virulent after the First World War are revealed by the popular inexpensive escapism of the time pulp magazines and comic books.

Writing Talk Alex Hamilton, 2012 In his long career in literary journalism, Alex Hamilton has probably met and talked in depth to more of our great writers than anyone else, from the most critically acclaimed to the most hard-nosed bestsellers, from novelists to cartoonists and in every genre from Thrillers and Whodunnits to Short Stories from Poetry to Science Fiction. This selection from a life's work gives us a stimulating and rare insight into the minds and lives of some of the most fascinating creators of our modern culture. It's a book that contains many surprises in the revelations given by some of the authors about their struggles and victories, the serious or humorous commitments made by them, and their addiction to the kind of fiction they like to write. The reader will soon realize that no two of these eighty-five featured authors, such as Kurt Vonnegut, Angela Carter, Stephen King, Daphne du Maurier, Ian McEwan, Jorge Luis Borges, Graham Greene, or Margaret Atwood, are alike. Splendidly informative and serious, Writing Talk is also often very funny, a book to dip into as the mood takes or to dive into hungrily. It will appeal to those with a passion for books and for the people who have written them. I've been fortunate to talk to so many marvellous writers. Gathering some of these conversations into a book rather than their brief life in a daily newspaper offers a chance for readers to share my pleasure and to introduce a new generation to some past greats, says Alex Hamilton. Behind his reason to create Writing Talk.
