The Human Paradox Ralph Heintzman, 2022-08-31 What is a human being What does it mean to be human How can you lead your life in ways that best fulfil your own nature In The Human Paradox Ralph Heintzman explores these vital questions and offers an exciting new vision of the nature of the human The Human Paradox aims to counter or correct several contemporary assumptions about the nature of the human especially the tendency of Western culture since the seventeenth century to identify the human with rationality and the rational mind Using the lens of the virtues The Human Paradox shows how rediscovering the nature of the human can help not just to understand one's own paradoxical nature but to act in ways that are more consistent with its full reality Offering accessible insight from both traditional and contemporary thought The Human Paradox shows how a fuller richer vision of the human can help address urgent contemporary problems including the challenges of cultural and religious diversity human migration and human rights the role of the market artificial intelligence the future of democracy and global climate change This fresh perspective on the Western past will guide readers into what it means to be human and open new possibilities for the future

Making the Human Corinne Mitsuye Sugino, 2024-11-15 From the debate over affirmative action to the increasingly visible racism amidst the COVID 19 pandemic Asian Americans have emerged as key figures in a number of contemporary social controversies In Making the Human Race Allegory and Asian Americans Corinne Mitsuye Sugino offers the lens of racial allegory to consider how media institutional and cultural narratives mobilize difference to normalize a white Western conception of the human Rather than focusing on a singular arena of society Sugino considers contemporary sources across media law and popular culture to understand how they interact as dynamic sites of meaning making Drawing on scholarship in Asian American studies Black studies cultural studies communication and gender and sexuality studies Sugino argues that Asian American racialization and gendering plays a key role in shoring up abstract concepts such as meritocracy family justice diversity and nation in ways that naturalize hierarchy In doing so Making the Human grapples with anti Asian racism's entanglements with colonialism antiblackness capitalism and gendered violence

The Tao of Islam Sachiko

Murata,1992-03-23 The Tao of Islam is a rich and diverse anthology of Islamic teachings on the nature of the relationships between God and the world the world and the human being and the human being and God Focusing on gender symbolism Sachiko Murata shows that Muslim authors frequently analyze the divine reality and its connections with the cosmic and human domains with a view toward a complementarity or polarity of principles that is analogous to the Chinese idea of yin yang Murata believes that the unity of Islamic thought is found not so much in the ideas discussed as in the types of relationships that are set up among realities She pays particular attention to the views of various figures commonly known as Sufis and philosophers since they approach these topics with a flexibility and subtlety not found in other schools of thought She translates several hundred pages most for the first time from more than thirty important Muslims including the Ikhwan al Safa Avicenna and Ibn al Arabi

German Stoicisms Kurt Lampe,Andrew Benjamin,2020-12-10 Stoicism has had a diverse reception in German philosophy This is the first interpretive study of shared themes and dialogues between late nineteenth century and twentieth century experts on classical antiquity and philosophers Assessing how modern philosophers have incorporated ancient resources with the context of German philosophy chapters in this volume are devoted to philosophical giants such as Friedrich Nietzsche Wilhelm Dilthey Walter Benjamin Martin Heidegger Hannah Arendt Hans Jonas Hans Blumenberg and Peter Sloterdijk Among the ancient Stoics the focus is on Seneca Epictetus and doxography but reference will also be made to texts that have so far been neglected by non specialists Often references to Stoic texts are playful making it hard for non specialists to reconstruct their understanding of the sources by illuminating and enhancing the philosophical significance of these receptions this book argues that they can change our understanding of Greek and Roman Stoic doctrines and authors twentieth century continental philosophy and the themes which coordinate their ongoing dialogues Some of these themes are surprising for Stoicism such as the poetics of tragic drama and the anthropological foundations of hermeneutics Others are already central to Stoic reception such as the constitution of the subject in relation to various ethical ecological and metaphysical powers and processes among these are contemplation and knowledge identity and plurality temporality facticity and fate and personal social and planetary forms of self cultivation and self appropriation Addressing the need for a synoptic vision of related continental readings of Stoicism this book brings ancient texts into new dialogues with up to date scholarship facilitating increased understanding critical evaluation and creative innovation within the continental response to Stoicism

What is the Human Being? Patrick R. Frierson,2013 Philosophers anthropologists and biologists have long puzzled over the question of human nature It is also a question that Kant thought about deeply and returned to in many of his writings In this lucid and wide ranging introduction to Kant's philosophy of human nature which is essential for understanding his thought as a whole. Patrick R Frierson assesses Kant's theories and examines his critics. He begins by explaining how Kant articulates three ways of addressing the question what is the human being: the transcendental, the empirical and the pragmatic. He then considers some of the great theorists of human nature who wrestle with Kant's views such as Hegel, Marx, Darwin, Nietzsche and Freud, contemporary thinkers such as E. O. Wilson and Daniel Dennett who have sought biological explanations of human nature, Thomas Kuhn, Michel Foucault and Clifford Geertz who emphasize the diversity of human beings in different times and places, and existentialist philosophers such as Sartre and Heidegger. He argues that whilst these approaches challenge and enrich Kant's views in significant ways, all suffer from serious weaknesses that Kant's anthropology can address. Taking a core insight of Kant's that human beings are fundamentally free but finite, he argues that it is the existentialists, particularly Sartre, who are the most direct heirs of his transcendental anthropology. The final part of the book is an extremely helpful overview of the work of contemporary philosophers, particularly Christine Korsgaard and Jürgen Habermas. Patrick R Frierson explains how these philosophers engage with questions of naturalism, historicism and existentialism while developing Kantian conceptions of the human being. Including chapter summaries and annotated further reading, What is the Human Being is an outstanding introduction to some fundamental aspects of Kant's thought and a judicious assessment of leading theories of human nature. It is essential reading for all students of Kant and the philosophy of human nature, as well as those in related disciplines such as anthropology, politics and sociology.

Engineering the Human Bert Jaap Koops, Christoph H. Lüthy, Annemiek Nelis, Carla Sieburgh, J.P.M. Jansen, Monika S. Schmid, 2013-02-12. The volume is a collection of articles treating the topic of human improvement/enhancement from a variety of perspectives: philosophical, literary, medical, genetic, sociological, legal, etc. The chapters in this volume treat not only those aspects that most immediately come to mind when one thinks of human enhancement, such as genetic engineering, cloning, artificial implants, and artificial intelligence, etc. Somewhat less obvious aspects include evolutionary perspectives in connection with the prolongation of the human lifespan, plastic surgery, since its beginnings, and questions such as whether the distinction between natural and artificial can really be drawn at all, and how it has been conceived across the ages, or what the legal implications are of recent developments and techniques. Many papers make links to the representation of these developments in popular culture, from Jules Verne through Aldous Huxley to the movie Gattaca, address the hopes and fears that come with them, as well as the question how realistic these are. While all chapters are written by scientists at the international top of their respective fields, all are accessible to a non-specialist audience and eminently readable. We believe that they represent a state-of-the-art overview of questions that are of interest to a large audience. The book thus targets a non-specialist audience with an interest in philosophical, sociological, scientific, and legal issues involved in both traditional and recent matters concerning the desire of mankind to improve itself: the human body, the human mind, and the human condition. It is unique in that it brings together all these aspects within a coherent and cohesive collection Activating Human Rights Elisabeth J. original contributions to educational theory and research practice Many books in this area are no more than guides on how to do research or text books reiterating rather narrow frameworks of research paradigms this book both breaks new ground and sets the tone for discussions about the future path of educational research in the coming years The Norton History of the Human Sciences Roger Smith,1997 Beginning with the Renaissance s rediscovery of Greek psychology political philosophy and ethics author Roger Smith recounts how the human sciences gradually organized themselves around a scientific conception of psychology and how this trend has continued to the present day in a circle of interactions between science and ordinary life influencing and influenced by popular culture Photos drawings Morality and the Human Goods Alfonso Gómez-Lobo,2001-12-18 A concise and accessible introduction to natural law ethics this book introduces readers to the mainstream tradition of Western moral philosophy Building on philosophers from Plato through Aquinas to John Finnis Alfonso G mez Lobo links morality to the protection of basic human goods life family friendship work and play the experience of beauty knowledge and integrity elements essential to a flourishing happy human life G mez Lobo begins with a discussion of Plato s Crito as an introduction to the practice of moral philosophy showing that it requires that its participants treat each other as equals and offer rational arguments to persuade each other He then puts forth a general principle for practical rationality one should pursue what is good and avoid what is bad The human goods form the basis for moral norms that provide a standard by which actions can be evaluated do they support or harm the human goods He argues that moral norms should be understood as a system of rules whose rationale is the protection and enhancement of human goods A moral norm that does not enjoin the preservation or enhancement of a specific good is unjustifiable Shifting to a case study approach G mez Lobo applies these principles to a discussion of abortion and euthanasia The book ends with a brief treatment of rival positions including utilitarianism and libertarianism and of conscience as our ultimate moral guide Written as an introductory text for students of ethics and natural law Morality and the Human Goods makes arguments consistent with Catholic teaching but is not based on theological considerations The work falls squarely within the field of philosophical ethics and will be of interest to readers of any background News and the Human Interest Story Helen MacGill Hughes,1981 In this account of the growth of newspapers in modern industrial society Helen Hughes traces the development of a mass audience through analysis of the origins of the human interest story in the popular ballads of an earlier day She shows how such commonly found interests as a taste for news of the town ordinary gossip and moving or gripping tales with a legendary or mythic quality have reflected the tastes of ordinary folk from the days of illiterate audiences to the present She explains how these interests ultimately were combined with practical economic and political information to create the substance and demand for a popular press In describing the rise and fall of newspaper empires each with their special readership attractions Dr Hughes shows how technological innovation and idiosyncratic creativity were used by owners to capture and hold a reading audience Once this audience developed it could be fed a variety of messages beamed at reinforcing and maintaining both general and specific publics as well as a view of the world consonant with that of the publisher and major advertisers Hughes offers a persuasive argument for the continuing viability of this method for combined social control instruction and amusement captured by the association of news and the human interest story
