Congress, International Association for the History of Religions, 1998 This volume is based upon papers read during the innovative section Western Esotericism and the Science of Religion organized at the 17th International Congress of the International Association for the History of Religions IAHR in Mexico City August 5-12 1995 The section was created in order to fill a long standing hiatus in the academic study of religions whereas phenomena such as gnosticism and hermetism in antiquity and even the occult sciences of that period have long been recognized as subjects worthy of serious investigation the history of similar and related phenomena in more recent periods has hardly received the same measure of scholarly attention and recognition The present volume is devoted to the academic emancipation of these areas as constituting a legitimate domain of research which may be referred to by the generic label western esotericism Preceded by an introductory essay on the birth of this new discipline in the study of religion the volume provides a sample of current research in the field and devotes special attention to some central methodological questions Lectures on the Philosophy of Religion Georg Wilhelm Friedrich Hegel, 1996-08-01 These lectures represent the final and in some ways the decisive element of Hegel's entire philosophical system This volume contains Hegel's philosophical interpretation of the history of religions specifically of primitive religion the religion of ancient China Buddhism Hinduism Persian and Egyptian religions and Jewish Greek and Roman religion The Sociology of Religion Malcolm B. Hamilton, 2002-06-01 The Sociology of Religion is a comprehensive and wide ranging introduction to theoretical debates in the sociology of religion placing these theories in the context of specific religious beliefs and practices Using examples as diverse as primitive religions Buddhism millennial movements the Protestant Ethic secularisation cults and the new religious movements Malcolm Hamilton demonstrates the multiplicity of religious traditions and enables readers to place their own experiences in a wider context He draws on both historical and anthropological perspectives in his examination of religious practices and outlines the work of major sociological theorists including Marx Durkheim Malinowski and other Functionalists Frazer and Weber in the examination of world religion bringing these theories up to date The significance of each theoretical perspective is illustrated by chapters on particular beliefs and practices Religion and the Higher Life William Rainey Harper, 1904 Classical Approaches to the Study of Religion Jacques Waardenburg, 2017-01-23 Waardenburg's magisterial essay traces the rise and development of the academic study of religion from the mid nineteenth to the mid twentieth century outlining the establishment of the discipline its connections with other fields religion as a subject of research and perspectives on a phenomenological study of religion Furthermore a second part comprises an anthology of texts from 41 scholars whose work was programmatic in the evolution of the academic study of religion Each chapter presents a particular approach theory and method relevant to the study of religion The pieces selected for this volume were taken from the discipline of religious studies as well as from related fields such as anthropology sociology and psychology to name a few

The Idea of God in Early Religions F. B. Jevons, 2022-11-21 In The Idea of God in Early Religions F B Jevons meticulously explores the evolution of the concept of divinity across ancient cultures Employing a comparative approach Jevons delves into a variety of religious traditions illuminating how early societies constructed and understood their gods within the broader context of human experience His analytical prose weaves together anthropological insights and philological methods offering a kaleidoscopic view of religious belief that reflects the complexity of human thought The book provides a nuanced understanding of how early religions shaped societal norms and individual beliefs making it a foundational text in the study of comparative religion F B Jevons a distinguished scholar of religious studies and anthropology drew upon his extensive background in philosophy and theology to articulate these ideas His academic pursuits were deeply influenced by the burgeoning interest in the anthropological study of religion during the late 19th and early 20th centuries This context afforded him the opportunity to examine the intersections of culture and belief leading him to challenge conventional notions of the divine and advocate for a more nuanced understanding of early religious thought Jevons s The Idea of God in Early Religions is an essential read for scholars and enthusiasts alike who seek to uncover the complexities of ancient spiritualities Its rich analysis and insightful comparisons foster a deeper appreciation for the multifaceted nature of humanity s quest for meaning Readers will find themselves engaged in a thought provoking journey that not only informs but also challenges preconceived notions about the divine in early religious narratives
