The Home Plot Women Writers And Domestic Ritual:

The Home Plot Ann Romines, 1992 Romines English George Washington U builds on feminist scholarship to show how domestic ritual the practice and tradition of housekeeping has helped shape the substance and tone of some of the best fiction by American women with particular reference to the work of Harriet Beecher Stowe Sarah Orne Jewett Mary Wilkins Freeman Willa Cather and Eudora Welty Annotation copyrighted by Book News Inc Portland OR On their own premises: Southern Women Writers and the Homeplace Constanze González Groba, 2011-11-28 Centrat en les obres de Kate Chopin Elizabeth Madox Roberts Zora Neale Hurston Lillian Smith Eudora Welty Alice Walker Llegix Smith Jill McCorkle i Bobbie Ann Mason aquest llibre analitza el retrat ambivalent de l'espai domèstic descrit per les escriptores del sud Les qüestions més profundes de gènere raça i classe en una societat tradicional com la del sud americà es manifesten precisament dins l'esfera domèstica on l'espai sovint un mitjà crucial de dominació Les escriptores contemporànies del sud sovint han utilitzat la transformació de la llar i els seus significats com una nova font per a la ficció Han estat explorant formes noves i antigues d'imaginar el que podria ser una llar i la seva narrativa diu molt de la manera en la qual el treball els llocs i la família contribueixen a la creació d'un altre en el sud contemporani At Home, at War Jennifer Anne Haytock, 2003 This study demonstrates that such literary divisions as war novel and domestic novel limit readers understanding of the ways these categories rely on and respond to each other Haytock argues that gender creates an ideological context through which both domesticity and war are viewed and understood issues of home and violence are intricately related for U.S. authors who wrote about the First World War Haytock explores what war and domestic texts represent in light of the deconstructionist said in its cultural and historical context and seeing what is not said Readers take food shelter and clothing for granted and yet the way we treat them is part of what allows us to define ourselves as civilized In war novels and domestic novels by Temple Bailey Ellen Glasgow Edith Wharton Willa Cather John Dos Passos Thomas Boyd Ernest Hemingway William Faulkner and Eudora Welty the idea of home and domestic rituals contribute to the creation of war propaganda the soldier's experience of war and the home front's ability to confront the war after the fact This approach helps literary criticism reject the separation of men's and women's writing particularly but not only their writing about war Willa Cather's Transforming Vision Gary Brienzo, 1994 Willa Cather's Transforming Vision New France and the American Northeast explores Cather's search for meaning and a domestic center in particular as her search was influenced by her feelings for New France and the American Northeast Including biography critical overview and primary research into both Cather's writing and some of her most unusual historical sources this study focuses on Shadows on the Rock while incorporating this pivotal novel into the larger pattern of Cather's growing need for belonging and order Shadows on the Rock set in the city of Quebec Kebec at the end of the seventeenth century is Cather's fullest expression of love for French culture and its adaptation to New World soil But more than a mere extolling of what Mme Auclair in Shadows proudly calls our way a skill with all things domestic that she boasts renders the French the most civilized people in Europe this novel is a statement of faith in the ability of both individuals and larger societal orders to work together for the creation of an all encompassing whole Writing at mid life after the recent illnesses and deaths of her parents Cather could posit in her story of New France a familial order much larger than the domestic heart of her earlier masterpiece My Antonia In all of Quebec as in the incomplete but fruitful home of the widowed apothecary Euclide Auclair and his daughter Cecile life is sustained by a merging of gender and social roles as a bishop can become the symbolic head of an entire church as well as of a troubled family and a bellicose count can play as warm and nurturing a role as the gentlest of parents

Through the Window, Out the Door Janis P. Stout, 2020-11-10 This informative and provocative study focuses on the centrality of departure in the texts of five major American women novelists An important moment in many novels and poems by American women writers occurs when a central character looks out a window or walks out the door of a house These acts of departure serve to convey such values as the rejection of constraining social patterns the search for individual fulfillment and the entry into the political Janis Stout examines such moments and related patterns of venture and travel in the fiction of five major American novelists of the 20th century Mary Austin Willa Cather Anne Tyler Toni Morrison and Joan Didion Stout views these five writers within a spectrum of narrative engagements with issues of home and departure a spectrum anchored at one end by Sarah Orne Jewett and at the other by Marilynne Robinson whose Housekeeping posits a vision of female transience Through the Window Out the Door ranges over an expansive territory Moving between texts as well as between texts and contexts Stout shows how women writers have envisioned the walls of physical and social structures including genres as permeable boundaries drawing on both a rhetoric of liberation and a rhetoric of domesticity to construct narrative arguments for women's right to move freely between the two Stout concludes with a personal essay on the dilemmas of domesticity and the ambivalence of departure

Becoming Modern M. Catherine Downs, 1999 It is one thing to report a news story and another to use the same material in one's art and Cather did intend that her literary works become art and that they achieve lasting fame This volume details how Cather came to transform the office routine of memos and deadlines linotypes and the business trip into the artistry of her early stories poems biographies and novels

BOOK JACKET

Our House, 2006-01-01 Space has emerged in recent years as a radical category in a range of related disciplines across the humanities Of the many possible applications of this new interest some of the most exciting and challenging have addressed the issue of domestic architecture and its function as a space for both the dramatisation and the negotiation of a cluster of highly salient issues concerning amongst other things belonging and exclusion fear and desire identity and difference Our House is a cross disciplinary collection of essays taking as its focus both the prospect and the possibility of the house This latter term is taken in its broadest possible resonance encompassing everything from the great houses so beloved of nineteenth century English novelists to the caravans and mobile homes of the latterday travelling community and all points in between The essays are written by a combination of established and emerging scholars working in a variety of scholarly disciplines including literary criticism sociology cultural studies history popular music and architecture No specific school or theory predominates although the work of two key figures Gaston Bachelard and Martin Heidegger is engaged throughout This collection engages with a number of key issues raised by the increasingly troubled relationship between the cultural built and natural environments in the contemporary world

Private Voices, Public Lives Nancy Owen Nelson,1995 Interweaving the personal private voice with scholarly public intent Nelson and the other contributors argue for a more interactive and cooperative approach to the teaching reading critiquing and writing of literature These essays are a direct result of the desire by many women within the academic community to break free of what has been called the masculine or adversary mode of literary criticism Private Voices Public Lives is of critical importance to readers teachers reviewers and critics The essays incorporate ideas on current issues of autobiography memoir women s voice reader response diversity life writing and gender

One Writer's Imagination Suzanne Marrs,2002-09-01 In One Writer s Imagination Suzanne Marrs draws upon nearly twenty years of conversations interviews and friendship with Eudora Welty to discuss the intersections between biography and art in the Pulitzer Prize winner s work Through an engaging chronological and comprehensive reading of the Welty canon Marrs describes the ways Welty s creative process transformed and transfigured fact to serve the purposes of fiction She points to the sparks that lit Welty s imagination an imagination that thrived on polarities in her personal life and in society at large Marrs offers new evidence of the role Welty s mother circle of friends and community played in her development as a writer and analyzes the manner in which her most heartfelt relationships including her romance with John Robinson inform her work She charts the profound and often subtle ways Welty s fiction responded to the crucial historical episodes of her time notably the Great Depression World War II and the civil rights movement and the writer s personal reactions to war racism poverty and the political issues of her day In doing so Marrs proves Welty to be a much more political artist than has been conventionally thought Scrutinizing drafts of Welty s work Marrs reveals an evolving pattern of revision increasingly significant to the author s thematic concerns and precision of style Welty s achievement Marrs explains confirms theories of creativity even as it transcends them remaining in its origins somewhat mysterious Marrs s relationship to Eudora Welty as a friend scholar and archivist with access to private papers and restricted correspondence makes her a unique authority on Welty s forty year career The eclectic approach of her study speaks to the exhilarating power of imagination Welty so thoroughly enjoyed in the act of writing

Sharing Secrets Christine Palumbo-DeSimone,2000 The study reveals how the female world ultimately defined what constituted a story for nineteenth century women and presents a way for today s reader to approach these sometimes puzzling works of short fiction

Plantation Aids Brannon Costello,2007-12 In Plantation Aids Brannon Costello argues persuasively for new attention to the often neglected issue of class in southern literary studies Focusing on the relationship between racial paternalism and social class in American novels written after World War II Costello asserts that well into the twentieth century attitudes and behaviors associated with an idealized version of agrarian antebellum aristocracy especially those of racial paternalism were believed to be essential for white southerners The wealthy employed them to validate their identities as aristocrats while less affluent whites used them to separate themselves from white trash in the social hierarchy. Even those who were not legitimate heirs of plantation owning families found that putting on airs associated with the legacy of the plantation could align them with the forces of power and privilege and offer them a measure of authority in the public arena that they might otherwise lack. Fiction by Zora Neale Hurston, Eudora Welty, William Faulkner, Ernest Gaines, Walker Percy, and others reveals, however, that the racial paternalism central to class formation and mobility in the South was unraveling in the years after World War II when the civil rights movement and the South's increasing industrialization dramatically altered southern life. Costello demonstrates that these writers were keenly aware of the ways in which the changes sweeping the South complicated the deeply embedded structures that governed the relationship between race and class. He further contends that the collapse of racial paternalism as a means of organizing class lies at the heart of their most important works, including Hurston's Seraph on the Suwanee and her essay The Pet Negro System, Welty's Delta Wedding and The Ponder Heart, Faulkner's The Mansion and The Reivers, Gaines's Of Love and Dust, and his story Bloodline, and Percy's The Last Gentleman and Love in the Ruins. By examining ways in which these works depict and critique the fall of the plantation ideal and its aftermath, Plantation Airs indicates the richness and complexity of the literary responses to this intersection of race and class. Understanding how many of the modern South's best writers imagined and engaged the various facets of racial paternalism in their fiction, Costello confirms, helps readers construct a more comprehensive picture of the complications and contradictions of class in the South.

Willa Cather and Material Culture Janis P. Stout, 2005-01-02. A compilation of essays focusing on the significance of material culture to Cather's work and Cather scholarship. Willa Cather and Material Culture is a collection of 11 new essays that tap into a recent and resurgent interest among Cather scholars in addressing her work and her career through the lens of cultural studies. One of the volume's primary purposes is to demonstrate the extent to which Cather did participate in her culture and to correct the commonplace view of her as a literary connoisseur set apart from her times. The contributors explore both the objects among which Cather lived and the objects that appear in her writings as well as the commercial constraints of the publishing industry in which her art was made and marketed. Essays address her relationship to quilts, both personally and as symbols in her work; her contributions to domestic magazines such as Home Monthly and Woman's Home Companion; the problematic nature of Hollywood productions of her work; and her efforts and successes as a businesswoman. By establishing the centrality of material matters to her writing, these essays contribute to the reclaiming of Cather as a modernist and highlight the significance of material culture in general to the study of American literature.

Nineteenth-century Women Learn to Write Catherine Hobbs, 1995. What and how were nineteenth-century women taught through conduct books and hymnbooks? What did women learn about reading and writing at a state normal school and at the Cherokee Nation's female seminary? What did Radcliffe women think of rhetoric classes imported from Harvard? How did women begin to gain their voices through speaking and writing in literary societies and by keeping diaries and journals How did African American women use literacy as a tool for social action How did women's writing portray alternative views of the western frontier The essays in this volume address these questions and more in exploring the gendered nature of education in the nineteenth century These essays give a more complete picture of literacy in the nineteenth century Part one presents a panoply of sites and cultural contexts in which women learned to write including ideological contexts institutional sites and informal settings such as literary circles Part two examines specific genres texts and voices of literate women and students of writing and speaking Nineteenth Century Women Learn to Write interweaves thick feminist social history with theoretical perspectives from such diverse fields as linguistics and folklore feminist literary theory and African American and Native American studies The volume constitutes a major addition to traditional social science studies of literacy

Eudora Welty and Politics Harriet Pollack, Suzanne Marrs, 2001-03-01 This collection of complementary and interrelated essays by ten well known Welty critics brings welcome clarification to the controversial subject of Eudora Welty and the political a topic once presumed to be closed tight As the essays prove Welty has been inaccurately assessed by critics from Diana Trilling in the Nation 1943 to Claudia Roth Pierpont in the New Yorker 1998 as a writer who avoids political historical or cultural engagement in her fiction The better question these essayists explore is not whether but how Welty's work is to be understood as political Harriet Pollack Suzanne Marrs Peggy Prenshaw Noel Polk Suzan Harrison Ann Romines Rebecca Mark Barbara Ladd Sharon Baris and Dani le Pitavy Souques place Welty's seeming rejection of the political in her 1961 essay Must the Novelist Crusade into the cultural and historical context of 1940 1960 when individualism was a code word for political and personal freedom and was defined in contrast to totalitarianism as represented by Mussolini Hitler and Stalin Welty they show though she repudiated the concept of fiction as editorial wrote stories that were inherently and unavoidably political The essayists look closely at how surprisingly often Welty's fiction criticism and photographs are oblique responses to public political issues political corruption racial apartheid poverty McCarthyism and the Rosenberg trials violent resistance to the civil rights movement integration of schools and filial piety and southern reverence for identities of the cultural past The deceptive opposition of the terms private and political may be most at fault for misreading Welty As the only living author to be reedited by the Library of America Eudora Welty deserves a sound appreciation of her complex oeuvre Eudora Welty and Politics provides just that approaching Welty's work from an all new point of view to reveal how the writer repeatedly registered a political vision in her work

Cooking in Other Women's Kitchens Rebecca Sharpless, 2010-10-11 As African American women left the plantation economy behind many entered domestic service in southern cities and towns Cooking was one of the primary jobs they performed feeding generations of white families and in the process profoundly shaping southern foodways and culture Rebecca Sharpless argues that in the face of discrimination long workdays and low wages African American cooks worked to assert measures of control over their own lives As employment opportunities expanded in the twentieth century most African American women chose to leave cooking for more lucrative and less oppressive manufacturing clerical or professional positions Through letters autobiography and oral history Sharpless evokes African American women s voices from slavery to the open economy examining their lives at work and at home
