The Housing Battlefield:

The Housing Battlefield Peter Hutchinson, 2003 In this meticulously researched book Peter Hutchinson traces the trends developments and policies in the housing market during the last twenty years and describes the constant struggle to supply adequate accommodation for an ever increasing British population Government schemes such as low cost housing the right to buy and the London Docklands Development Corporation are examined in detail Hutchinson drawing upon examples and statistics from other countries to illustrate the successes and failures of the UK's efforts Official policy is illuminated by comprehensive surveys and individual stories including the author's own experiences The relationships of race transport environment and employment in Britain's housing problems are also considered as are the resulting battles against bureaucracy and prejudice

The Housing Bias P. Boudreaux, 2011-08-01 Arguing that our laws are skewed to benefit entrenched homeowners at the expense of newcomers and lower income households this book advocates both for libertarian ideals and for social justice an unusual and revealing combination

Finding Fulford - the Search for the First Battle Of 1066 Charles Jones, 2011 The battle of Fulford was fought just south of York on 20th September 1066 between the Northern Earls and King Harald Hardrada leading a Norse army Harald Hardrada had the treacherous Earl Tostig the brother of King Harold II king of England as his ally Tostig might have devised the strategy that detained his brother defending the south coast from the expected invasion from Normandy But King Harold was already on his way north when the battle took place Finding Fulford sets out a confident hypothesis for the location based on the body of evidence and research undertaken to find the first of the three battles of that autumn The report finds that the literature identifies a location south of York and the geology uniquely points to Germany Beck as the only militarily significant ditch mentioned in several sources as the place of the battle Modelling the way the landscape has changed since 1066 allows the descriptions provided for the battle to be tested The reconstructed surface provides positive feedback for the literature and helps to make more sense of what was written in Norse sources about the course of the battle The emergence of substantial quantities of ferrous material just south of the Beck reinforces the claim of Germany Beck as the place of the battle These notable concentrations of ferrous finds including tools axes and other shaped billets were co located with hearth bottoms slag charcoal and tuy res fragments The shape of the billets suggests a military rather than a civil use The interpretation provided is of post battle reprocessing There was not one centrally organised workshop since the number and spread of hearths suggests a gold rush perhaps with each warband processing material These sites were found to corresponded closely to the assumed area of the fighting and no similar sites were found in the surrounding areas which was also surveyed It is also suggested that the work was disrupted by the defeat of the Viking invaders at Stamford Bridge five days after their victory at Fulford This is an important assumption as it helps explain why so much material was abandoned at Fulford in a pattern that has not yet been found elsewhere The interrupted reprocessing hypothesis also explains why other sites of similar antiquity have failed to yield a single weapon fragment. If the recycling work had been completed only hearth debris would have been found so the Fulford site might be unique. Almost as important as the evidence that has emerged was that no contra indicators were found to cast doubt on the proposed site nor were any consistent pointers to another location identified even though much work was devoted to searching for alternate sites before Germany Beck was identified as the locus. The investigation of the Fulford battlefield was done under some unnecessarily restrictive conditions and a chapter is devoted to work that needs to be undertaken. The evidence suggests that the site still has much to reveal. Alongside the archaeological investigations the report relates the events of the three battles of 1066 and also provides a detailed narrative of the battle based on all that has been revealed by the work. The whole style of the work is designed to make it accessible to any interested reader.

Engaging Heritage, Engaging Communities Bryony Onciul, Michelle L. Stefano, Stephanie Hawke, 2017. International multi disciplinary perspectives on the key question of community engagement in theory and practice in a diverse range of heritage settings. Across the global networks of heritage sites museums and galleries the importance of communities to the interpretation and conservation of heritage is increasingly being recognised. Yet the very term meaningful community engagement betrays a myriad of contrary approaches and understandings. Who is a community? How can they engage with heritage and why would they want to? How do communities and heritage professionals perceive one another? What does it mean to engage? These questions unsettle the very foundations of community engagement and indicate a need to unpick this important but complex trend. Engaging Heritage Engaging Communities critically explores the latest debates and practices surrounding community collaboration. By examining the different ways in which communities participate in heritage projects the book questions the benefits costs and limitations of community engagement. Whether communities are engaging through innovative initiatives or in response to economic political or social factors there is a need to understand how such engagements are conceptualised facilitated and experienced by both the organisations and the communities involved. Bryony Onciul is Lecturer in History at the University of Exeter. Michelle Stefano is the Co Director of Maryland Traditions the folklife program for the state of Maryland and Visiting Assistant Professor in American Studies at the University of Maryland Baltimore County. Stephanie Hawke is a project manager and fundraiser working on a range of projects aiming to engage communities with cultural heritage. Contributors: Gregory Ashworth, Evita Busa, Helen Graham, Julian Hartley, Stephanie Hawke, Carl Hogsden, Shatha Abu Khafajah, Nicole King, Bernadette Lynch, Billie Lythberg, Conal McCarthy, Ashley Minner, Wayne Ngata, Bryony Onciul, Elizabeth Pishief, Gregory Ramshaw, Philipp Schorch, Justin Sikora, Michelle Stefano, Helen Tully, John Tunbridge.

Broken Cities Deborah Potts, 2020-04-15. From Britain's Generation Rent to Hong Kong's notorious cage homes societies around the world are facing a housing crisis of unprecedented proportions. The social consequences have been profound with a lack of affordable housing resulting in overcrowding homelessness broken families and in many countries a sharp decline in fertility. In Broken Cities

Deborah Potts offers a provocative new perspective on the global housing crisis arguing that the problem lies mainly with demand rather than supply Potts shows how market set rates of pay and incomes for vast numbers of households in the world's largest cities in the global South and North are simply too low to rent or buy any housing that is legal planned and decent As the influence of free market economics has increased the situation has worsened Potts argues that the crisis needs radical solutions With the world becoming increasingly urbanized this book provides a timely and urgent account of one of the most pressing social challenges of the 21st century Exploring the effects of the housing crisis across the global North and South Broken Cities is a warning of the greater crises to come if these issues are not addressed Glasgow 1919 Kenny

MacAskill,2019-01-22 The arrival of January 1919 sees Europe in turmoil with revolution breaking out across the Continent Glasgow's industrial community has been steeled by radicalism throughout the Great War and as the spectre of mass unemployment and poverty threatens a cadre of shop stewards supported by political activists is ready to strike for a forty hour week They face a state nervous of their strength and anxious about the wider consequences of their action with the War Cabinet monitoring the situation closely On 31 January now known as Bloody Friday tensions came to a head when 60 000 demonstrators clashed with police in George Square The Scottish Bolshevik Revolution so termed by the Secretary of State for Scotland erupted with tanks and 10 000 soldiers immediately despatched to the city to enforce order The strike may have failed but 1922 saw the arrival of Red Clydeside as the Independent Labour Party swept the board in the general election Now 100 years on Kenny MacAskill separates fact from fiction in this adept social history to explore how the events of that fateful day transpired and why their legacy still endures Drawing on original material from speeches and newspaper reports of the time MacAskill also paints a vivid picture of the solidarity amongst the working class in a rousing testimony to Glasgow's long radical history The Integration and Protection of Immigrants Paul Van Aerschot,Patricia Daenzer,2016-02-24

In Scandinavian countries immigration is a sensitive issue and legislators approach to the questions it has raised has varied over the years Whatever immigrant and integration policies are adopted in a democratic society it is clear that the legislation and the authorities have to ensure that the individual rights of the immigrants residing in its territory are respected With Canada as a point of reference this book draws attention to weaknesses in the regulation and implementation of integration provisions threatening the immigrants individual rights in the EU member states of Denmark Finland and Sweden The study challenges readers to critically review the meaning of rights and the notion of global caring It takes a critical look at how vulnerable immigrants fare in a largely immigrant nation with a welfare capitalism legacy when compared to three European nations which claim to embrace institutional welfare models This book will be of great interest to scholars and decision makers interested in Scandinavian or Canadian immigration and integration policies 1970 Census of Housing ,1971
