Successful Writing for Qualitative Researchers Peter Woods, Pat Sikes, 2022-03-31 The fully updated third edition of Successful Writing for Qualitative Researchers includes new material on the nature of qualitative research and the significance of contemporary circumstances in which academic writers have to work as well as ethical considerations and authorial responsibilities. It provides a wealth of information and practical tips required to successfully translate qualitative research into writing. Using a wide range of examples the authors provide tried and tested methods that explore the mindsets, strategies and techniques involved in successful qualitative writing and the opportunities and rewards that are available. Considering the continuing pressure on researchers to produce high quality writing in difficult circumstances this book contains a wealth of information and provides guidance on: The nature of qualitative research; The conditions for successful writing; The responsibilities of the author; Getting started and keeping going; Organising your work; Traditional and arts based modes of writing; Styles of writing; Editing your work; Preparing for publication. Clear, concise and engaging, this must-read guide is suitable for all those in the social sciences seeking to formulate their qualitative research into writing with maximum effectiveness, including undergraduates, postgraduates and academics, whether in dissertations, theses, research reports, journal and magazine articles, conference papers or books.

Designs for Experimentation and Inquiry Åsa

Mäkitalo, Todd E. Nicewonger, Mark Elam, 2019-06-27. Designs for Experimentation and Inquiry examines how digital media is reconfiguring the established worlds of research, education and professional practice. It reflects on the theoretical, methodological and ethical issues shaping contemporary engagements with digital learning and offers insights for both analysing and intervening in digital learning practices. This insightful volume fills a gap in the current literature by bringing together experiences from Sociocultural Studies of Learning, Science and Technology Studies and Design Studies. Each chapter is an innovative case study examining a different aspect of digital media's role in research, education and professional practice by exploring topics such as Learning practices and digitalized dialogue, Digital design experiments, Digitally mediated collaborations, Ethical digital inquiry and design. Expertly researched and written, this book is a unique resource for scholars, researchers and professionals working in the fields of digital design, applied technology and the learning sciences. The Preface and Introduction as well as Chapters 3 and 5 of this book are freely available as downloadable Open Access PDFs at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com> under a Creative Commons Attribution-NonCommercial-NoDerivatives (CC BY-NC-ND 4.0) license.

Researching Ethically across Cultures Anna Robinson-Pant, Nidhi Singal, 2018-02-02

Whether an individual doctoral study or a large scale multidisciplinary project, researchers working across cultures face particular challenges around power, identity and voice as they encounter ethical dilemmas which extend beyond the micro level of the researcher-researched relationship. In using a cross-cultural perspective on how to conceptualise research problems, collect data and disseminate findings in an ethical manner, they also engage with the geopolitics of academic writing, language inequalities and knowledge construction within a globalised economy. It is increasingly recognised that existing ethical codes and paradigms either do not sufficiently address such issues or tend to be rather restrictive and insensitive to multiple and complex cultural and contextual differences This book extends our understanding of the ethical issues and dilemmas faced by researchers in comparative and international education It asks what the relevance of postcolonial theory is for understanding research ethics in comparative and international education whether Western ethical practices in qualitative social research are incompatible with cultures outside the West how a situated approach can be developed for exploring research ethics across cultures and institutions and how informed consent can be negotiated when the process appears to contradict community values and practices In sharing experiences from a wide range of cultural and institutional contexts the authors offer both theoretical resources and practical guidance for conducting research ethically across cultures This book was originally published as a special issue of Compare A Journal of Comparative and International Education

Case Study Research in Practice Helen Simons, 2009-03-18 Case Study Research in Practice explores the theory and practice of case study research Helen Simons draws on her extensive experience of teaching and conducting case study to provide a comprehensive and practical account of how to design conduct and communicate case study research It addresses questions often raised by students and common misconceptions about case research In four sections the book covers Rationale concept and design of case study research Methods ethics and reflexivity in case study Interpreting analyzing and reporting the case Generalizing and theorizing in case study research Rich with tales from the field and summary memos as an aide memoire to future action the book provides fresh insights and challenges for researchers to guide their practice of case study research This is an ideal text for those studying and conducting case study research in education health and social care and related social science disciplines Helen Simons is Professor Emeritus of Education University of Southampton

Research Methods for Social Justice and Equity in Education Liz Atkins, Vicky Duckworth, 2019-02-21 Research Methods for Social Justice and Equity in Education offers researchers a full understanding of very important concepts showing how they can be used a means to develop practical strategies for undertaking research that makes a difference to the lives of marginalised and disadvantaged learners It explores different conceptualisations of social justice and equity and leads the reader through a discussion of what their implications are for undertaking educational research that is both moral and ethical and how it can be enacted in the context of their chosen research method and a variety of others both well known and more innovative The authors draw on real practical examples from a range of educational contexts including early childhood special and inclusive education and adult education and cultures located in both western and developing nations in order to exemplify how researchers can use methods which contribute to the creation of more equitable education systems In this way the authors provide a global perspective of the contrasting and creative ways in which researchers reflect on and integrate principles of social justice in their methods and their methodological decision making It encourages the reader to think critically about their own research by asking key questions such as what contribution can research for equity and social justice make to new and emerging methods and methodologies And how can researchers implement socially just research methods from a position of power This book concludes by proposing a range of methods and methodologies which researchers can use to challenge inequality and work towards social justice offering a springboard from which they can further their own studies
