Six Poets Of Racial Uplift:

Six Poets of Racial Uplift Effie T. Battle, Gertrude Arquene Fisher, Myra Viola Wilds, 1996 The six poets represented in this volume wrote during the first decades of this century a period after Reconstruction and before the Harlem Renaissance when a new generation of African Americans continued the struggle against injustice violence and hypocrisy and strove for the betterment of their race The poetry of these writers while to some extent conventional even derivative is nevertheless noteworthy for what Pemberton in her introduction calls its emphatic proclamation of self worth dignity and membership in a community of upstanding and proud black people

American Poetry in Performance Tyler Hoffman, 2013-05-29 American Performance Poetry is the first book to trace a comprehensive history of performance poetry in America from Whitman through the rap meets poetry scene and to show how the performance of poetry is bound up with the performance of identity and nationality in the modern period This book will be a meaningful contribution both to the field of American poetry studies and to the fields of cultural and performance studies as it focuses on poetry that refuses the status of fixed aesthetic object and in its variability performs versions of race class gender and sexuality both on and off the page Relating the performance of poetry to shifting political and cultural ideologies in the United States Hoffman argues that the vocal aspect of public poetry possesses or has been imagined to possess the ability to help construct both national and subaltern communities In doing so American Performance Poetry explores public poets' confrontations with emergent sound recording and communications technologies as those confrontations shape their mythologies of the spoken word and their corresponding notions about America and Americanness

Uplifting the Race Kevin K. Gaines, 2012-12-01 Amidst the violent racism prevalent at the turn of the twentieth century African American cultural elites struggling to articulate a positive black identity developed a middle class ideology of racial uplift Insisting that they were truly representative of the race's potential black elites espoused an ethos of self help and service to the black masses and distinguished themselves from the black majority as agents of civilization hence the phrase uplifting the race A central assumption of racial uplift ideology was that African Americans material and moral progress would diminish white racism But Kevin Gaines argues that in its emphasis on class distinctions and patriarchal authority racial uplift ideology was tied to pejorative notions of racial pathology and thus was limited as a force against white prejudice Drawing on the work of W E B Du Bois Anna Julia Cooper Alice Dunbar Nelson Hubert H Harrison and others Gaines focuses on the intersections between race and gender in both racial uplift ideology and black nationalist thought showing that the meaning of uplift was intensely contested even among those who shared its aims Ultimately elite conceptions of the ideology retreated from more democratic visions of uplift as social advancement leaving a legacy that narrows our conceptions of rights citizenship and social justice

Pauline Hopkins and the American Dream Alisha Knight, 2011-04-15 Pauline Elizabeth Hopkins was perhaps the most prolific black female writer of her time Between 1900 and 1904 writing mainly for Colored American Magazine she published four novels at least seven short stories and numerous articles that often addressed the injustices and challenges facing African Americans in post Civil War America In Pauline Hopkins and the American Dream Alisha Knight provides the first full length critical analysis of Hopkins's work Scholars have frequently situated Hopkins within the domestic sentimental tradition of nineteenth century women's writing with some critics observing that aspects of her writing particularly its emphasis on the self made man seem out of place within the domestic tradition Knight argues that Hopkins used this often dismissed theme to critique American society's ingrained racism and sexism In her Famous Men and Famous Women series for Colored American Magazine she constructed her own version of the success narrative by offering models of African American self made men and women Meanwhile in her fiction

she depicted heroes who fail to achieve success or must leave the United States to do so Hopkins risked and eventually lost her position at Colored American Magazine by challenging black male leaders liberal white philanthropists and white racists and by conceiving a revolutionary treatment of the American Dream that placed her far ahead of her time Hopkins is finally getting her due and this clear eyed analysis of her work will be a revelation to literary scholars historians of African American history and students of women s studies Alisha Knight is an associate professor of English and American Studies at Washington College Her published articles include Furnace Blasts for the Tuskegee Wizard Revisiting Pauline E Hopkins Booker T Washington and the Colored American Magazine which appeared in American Periodicals
