Studies In Economic Planning Over Space And Time:

Studies in Economic Planning Over Space and Time George G. Judge, Takashi Takayama, 1976      Studies in Economic Planning Over Space and Time George G. Judge, 1973      Readings in Econometric Theory and Practice W.E. Griffiths, H. Lütkepohl, M.E. Bock, 2014-06-28

This volume honors George Judge and his many varied and outstanding contributions to econometrics statistics mathematical programming and spatial equilibrium modeling The papers are grouped into four parts each part representing an area in which Professor Judge has made a significant contribution The authors have all benefited in some way directly or indirectly through an association with George Judge and his work The three papers in Part I are concerned with various aspects of pre test and Stein rule estimation Part II contains applications of Bayesian methodology new developments in Bayesian methodology and an overview of Bayesian econometrics The papers in Part III comprise new developments in time series analysis improved estimation and Markov chain analysis The final part on spatial equilibrium modeling contains papers that had their origins from Professor Judge's pioneering work in the 60s      A Select Bibliography On Economic Development John P. Powelson, 2019-05-20 This bibliography of more than 2 000 titles contains both books and journal articles primarily those published since 1970 Most of the entries are annotated The material is classified according to forty eight categories and there is also a list of relevant titles for each major country in Africa Asia and Latin America

Recent Advances in Spatial Equilibrium Modelling Jeroen C.J.M. van den Bergh, Peter Nijkamp, Piet Rietveld, 2012-12-06 Prices and quantities of both stock and flow variables in an economic system are decisively influenced by their spatial coordinates Any equilibrium state also mirrors the underlying spatial structure and a tatonnement process also incorporates the spatial ramifications of consumer and producer behaviour The recognition of the spatial element in the formation of a general equilibrium in a complex space economy already dates back to early work of Losch Isard and Samuelson but it reached a stage of maturity thanks to the new inroads made by Takayama This book is devoted to spatial economic equilibrium SPE analysis and is meant to pay homage to the founding father of modern spatial economic thinking Professor Takayama This book witnesses his great talents in clear and rigorous economic thinking regarding an area where for decades many economists have been groping in the dark Everybody who wants to study the phenomenon of spatial economic equilibrium will necessarily come across Takayama's work but this necessity is at the same time a great pleasure Studying his work means a personal scientific enrichment in a field which is still not completely explored The present volume brings together recent contributions to spatial equilibrium analysis written by friends and colleagues of Takayama The structure of the book is based on four main uses of spatial equilibrium models i the imbedding of spatial flows in the economic environment related to e.g.      Commodity Models for Forecasting and Policy Analysis Walter C. Labys, Peter K. Pollak, 2024-02-01 Originally published in 1984 this book remains as relevant as when it was first published At that time the oil crises of the 1970s and the growing international debt burden highlighted the extent to which events in primary commodity markets continue to influence the economies of developing and industrialized economies alike Commodity modelling has become a valuable tool in efforts to predict and understand the behaviour of commodity markets and thereby reduce their fluctuations This book provides an overview of the nature of the different types of commodity model as well as their diverse applications In non technical language the reader is introduced to the underlying modelling methodologies including their advantages limitations and commodity specific implications The book will be of interest to commodity economists traders and analysts economic planners and those involved in agricultural mineral and energy modelling

Energy, Regional Science and Public Policy M. Chatterji, P. van Rompuy, 2012-12-06 For the last three decades space has become a significant dimension in social science analysis In many developed countries economic growth is slowing down and in some cases restrained due to environmental considerations and the real question is the optimum spread of development over space rather than the growth over time In the developing countries limited and uneven distribution of population and resources and the existence of heterogeneous groups highlighted the need of balanced regional development The energy crisis and the realization that energy resources are very limited and unequally distributed have further emphasized its importance The expected impact and relocation due to energy shortages will have a crucial spatial dimension since manufacturing and service activities dependent on energy are concentrated in a few metropolitan regions connected by transportation communication and cultural factors Regional environment is also dependent on the spatial juxtaposition of activities and energy use The papers included in this volume address some of these considerations They were presented in the International Conference on Regional Science Energy and Environment held at Katholieke Universiteit te Leuven Belgium on May 1975 A second volume titled Environment Regional Science and Interregional Modeling published also by Springer Verlag contains research papers related to environment and space This book does not concern all facets of the energy situation In fact contributions on major oil producing countries U S S R East European and developing countries are not represented Research Paper FPL-RP, 1986 Decision-making and Agriculture Theodor Dams, Kenneth Edward Hunt, 1977 Understanding Local Economic Development Emil Malizia, Edward J. Feser, Henry Renski, Joshua Drucker, 2020-10-05 This book offers insights into the process and the practice of local economic development Bridging the gap between theory and practice it demonstrates the relevance of theory to inform local strategic planning in the context of widespread disparities in regional economic performance The book summarizes the core theories of economic development applies each of these to professional practice and provides detailed commentary on them This updated second edition includes more recent contributions regional innovation agglomeration and dynamic theories and presents the major ideas that inform economic development strategic planning particularly in the United States and Canada The text offers theoretical insights that help explain why some regions thrive while others languish and why metropolitan economies often rise and fall over time Without theory economic developers can only do what is politically feasible This text however provides them with a logical tool for thinking about development and establishing an independent basis from which to build the local consensus needed for evidence based action undertaken in the public interest Offering valuable perspectives on both the process and the practice of local and regional economic development this book will be useful for both current and future economic developers to think more profoundly and confidently about their local economy The Open Access version of this book available at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com> has been made available under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives CC BY NC ND 4.0 license

Recent decades have brought dramatic changes to China's economy, society and governance. Analyzing such changes in the context of multiple disciplinary perspectives offers opportunities as well as challenges for scholars in the field known as contemporary China studies. The SAGE Handbook of Contemporary China is a two-volume exploration of the transformations of contemporary China, firmly grounded in the both disciplinary and China-specific contexts. Drawing on a range of scholarly approaches found in the social sciences and history, an international team of contributors engage with the question of what a rapidly changing China means for the broader field of contemporary China studies and identify areas of promising future research.

Handbook of Regional and Urban Economics, Peter Nijkamp, Edwin S. Mills, 1986. This second volume of the Handbook presents professional surveys of all the important topics in urban economics. The first section contains 6 surveys on locational analysis, the second 5 surveys of specific urban markets, and the third part presents 5 surveys of government policy issues. The book brings together exhaustive research by distinguished scholars from many countries. It is the only complete survey volume of urban economics and should serve as a reference volume to scholars and graduate students for many years. Applied Spatial Modelling and Planning, John R. Lombard, Eliahu Stern, Graham Clarke, 2016-10-04. This book highlights the extraordinary range of areas to which geographical analysis and spatial modelling can bring lessons and insights. It shows how these techniques have been used to address real-world issues that are of concern to international organisations, public agencies and businesses, as illustrated by actual funded projects that geographers have developed collaboratively with end users. Applied Spatial Modelling and Planning shows how much geographical research is policy relevant to a wide variety of agencies through the use of GIS and spatial modelling in applied geography. The book's chapters contain a cross-section of innovative applications and approaches to problem-solving within five major domains of the dynamics of economic space: housing and settlements, population movements and population ageing, health care and the environment. Using a number of case studies on the use of GIS and spatial modelling, this book demonstrates the fact that much of what is done by quantitative geographers is not only relevant within academia but also has use in policy work. This book will appeal to an international audience interested in cutting-edge spatial modelling to better understand the processes involved in solving real problems.
