Ussher,Christine D. Baker,1993 The regulation of sexuality and the careful distinction between normality and abnormality has a long and checkered history with psychologists at the forefront of this debate Yet any attempt to identify a simple and unitary psychology of sexual problems inevitably becomes the focus of a great deal of criticism particularly from the disciplines of psychoanalysis and feminism The aim of Psychological Perspectives on Sexual Problems is both to provoke and to promote a glasnost between those whose work directly involves research and intervention in the arena of sexuality and those who would deconstruct criticize and reframe any understanding of sexuality outside of the dominant discourse of psychology The contributors examine the psychological theories associated with sexuality and sexual problems and at the same time present examples of positive and empowering practice with groups of individuals whose sexuality is often ignored or marginalized These individuals include those with learning difficulties or physical disabilities sex offenders gay men with AIDS and women with eating disorders Psychological Perspectives on Sexual Problems is the first text to integrate critical theory and current clinical practice in an attempt to arrive at a revolutionary approach to the psychology of sexuality Introducing the New Sexuality Studies Steven Seidman,Nancy L.

The Pursuit of Happiness Bianca C. Williams, 2018-02-08 In The Pursuit of Happiness Bianca C Williams traces the experiences of African American women as they travel to Jamaica where they address the perils and disappointments of American racism by looking for intimacy happiness and a connection to their racial identities Through their encounters with Jamaican online communities and their participation in trips organized by Girlfriend Tours International the women construct notions of racial sexual and emotional belonging by forming relationships with Jamaican men and other girlfriends These relationships allow the women to exercise agency and find happiness in ways that resist the damaging intersections of racism and patriarchy in the United States However while the women require a spiritual and virtual connection to Jamaica in order to live happily in the United States their notion of happiness relies on travel which requires leveraging their national privilege as American citizens Williams's theorization of emotional transnationalism and the construction of affect across diasporic distance attends to the connections between race gender and affect while highlighting how affective relationships mark nationalized and gendered power differentials within the African diaspora

The Intimate Lives of Disabled People Kirsty Liddiard, 2017-12-01 Disabled people are routinely assumed to lack the capabilities and capacities to embody and experience sexuality and desire as well as the agency to love and be loved by others and build their own families if they so choose Centring on the sexual intimate and erotic lives of disabled people this book presents a rare opportunity to understand and ask critical questions about such widely held assumptions In essence this book is a collection of sexual stories told by disabled people on their own terms and in their own ways Stories that shed light on areas of disability love and life that are typically overlooked and ignored A sociological analysis of these stories reveals the creative ways in which disabled people manage and negotiate their sexual and intimate lives in contexts where these are habitually denied In its calls for disabled people's sexual and intimate citizenship stories are drawn upon as the means to create social change and build more radically inclusive sexual cultures In this ground breaking feminist critical disability studies text The Intimate Lives of Disabled People introduces and contributes to contemporary debates around disability sexuality and intimacy in the 21st century Its arguments are relevant and accessible to researchers academics and students across a wide range of disciplines such as sociology gender studies psychology social work and philosophy as well as disabled people their families and allies and the professionals who work with and for them
