Ashton, 2022-03-29 Individual Differences and Personality Fourth Edition provides a comprehensive overview of research regarding what personality is and how and why it differs between people This book begins with a description of the study of personality and then presents basic principles of personality measurement the concept of personality traits and the major dimensions of personality variation Further chapters review personality change and stability biological causal mechanisms genetic and environmental influences and evolutionary adaptive function Personality disorders are examined as are life outcomes such as relationships work and health that are predicted by personality characteristics In addition the book examines important individual differences beyond personality such as mental abilities religious beliefs political attitudes and sexuality Revisions to the fourth edition include updates to all chapters and substantial new content For example the developmental change chapter includes new studies of long term stability and the biological bases chapter includes new research about the effects of dopamine like substances on impulse control The genetics chapter has been heavily revised to cover recent meta analyses and large scale studies of the heritability of personality traits In the chapter on the evolutionary function of personality the discussion of sex differences is expanded to include cross cultural variation The chapter on personality and life outcomes includes new coverage of rating the personality of one s hypothetical ideal partner The chapter on mental ability has updates on brain volume and IQ and on motivation and IQ Contains both theory and research Examines the impact of personality on life outcomes Includes new content from meta analyses Retains chapters and organization with fully updated material Explores environmental genetic and evolutionary perspectives Presents an accessible style that is suitable for courses on individual differences Personality and Individual Differences Philip Corr, Professor Philip Corr, 2018-12-13 Revisiting the Classic Studies is a series of texts that introduces readers to the studies in psychology that changed the way we think about core topics in the discipline today It provokes students to ask more interesting and challenging questions about the field by encouraging a deeper level of engagement both with the details of the studies themselves and with the nature of their contribution Edited by leading scholars in their field and written by researchers at the cutting edge of these developments the chapters in each text provide details of the original works and their theoretical and empirical impact and then discuss the ways in which thinking and research has advanced in the years since the studies were conducted Personality and Individual Differences Revisiting the Classic Studies traces 14 ground breaking studies by researchers such as Hans Eysenck Raymond Cattell Ernest Tupes and Raymond Christal to re examine and reflect on their findings and engage in a lively discussion of the subsequent work that they have inspired Learning and Individual

Differences Robert M. Gagné, 1967 Individual differences in associative learning Robin A. Murphy, Rachel M. Msetfi, 2014-09-24 Theories of associative learning have a long history in advancing the psychological account of behavior via cognitive representation There are many components and variations of associative theory but at the core is the idea that links or connections between stimuli or responses describe important aspects of our psychological experience This Frontiers Topic considers how variations in association formation can be used to account for differences between people elaborating the differences between males and females differences over the life span understanding of psychopathologies or even across cultural contexts A recent volume on the application of learning theory to clinical psychology is one example of this emerging application e g Hazelgrove Hogarth 2012 The task for students of learning has been the development often with mathematically defined explanations of the parameters and operators that determine the formation and strengths of associations The ultimate goal is to explain how the acquired representations influence future behavior This approach has recently been influential in the field of neuroscience where one such learning operator the error correction principle has unified the understanding of the conditions which facilitate neuron activation with the computational goals of the brain with properties of learning algorithms e g Rescorla Wagner 1972 In this Frontiers Research Topic we are interested in a similar but currently developing aspect to learning theory which is the application of the associative model to our understanding of individual differences including psychopathology In general learning theories are monolithic the same theory applies to the rat and the human and within people the same algorithm is applied to all individuals If so this might be thought to suggest that there is little that learning theory can tell us about the how males and females differ how we change over time or why someone develops schizophrenia for instance However these theories have wide scope for developing our understanding of when learning occurs and when it is interfered with along with a variety of methods of predicting these differences We received contributions from researchers studying individual differences including sex differences age related changes and those using analog or clinical samples of personality and psychopathological disorders where the outcomes of the research bear directly on theories of associative learning This Research Topic brings together researchers studying basic learning and conditioning processes but in which the basic emotional attentional pathological or more general physiological differences between groups of people are modeled using associative theory This work involves varying stimulus properties and temporal relations or modeling the differences between groups Who is Rational? Keith E. Stanovich, 1999 This volume reviews a body of research on individual differences in thinking and reasoning and brings Stanovich's conclusions to bear on the longstanding debate over whether people are or are not rational thinkers needed to understand modern theories It also develops deep processing and effective learning by encouraging a critical evaluation of both older and modern theories and methodologies including the Dark Triad emotional intelligence and psychopathy Gardner s and hierarchical theories of intelligence and modern theories of mood and motivation are discussed and evaluated and the processes which cause people to differ in personality and intelligence are explored in detail Six chapters provide a non mathematical grounding in psychometric principles such as factor analysis reliability validity bias test construction and test use With self assessment questions further reading and a companion website including student and instructor resources this is the ideal resource for anyone taking modules on personality and individual differences

Learning and Individual Differences Phillip Lawrence Ackerman,1989     Driver Performance and Individual Differences in Attention and Information Processing: Driver inattention David Shinar,1978     Handbook of Individual Differences in Social Behavior Mark R. Leary,Rick H. Hoyle,2013-12-17 How do individual differences interact with situational factors to shape social behavior Are people with certain traits more likely to form lasting marriages experience test taking anxiety break the law feel optimistic about the future This handbook provides a comprehensive authoritative examination of the full range of personality variables associated with interpersonal judgment behavior and emotion The contributors are acknowledged experts who have conducted influential research on the constructs they address Chapters discuss how each personality attribute is conceptualized and assessed review the strengths and limitations of available measures including child and adolescent measures when available present important findings related to social behavior and identify directions for future study     Individual Differences in Movement D.B. Kirkcaldy,2012-12-06 This book is an attempt to bridge the gap between differential psychology and human movement It is curious that each discipline has received considerable attention in its own right but little effort has been made to cross fertilize them Some experimentalists view this union as the equivalent of committing academic adultery they have tended to concentrate on general theories and models of motor control and movement viewing individual differences as awkward and best assigned to the error variance component of an analysis By neglecting person variables valuable information is discarded people do differ in terms of ability attitude motivation and temperament and it is hardly surprising that such differences interact with a variety of experimental and situational para digms The causes and determinants of individual differences must be examined at an interdisciplinary level incorporating studies from experimental physio logical clinical and educational psychology This synthesis could not have been actualized by any single contributor For this reason a multi authored approach has been adopted in which 17 specialists have been assembled to present the current position of individual difference research in their respective disciplines The authors were granted maximum freedom in their selection and present ation of material What emerges is hopefully a novel and informative col lection of articles addressed to a wide audience and providing an impulse for further research

Handbook of Individual Differences in Reading Peter Afflerbach,2015-08-11 The central unifying theme of this state of the art contribution to research on literacy is its rethinking and reconceptualization of individual differences in reading Previous research focused on cognitive components of reading signaled the need for ongoing work to identify relevant individual differences in reading to determine the relationships of individual differences to reading development and to account for interactions among individual differences Addressing developments in each of these areas this volume also describes affective individual differences and the environments in which individual differences in reading may emerge operate interact and change The scant comprehensive accounting of individual differences in reading is reflected in the nature of reading instruction programs today the outcomes that are expected from successful teaching and learning and the manner in which reading development is assessed An important contribution of this volume is to provide prima facie evidence of the benefits of broad conceptualization of the ways in which readers differ The Handbook of Individual Differences in Reading moves the field forward by encompassing cognitive non cognitive contextual and methodological concerns Its breadth of coverage serves as both a useful summary of the current state of knowledge and a guide for future work in this area

Chess and Individual Differences Angel Blanch,2020-12-17 Research from the neurosciences and behavioural sciences highlights the importance of individual differences in explaining human behaviour Individual differences in core psychological constructs such as intelligence or personality account for meaningful variations in a vast range of responses and behaviours Aspects of chess have been increasingly used in the past to evaluate a myriad of psychological theories and several of these studies consider individual differences to be key constructs in their respective fields This book summarizes the research surrounding the psychology of chess from an individual differences perspective The findings accumulated from nearly forty years worth of research about chess and individual differences are brought together to show what is known and still unknown about the psychology of chess with an emphasis on how people differ from one another

Individual Differences in Addictive Behaviors Lucy J. Troup,Young-A Lee,2024-05-29 The study of addiction draws primarily on methods and approaches to understanding treating and supporting addiction drawn from traditional approaches The foundations of which focus on responses seen across groups but often neglecting to account for the role the individual differences plays in understanding and treating addiction It is clear from the literature that there is often a lack of consensus in both understanding and treating those struggling with addiction Individual differences therefore whilst not always conforming to the accepted model for developing theoretical interpretations and practice in the field are key to successful outcomes in treating addiction

Studies in Individual Differences. [By Various Authors.] The Search for Intelligence. (James J. Jenkins and Donald G. Patterson [sic], Editors.) [With Illustrations.]. James Jerome JENKINS (and PATERSON (Donald Gildersleeve)),Donald Gildersleeve PATERSON,1961 The Routledge Handbook of Second Language Acquisition and Individual Differences Shaofeng Li,Phil Hiver,Mostafa Papi,2022-05-30 The Routledge Handbook of Second Language Acquisition and Individual Differences provides a thorough in depth discussion of the theory research and pedagogy pertaining to the role individual difference ID factors play in second language acquisition SLA It goes beyond the traditional repertoire and includes 32 chapters covering a full spectrum of topics on learners cognitive conative affective and demographic sociocultural variation The volume examines IDs from two perspectives one is how each ID variable is associated with learning behaviors processes and outcomes the other is how each domain of SLA such as vocabulary or reading is affected by clusters of ID variables The volume also includes a section on the common methods used in ID research including data elicitation instruments such as surveys interviews and psychometric testing as well as methods of data analysis such as structural equation modeling The book is a must read for any second language researcher or applied linguist interested in investigating the effects of IDs on language learning and for any educator interested in taking account of learners individual differences to maximize the effects of second language instruction Individual Differences: From Neurobiological Bases to New Insight on Approach and Avoidance Behavior Daniela Laricchiuta, 2016-01-22 The superordinate division of emotions is distributed along a bipolar dimension of affective valence from approaching rewarding situations to avoiding punitive situations Avoiding and approaching behaviors determine the disposition to the primary emotions of fear and attachment and the behavioral responses to the environmental stimuli of danger novelty and reward Approach or avoidance behaviors are associated with the brain pathways controlling cognitive and attentional function reward sensitivity and emotional expression involving prefrontal cortex amygdala striatum and cerebellum Individual differences in approach and avoidance behavior might be modulated by normal variance in the level of functioning of different neurotransmitter systems such as dopaminergic serotonergic noradrenergic and endocannabinoid systems as well as many peptides such as corticotropin releasing hormone These substances act at various central target areas to increase intensity of appetitive or defensive motivation Physiologically personality temperaments of approach and avoidance are viewed as instigators of propensity They produce immediate affective cognitive and behavioral inclinations in response to stimuli and orient individuals across domains and situations in a consistent fashion Although the action undoubtedly emerges directly from these temperamental proclivities ultimate behavioral outcomes are often a function of the integration among goal pursuit self regulation and temperament trait Defective coping strategies to aversive or rewarding stimuli characterize the patho physiology of anxiety and stress related disorders or compulsive and addiction behaviors respectively Individuals with neuropsychiatric symptoms such as depression suicidal behavior bipolar mania schizophrenia substance use disorders pathological gambling and anxiety disorders have scores which fall at the extreme tails of the normal distribution for a specific temperamental trait The present Research Topic on the individual differences in emotional and motivational processing emphasizes the link between neuronal pattern and behavioral expression The Topic includes experimental and clinical researches addressing the individual differences related to approach and avoidance and their behavioral characterization structural and neurochemical profiles synaptic connections and receptor expressions Studies are organized in a framework that puts in evidence the phenotypic expression and neurobiological patterns characterizing the individual differences and their biological variance
