analysis methods has been developed for the study of human engagement experience and socialisation within the built environment Many although not all of these emanate from the fields of architectural and urban studies and draw upon social theories of space that lay emphasis on the role of visibility movement and accessibility in the built environment These approaches are now gaining in popularity among researchers of prehistoric and historic built spaces and are given increasingly more weight in the interpretation of past urban environments Spatial Analysis and Social Spaces brings together contributions from specialists in archaeology social theory and urban planning who explore the theoretical and methodological frameworks associated with the application of new and established spatial analysis methods in past built environments The focus is mainly on more recent computer based approaches and on techniques such as access analysis visibility graph analysis isovist analysis agent based models of pedestrian movement and 3D visibility approaches The contributors to this volume examine the relationship between space and social life from many different perspectives and provide illuminating examples from the archaeology of Greece Italy and Cyprus in which intra site analysis offers valuable insights into the built spaces and societies under study Paperbound Books in Print ,1991 The Mayan Languages

Design Computing and Cognition '08 John S. Gero,Ashok K. Goel,2008-09-27 The importance of research and education in design continues to grow For example government agencies are gradually increasing funding of design research and increasing numbers of engineering schools are revising their curricula to emphasize design This is because of an increasing realization that design is part of the wealth creation of a nation and needs to be better understood and taught The continuing globalization of industry and trade has required nations to re examine where their core contributions lie if not in production efficiency Design is a precursor to manufacturing for physical objects and is the precursor to implementation for virtual objects At the same time the need for sustainable development is requiring design of new products and processes and feeding a movement towards design novations and inventions There are now three sources for design research design computing design cognition and human centered information technology The foundations for much of design computing remains artificial intelligence with its focus on ways of representation and on processes that support simulation and generation Artificial intelligence continues to provide an environmentally rich paradigm within which design research based on computational constructions can be carried out Design cognition is founded on concepts from cognitive science an even newer area than artificial intelligence It provides tools and methods to study human designers in both laboratory and practice settings

Quantitative Analysis of Dependency Structures Jingyang Jiang, Haitao Liu, 2018-10-08 Dependency analysis is increasingly used in computational linguistics and cognitive science Surprisingly compared with studies based on phrase structures quantitative methods and dependency structure are rarely integrated in research This is the first book that collects original contributions which quantitatively analyze dependency structures across different languages and text genres
