Studies In Turkish Linguistics Typological Studies In Language:

Studies in Turkish Linguistics Dan Isaac Slobin, Karl Zimmer, 1986-01-01 Turkish is a member of the Turkic family of languages which extends over a vast area in southern and eastern Siberia and adjacent portions of Iran Afghanistan and China Turkic in turn belongs to the Altaic family of languages This book deals with the morphological and syntactic semantic and discourse based synchronic and diachronic aspects of the Turkish language Although an interest in morphosyntactic issues pervades the entire collection the contributions can be grouped in terms of relative attention to syntax semantics and discourse and acquisition

Handbook of Quantifiers in Natural Language: Volume II Denis Paperno, Edward L. Keenan, 2017-06-30 This work presents the structure distribution and semantic interpretation of quantificational expressions in languages from diverse language families and typological profiles The current volume pays special attention to underrepresented languages of different status and endangerment level Languages covered include American and Russian Sign Languages and sixteen spoken languages from Africa Australia Papua the Americas and different parts of Asia The articles respond to a questionnaire the editors constructed to enable detailed crosslinguistic comparison of numerous features They offer comparable information on semantic classes of quantifiers generalized existential generalized universal proportional partitive syntactically complex quantifiers intensive modification Boolean compounds exception phrases etc and several more specific issues such as quantifier scope ambiguities floating quantifiers and binary type 2 quantifiers The book is intended for semanticists logicians interested in quantification in natural language and general linguists as articles are meant to be descriptive and theory independent The book continues and expands the coverage of the Handbook of Quantifiers in Natural Language 2012 by the same editors and extends the earlier work in Matthewson 2008 Gil et al 2013 and Bach et al 1995

Mood in the Languages of Europe Björn Rothstein, Rolf Thieroff, 2010 This book is the first comprehensive survey of mood in the languages of Europe It gives readers access to a collection of data on mood Each article presents the mood system of a specific European language in a way that readers not familiar with this language are able to understand and to interpret the data The articles contain information on the morphology and semantics of the mood system the possible combinations of tense and mood morphology and the possible uses of the non indicative mood s The papers address the explanation of mood from an empirical and descriptive perspective This book is of interest to scholars of mood and modality language contact and areal linguistics and typology

The Crosslinguistic Study of Language Acquisition Dan Isaac Slobin, 2022-03-01 Extending the tradition of this series which has become a standard reference work in language acquisition this volume contains chapters on seven more languages including a section on ergative languages Languages in this volume include Georgian Greenlandic Kiche Mayan Warlpiri Mandarin Scandinavian and Sesotho

Acquisition of Turkish in Childhood Belma Haznedar, F. Nihan Ketrez, 2016-11-18 The Acquisition of Turkish in Childhood presents recent research on the nature of language acquisition by typically and atypically developing monolingual and bilingual Turkish speaking children. The book summarises the most recent research findings on the acquisition of Turkish in childhood with a focus on i the acquisition of phonology morphology syntax and semantics ii the acquisition of discourse skills iii literacy development and iv atypical vs typical development. The book also provides the reader with a unique perspective on cross learner comparative research on the acquisition of Turkish demonstrating how similar issues can be investigated in a range of various acquisition contexts. By grouping together the recent research on the acquisition of Turkish within a single volume this book provides a unique opportunity for readers to review the general developmental tendencies and the most prominent hypotheses put forward by scholars.

Studies on Turkish and Turkic Languages Aslı Göksel, Celia Kerslake, 2000 This book contains papers presented at the Ninth International conference on Turkish Linguistics held in Oxford in August 1998. The papers cover a wide range of topics in theoretical and descriptive linguistics relating to Turkish and Turkic languages bringing together the work of the most eminent researchers in the field. In addition to articles in the core areas of linguistics which focus on topics such as the morpho syntactic properties of argument structure word stress aspect and modality word order embedding cliticisation and compounding there are sections on psycholinguistics language acquisition discourse analysis language contact and bilingualism. Although the main language of investigation is Modern Turkish the articles cover a wide range of Turkic languages including Karaim Eynu Sarıgh Yoghur Salar Gagauz Noghay Khalaj and Iraqi Turkmen some of which are endangered as well as historic varieties such as Middle Turkish Old Anatolian Turkish and Old Turkic. The book will be of interest to linguists working on theoretical comparative and diachronic aspects of linguistic research as well as those who are interested in descriptive aspects of Turkish and other Turkic languages.

The Development and Acquisition of Japanese Benefactive Constructions Kiyono Fujinaga-Gordon, 2024-09-16 If you were to travel to Japan you would likely hear giving and receiving verbs in conversations quite frequently. In Japanese giving and receiving verbs are not only used to describe an object being transferred but also metaphorically for example to describe giving receiving a favor or involvement in an event. Giving and receiving verbs in all of these situations are known as benefactive constructions. Role and Reference Grammar analysis allows us to analyze which structures of benefactive constructions correspond to different meanings. This book will explore the historic evolution of Japanese benefactive constructions and how children acquire these constructions.

The Turkic Languages Lars Johanson, Éva Á. Csató, 2021-12-27 The Turkic languages are spoken today in a vast geographical area stretching from southern Iran to the Arctic Ocean and from the Balkans to the great wall of China. There are currently 20 literary languages in the group the most important among them being Turkish with over 70 million speakers other major languages covered include Azeri Bashkir Chuvash Gagauz Karakalpak Kazakh Kirghiz Noghay Tatar Turkmen Uyghur Uzbek Yakut Yellow Uyghur and languages of

Iran and South Siberia The Turkic Languages is a reference book which brings together detailed discussions of the historical development and specialized linguistic structures and features of the languages in the Turkic family Seen from a linguistic typology point of view Turkic languages are particularly interesting because of their astonishing morphosyntactic regularity their vast geographical distribution and their great stability over time This volume builds upon a work which has already become a defining classic of Turkic language study The present thoroughly revised edition updates and augments those authoritative accounts and reflects recent and ongoing developments in the languages themselves as well as our further enhanced understanding of the relations and patterns of influence between them The result is the fruit of decades long experience in the teaching of the Turkic languages their philology and literature and also of a wealth of new insights into the linguistic phenomena and cultural interactions defining their development and use both historically and in the present day Each chapter combines modern linguistic analysis with traditional historical linguistics a uniform structure allows for easy typological comparison between the individual languages Written by an international team of experts The Turkic Languages will be invaluable to students and researchers within linguistics Turcology and Near Eastern and Oriental Studies

Exploring the Turkish Linguistic Landscape Mine Güven, Didar Akar, Balkız Öztürk, Meltem Kelepir, 2016-06-14 Exploring the Turkish Linguistic Landscape provides in depth analyses of different aspects of Turkish in the domains of phonology morphology and syntax discourse and language acquisition relevant to recent theoretical discussions While some of the papers in the volume offer new analyses to known linguistic puzzles others raise new questions which have not been addressed in the literature before This collection of original articles written by colleagues and students of Prof Eser Erguvanl Taylan honoring her contribution to the field of linguistics features articles on vowel reduction consonant clusters negation conditionals voice morphology evidentiality acquisition of irregular morphology complementation and subordination in varieties of Turkish It will be of interest to a wide audience ranging from theoreticians to typologists and is expected to generate further research on Turkish as well as to contribute to the cross linguistic literature on the issues addressed in the volume

Connectivity in Grammar and Discourse Jochen Rehbein, Christiane Hohenstein, Lukas Pietsch, 2007 In this collection of carefully selected papers connectivity is looked at from the vantage points of language contact language change language acquisition multilingual communication and related domains based on various European and Non European languages From typological and multilingual perspectives the focus of investigation is on the grammatical architecture of a number of linguistic devices that interconnect units of text and discourse The volume is organized along central concepts A general section deals with connectivity in language change and language acquisition subdivisions are devoted to pronouns topics and subjects the role of finiteness in text and discourse coordination and subordination and particles adverbials and constructions The editors preface introduces connectivity as an object of linguistic research

Diachrony of Verb Morphology Martine Robbeets, 2015-07-24 This book deals with shared verb morphology in Japanese and other languages that have been identified as Transeurasian traditionally Altaic in previous research It analyzes shared etymologies and reconstructed grammaticalizations with the goal to provide evidence for the genealogical relatedness of these languages

External Possession Doris L. Payne, Immanuel Barshi, 1999 External Possession Constructions EPCs are found in nearly all parts of the world and across widely divergent language families The data rich papers in this first ever volume on EPCs document their typological variability explore diachronic reasons for variations and investigate their functions and theoretical ramifications EPCs code the possessor as a core grammatical relation of the verb and in a constituent separate from that which contains the possessed item Though EPCs express possession they do so without the necessary involvement of a possessive predicate such as have or own In many cases EPCs appear to break the rules about how many arguments a verb of a given valence can have They thus constitute an important limiting case for evaluating theories of the relationship between verbal argument structure and syntactic clause structure They also raise core questions about intersections among verbal valence cognitive event construal voice and language processing

Reflexives Zygmunt Frajzyngier, Traci Walker, 2000-03-15 The importance of reflexive markers in the study of language structure cannot be underestimated they participate in the coding of the argument structure of a clause in the coding of semantic relations between arguments and verbs in the coding of the relationship between arguments in the coding of aspect in the coding of point of view and in the Coding of the information structure of a clause The present volume offers an approach to reflexive forms and functions from several perspectives a formal approach where reflexives are discussed within a well defined model of language representation a typological approach a historical approach concentrating on grammaticalization of reflexives and on the changes that pronouns and anaphors undergo and a functionalist approach where functions of reflexive forms are described The languages from which data were drawn represent a wide variety of language families and language types English Old English Dutch German Tsakhur Nakh Dagestani Spanish French Bantu and Chadic languages The variety of languages discussed and the different approaches taken complement each other in that each contributes an important piece to the understanding of reflexives in a cross linguistic perspective

Morphologie G. E. Booij, Christian Lehmann, Joachim Mugdan, 2000 This series of HANDBOOKS OF LINGUISTICS AND COMMUNICATION SCIENCE is designed to illuminate a field which not only includes general linguistics and the study of linguistics as applied to specific languages but also covers those more recent areas which have developed from the increasing body of research into the manifold forms of communicative action and interaction For classic linguistics there appears to be a need for a review of the state of the art which will provide a reference base for the rapid advances in research undertaken from a variety of theoretical standpoints while in the more recent branches of communication science the handbooks will give researchers both an overview and orientation To attain these objectives the series will aim for a standard comparable to that of the leading handbooks in other disciplines and to this end will strive for comprehensiveness theoretical explicitness reliable documentation of data and findings and up to date methodology The editors both of the series and of the individual volumes and the individual contributors are committed to this aim The languages of publication are English German and French The main aim of the series is to provide an appropriate account of the state of the art in the various areas of linguistics and communication science covered by each of the various handbooks however no inflexible pre set limits will be imposed on the scope of each volume The series is open ended and can thus take account of further developments in the field This conception coupled with the necessity of allowing adequate time for each volume to be prepared with the necessary care means that there is no set time table for the publication of the whole series Each volume will be a self contained work complete in itself The order in which the handbooks are published does not imply any rank ordering but is determined by the way in which the series is organized the editor of the whole series enlist a competent editor for each individual volume Once the principal editor for a volume has been found he or she then has a completely free hand in the choice of co editors and contributors The editors plan each volume independently of the others being governed only by general formal principles The series editor only intervene where questions of delineation between individual volumes are concerned It is felt that this modus operandi is best suited to achieving the objectives of the series namely to give a competent account of the present state of knowledge and of the perception of the problems in the area covered by each volume

Explaining Language Structure through Systems

Interaction Zygmunt Frajzyngier, Erin Shay, 2003-11-27 This book proposes a framework for describing languages through the description of relationships among lexicon morphology syntax and phonology The framework is based on the notion of formal coding means the principle of functional transparency the notion of functional domains and the notion of systems interaction in the coding of functional domains The study is based on original analyses of cross linguistic data The fundamental finding of the study is that different languages may code different functional domains which must be discovered by analyzing the formal means available in each language The first part of the book proposes a methodology for discovering functional domains and the second part describes the properties of various functional domains The book presents new cross linguistic analyses of theoretical issues including agreement phenomena attributed to government nominal classification prerequisites for and implications of linear order coding and defining characteristics of lexical categories The study also contributes new analyses of specific problems in individual languages

Creoles, Their Substrates, and Language Typology

Claire Lefebvre, 2011-01-01 Since creole languages draw their properties from both their substrate and superstrate sources the typological classification of creoles has long been a major issue for creolists typologists and linguists in general Several contradictory proposals have been put forward in the literature For example creole languages typologically pair with their superstrate languages Chaudenson 2003 with their substrate languages Lefebvre 1998 or even creole languages are alike Bickerton 1984 such that they constitute a definable typological class McWhorter 1998 This book contains 25 chapters bearing on detailed comparisons of some 30 creoles and their substrate languages As the substrate languages of these creoles are typologically different the detailed investigation of substrate features in the creoles leads to a particular answer to the question of how creoles should be classified typologically The bulk of the data show that creoles reproduce the typological features of their substrate languages This argues that creoles cannot be claimed to constitute a definable typological class Turkish Studies Association Bulletin Turkish Studies Association,1988 Turkic Lars

Johanson,2021-08-26 Turkic is one of the world s major language families comprising a high number of distinct languages and varieties that display remarkable similarities and notable differences Written by a leading expert in the field this landmark work provides an unrivalled overview of multiple features of Turkic covering structural functional historical sociolinguistic and literary aspects It presents the history and cultures of the speakers structures and use of the whole set of languages within the family including Turkish Azeri Turkmen Tatar Kazakh Uzbek and Uyghur and gives a comprehensive overview of published works on Turkic languages large and small It also provides an innovative theoretical framework employing a unified terminology and transcription to give new insights into the Turkic linguistic type Requiring no previous knowledge of the Turkic languages it will be welcomed by both general readers as well as academic researchers and students of linguistic typology comparative linguistics and Turkic studies New Reflections on Grammaticalization Ilse Wischer,Gabriele Diewald,2002-01-01 The contributions in this volume cover a wide range of theoretical and methodological issues and raise a number of new questions that indicate the future direction of grammaticalization studies The volume focuses on issues such as grammaticalization and lexicalization the unidirectionality hypothesis the issue of the relevance of contexts for grammaticalization the description of grammaticalization paths Much of the current work concentrates on such categories as discourse markers honorifics or classifiers which have not previously been central to works on grammaticalization Other studies take a new perspective on known grammaticalization paths by applying concepts adopted from other linguistic fields such as prototype theory morphocentricity or by discussing their findings from a comparative or typological angle presenting data from a large number of languages often based on extensive empirical investigations of written and spoken text corpora
