Ancient and Medieval Economic Life Haraldur Jóhannsson,1968      The Economic Life of the Ancient World Jean-Philippe

Levy,1967      The Economic Life of the Ancient World Jules François Toutain,1958      Economic Structures of the Ancient Near East Morris Silver,2024-08-28 Economic Structures of the Ancient Near East 1985 is a political economy of antiquity which applies the universal conclusions of theoretical economics to the interpretation of economic life The first part of the book shows that the analysis of transaction costs that is the resources used up in exchanging ownership rights including costs of communication and of designing and enforcing contracts provides numerous insights into the structure of the ancient economy The role of temples as centres of commerce inculcation of professional standards by gods elevation of technology to the status of divine gift religious syncretism and fetishism and many more seemingly exotic practices are comprehended as elements in a strategy to cope with high transaction costs by increasing the stock of what might be called trust capital It is shown that similar considerations lie behind the ubiquity of diversified multinational family firms the prominent entrepreneurial role of high born women the prominence within the contractual process of publicly performed conventional gestures and recitations and the intrusion of gifts friendship and other manifestations of personal economics into exchange relationships The book goes on to examine carefully and then reject the view of economic historian Karl Polanyi and others that the ancient Near East lacked true markets for consumer goods and productive factors The direct evidence of market exchange local and long distance occupational specialisation supply demand determined prices investment in material and human capital production for the market and other modern traits is uneven with respect to place and time but nevertheless abundant The requisite market functions demanded by Polanyi including a market for labour slave and free and elaborate credit and investment markets can be seen plainly from very early times Finally the book deals with the impact on the ancient Near Eastern economy of changes in economic incentives and of changes in economic policy It becomes evident that ancient economies were capable of making profound alterations in order to take advantage of new economic opportunities It is also shown that the ancient Near East was not static as is usually asserted periods of pervasive economic regulation by the state are interspersed with lengthy periods of relatively unfettered market activity and growth      The Economic Life of the Ancient World Jules Toutain,1927      The Economic Life of the Ancient World J. Toutain,2013-10-11 Originally published between 1920 70 The History of Civilization was a landmark in early twentieth century publishing It was published at a formative time within the social sciences and during a period of decisive historical discovery The aim of the general editor C K Ogden was to summarize the most up to date findings and theories of historians anthropologists archaeologists and sociologists This reprinted material is available as a set or in the following groupings Prehistory and Historical Ethnography Set of 12 0 415 15611 4 800 00 Greek Civilization Set of 7 0 415 15612 2 450 00 Roman Civilization Set of 6 0 415 15613 0 400 00 Eastern Civilizations Set of 10 0 415 15614 9 650 00 Judaeo Christian Civilization Set of 4 0 415 15615 7 250 00 European Civilization Set of 11 0 415 15616 5 700 00     The economic life of the ancient world Jean-Philippe Lévy,1967     The Open Sea J. G. Manning,2020-06-09 In The Open Sea J G Manning offers a major new history of economic life in the Mediterranean world in the Iron Age from Phoenician trading down to the Hellenistic era and the beginning of Rome's imperial supremacy Drawing on a wide range of ancient sources and the latest social theory Manning suggests that a search for an illusory single ancient economy has obscured the diversity of lived experience in the Mediterranean world including both changes in political economies over time and differences in cultural conceptions of property and money At the same time he shows how the region's economies became increasingly interconnected during this period Publisher's description     Economic Life of the Ancient World. Translate Jules Toutain,     The Economic Life of the Ancient World. Translated by John G. Biram Jean Philippe Levy,1967     The Organization of Ancient Economies Kenneth Hirth,2020-09-17 In this book Kenneth Hirth provides a comparative view of the organization of ancient and premodern society and economy Hirth establishes that humans adapted to their environments not as individuals but in the social groups where they lived and worked out the details of their livelihoods He explores the variation in economic organization used by simple and complex societies to procure produce and distribute resources required by both individual households and the social and political institutions that they supported Drawing on a wealth of archaeological historic and ethnographic information he develops and applies an analytical framework for studying ancient societies that range from the hunting and gathering groups of native North America to the large state societies of both the New and Old Worlds Hirth demonstrates that despite differences in transportation and communication technologies the economic organization of ancient and modern societies are not as different as we sometimes think     The Economic Life of the Ancient World ... With 6 Maps. (Translated by M. R. Dobie.). Jules TOUTAIN,1930     The Ancient Economy Joseph Gilbert Manning,Ian Morris,2005 Historians and archaeologists normally assume that the economies of ancient Greece and Rome between about 1000 BC and AD 500 were distinct from those of Egypt and the Near East However very different kinds of evidence survive from each of these areas and specialists have as a result developed very different methods of analysis for each region This book marks the first time that historians and archaeologists of Egypt the Near East Greece and Rome have come together with sociologists political scientists and economists to ask whether the differences between accounts of these regions reflect real economic differences in the past or are merely a function of variations in the surviving evidence and the intellectual traditions that have grown up around it The contributors describe the types of evidence available and demonstrate the need for clearer thought about the relationships between evidence and models in ancient economic history laying the foundations for a new comparative account of economic structures and growth in the ancient Mediterranean world     Documentary

Sources in Ancient Near Eastern and Greco-Roman Economic History Heather D. Baker, Michael Jursa, 2014 This volume breaks new ground in approaching the Ancient Economy by bringing together documentary sources from Mesopotamia and the Greco Roman world Addressing textual corpora that have traditionally been studied separately the collected papers overturn the conventional view of a fundamental divide between the economic institutions of these two regions The premise is that while controlling for differences texts from either cultural setting can be brought to bear on the other and can shed light through their use as proxy data on such questions as economic mentalities and market development The book also presents innovative approaches to the quantitative study of large corpora of ancient documents The resulting view of the Ancient Economy is much more variegated and dynamic than traditional primitivist views would allow The volume covers the following topics Babylonian house size data as an index of urban living standards the Old Babylonian archives as a source for economic history Middle Bronze Age long distance trade in Anatolia long term economic development in Babylonia from the 7th to the 4th century BC legal institutions and agrarian change in the Roman Empire papyrological evidence for water lifting technology money circulation and monetization in Late Antique Egypt the application of Social Network Analysis to Babylonian cuneiform archives price trends in the ancient Near East and Mediterranean in the Hellenistic and Roman periods as well as the effects of locust plagues on prices
