The Home Front Life In Australia During World War II:

On the Home Front Kate Darian-Smith, 2009-04-01 What really happened on the Australian home front during the Second World War For the people of Melbourne these were years of social dislocation and increased government interference in all aspects of daily life On the Home Front is the story of their work leisure relationships and their fears for by 1942 the city was pitted with air raid trenches and in the half light of the brownout Melburnians awaited a Japanese invasion As women left the home to replace men in factories and offices the traditional roles of mothers and wives were challenged The presence of thousands of American soldiers in Melbourne raised new questions about Australian nationalism and identity and the carnival spirit of many on the home front created anxiety about the issues of drunkenness gambling and sexuality Kate Darian Smith's classic and evocative study of Melbourne in wartime draws upon the memories of men and women who lived through those turbulent years when society grappled with the tensions between a restrictive government and new opportunities for social and sexual freedoms

Encyclopedia of World War II Alan Axelrod, 2007 A reference to the ideological military political biographical and social topics surrounding World War II which is often considered the pivotal event of the twentieth century

Homefront Jennifer Anne Gregory, 1996 For Western Australians World War II began as a phoney war remote from their shores but by 1942 the homefront faced the real threat of invasion with the Japanese at the doorstep Australia's War

1939-45 Joan Beaumont, 2020-09-10 The Second World War was a dominant experience in Australian history For the first time the country faced the threat of invasion The economy and society were mobilised to an unprecedented degree with 550 000 men and women or one in twelve of a population of over 7 million serving in the armed forces overseas Social patterns and family life were disrupted Politically the war gave a new legitimacy to the Australian Labor Party which had been confined to the wilderness of the Opposition at the Federal level for most of the inter war years The powers of the Federal government increased and a new momentum for social reform was generated at the popular and governmental level In the international sphere the war fundamentally shook Australian confidence in the power on which it had relied for generations Great Britain It generated a sense of independence in Australian foreign policy and initiated a new if halting and problematic realignment towards the United States In this accessible book Joan Beaumont Kate Darian Smith David Lee David Lowe Marnie Haig Muir Roy Hay and David Walker consider the range of Australia's experience of this conflict In a single volume they draw together the many aspects of the war and distil the current state of historical scholarship Australia's War 1939-45 will be invaluable to tertiary students and of enormous interest to the reader concerned with the social political and military history of Australia A companion volume on the First World War is also available Australians and the First World War Kate Ariotti, James E. Bennett, 2017-08-11 This book contributes to the global turn in First World War studies by exploring Australians' engagements with the conflict across varied boundaries and by situating Australian voices and perspectives within broader more complex contexts This diverse and multifaceted collection includes chapters on the composition and contribution of the Australian Imperial Force the experiences of prisoners of war nurses and Red Cross workers the resonances of overseas events for Australians at home and the cultural legacies of the war through remembrance and representation The local global framework provides a fresh lens through which to view Australian connections with the Great War demonstrating that there is still much to be said about this cataclysmic event in modern history Prisoners of the Home Front Martin F. Auger, 2011-11-01 In the middle of the most destructive conflict in human history almost 40 000 Germans civilians and prisoners of war were detained in internment and work camps across Canada Five internment camps were located on the southern shores of the St Lawrence River in the province of Quebec at Farnham Grande Ligne le aux Noix Sherbrooke and Sorel Prisoners of the Home Front details the organization and day to day affairs of these internment camps and reveals the experience of their inmates Martin Auger shows how internment imposed psychological and physical strain in the form of restricted mobility sexual deprivation social alienation and lack of physical comfort In response Canadian authorities introduced labour projects and education programs to uphold morale thwart internal turmoil and prevent escapes These initiatives were also intended to expose prisoners to the values of a democratic society and prepare them for postwar reintegration Auger concludes that Canada abided by the Geneva Convention its treatment of German prisoners was humane Prisoners of the Home Front sheds light on life behind barbed wire filling an important void in our knowledge of the Canadian home front during the Second World War Australian national bibliography, 1961 Fighting from Home Serge Durflinger, 2011-11-01 In Verdun English and French speakers lived side by side Through their home front activities as much as through enlistment they proved themselves partners in the prosecution of Canada's war Shared experiences and class similarities shaped responses based first and foremost in a sense of local identity Fighting from Home paints a comprehensive at times intimate portrait of Verdun and Verdunites at war Durflinger offers an innovative interpretive approach to wartime Canadian and Quebec social and cultural dynamics It will appeal to anyone interested in
