Edwin Atlee Barber, 2015-07-20 Excerpt from Mexican Maiolica In the Collection of the Hispanic Society of America Maiolica is a soft pottery of whitish or buff tint covered with an enamel or glaze whose dense white color and great hardness are imparted by a greater or lesser proportion of tin in the composition Being entirely opaque the tin or stanniferous enamel will obscure an decoration which may be applied beneath it The colors must be painted either over the enamel after it has been fixed by the fire or in it being applied to the dry enamel before firing After being fused in the kiln the inglaze designs appear to be incorporated with the enamel This latter method was the one employed by the Mexican potters Maiolica was first introduced into Mexico by Spanish potters from Talavera and Seville Spain toward the end of the sixteenth century and native Mexican potters continued the manufacture from that time down to the present day About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works
