words characterizing the doctrine of justification by faith as it is known in English is most prominent in the writings of the Apostle Paul. It was this doctrine that lay at the heart of the sixteenth century Reformation. Martin Luther and his followers considered it to be at the very center of the gospel. Protestants came to understand justification differently from the Catholic Church; they had left. Instead of the Catholic realist view in which God makes a sinner righteous, they came to a forensic understanding by which God as judge declares a sinner righteous. During the nineteenth century, a third relational view began to emerge: it viewed justification as God's gift of a right relationship to a sinner. This monograph examines Paul's concept from three perspectives: the New Testament data, the way the doctrine has developed historically, and how the doctrine has been expressed in English translations of the Scriptures. The author concludes that it is the relational view that most accurately depicts Paul's concept of justification.
