The Sermon without End Ronald J. Allen, Prof O. Wesley Allen JR., 2015-10-20 A New Model for Post Apologetic Preaching in a Pluralistic World The relationship between preaching and the public sphere has long been debated Three different theological approaches tend to dominate the discussion In different ways these approaches take into account the movement from the modern mindset of the mid to late 20th century to the emerging postmodern worldview In The Sermon without End authors Allen Allen thoughtfully offer a fourth option one that in their view has not received much attention but which offers a distinct and especially helpful perspective It is a new and dynamic conversational model reaching beyond the earlier work of Tillich and Tracy In this homiletical framework conversation takes place in multiple directions between the text or tradition and the world today It is preaching in conversation not just toward but with voices from the public sphere The book provides a solid foundation for understanding this post apologetic approach but it importantly goes on to offer practical real pulpit guidance for implementation in a preaching ministry It is a book for both scholars and practicing preachers who wish to reach people in meaningful and significant ways and in ways that make sense for today This book deserves to be widely applauded It provides a post apologetic lens to illuminate the history of various modern homiletical discourses even as it envisions a postmodern one I strongly recommend this book for homiletics preachers and lay people alike Duse Lee Boston University School of Theology Reviewed in Homiletic

Postcolonial Theory and Autobiography David Huddart, 2008-04-18 Cultural theory has often been criticized for covert Eurocentric and universalist tendencies Its concepts and ideas are implicitly applicable to everyone ironing over any individuality or cultural difference Postcolonial theory has challenged these limitations of cultural theory and Postcolonial

Theory and Autobiography addresses the central challenge posed by its autobiographical turn. Despite the fact that autobiography is frequently dismissed for its Western masculine bias, David Huddart argues for its continued relevance as a central explanatory category in understanding postcolonial theory and its relation to subjectivity. Focusing on the influence of post-structuralist theory on postcolonial theory and vice versa, this study suggests that autobiography constitutes a general philosophical resistance to universal concepts and theories. Offering a fresh perspective on familiar critical figures like Edward W. Said and Gayatri Chakravorty Spivak by putting them in the context of readings of the work of Jacques Derrida, Gilles Deleuze, and Alain Badiou, this book relates the theory of autobiography to expressions of new universalisms that together with postcolonial theory rethink and extend norms of experience, investigation, and knowledge. American Book

Publishing Record, 2002 Forthcoming Books Rose Arny, 2002-04 Fairy Tales and the Shift in Identity Poetics from Modernism to Postmodernism Ana-Maria Baciuc, 2023-11-06 The book reveals the historical change in the function of the generic form of the fairy tale at the beginning of the twentieth century. Fairy tales are no longer written or read for their stimulus to the imagination or their nostalgia towards past times but with a political end in view to define a nation's identity meant to justify and support claims to a unitary state, Romania, or an independent state, Ireland. As such, this book investigates the interweave of poetics and politics at the time of the rise of modernist nationalism at the margins of Europe.

Transplanting Care Laura L. Heinemann, 2016-07-12 The sudden call to the race to the hospital, the high stakes operation, the drama of transplant surgery is well known. But what happens before and after the surgery? In Transplanting Care, Laura L. Heinemann examines the daily lives of midwestern organ transplant patients and those who care for them from pretransplant preparations through to the long posttransplant recovery. Heinemann points out that as efforts to control healthcare costs gain urgency and as new surgical techniques, drug therapies, and home medical equipment advance, most of the transplant process now takes place at home among kin. Indeed, the transplant system effectively depends on unpaid care labor typically provided by spouses, parents, siblings, and others. Drawing on scores of interviews with patients, relatives, and healthcare professionals, Heinemann follows a variety of patients and loved ones as they undertake this uncertain and strenuous transplant journey. She also shows how these home-based caregiving efforts take place within the larger economic and political context of a paucity of resources for patients and caregivers who ultimately must surmount numerous obstacles. The author concludes that the many snags encountered by transplant patients and loved ones make a clear case for more comprehensive health and social policy that treats care as a necessarily shared public responsibility. An illuminating look at the long transplant journey, Transplanting Care also offers broader insight into how we handle infirmity in America and how we might do a better job of doing so. Shakespeare Survey: Volume 58, Writing about Shakespeare Peter Holland, 2005-11-03 Published with academic researchers and graduate students in mind, this volume of the Shakespeare Survey presents a number of contributions on the theme of the play Macbeth. Queer Race Ian Barnard, 2004 One of the Remaking Reality Bruce Braun, Noel Castree, 2005-08-08 This book rejects apocalyptic pronouncements that the end of the millennium represents the end of nature as well. Remaking Reality brings together contributors from across the human sciences who argue that a notion of social nature provides great hope for the future. Applying a variety of theoretical approaches to social nature and engaging with debates in politics, science, technology, and social movements surrounding race, gender, and class, the contributors explore important and emerging sites where nature is now being remade with considerable social and ecological consequences. The essays are organised around two themes: capitalising and envisioning nature and actors' networks and the politics of hybridity. An afterword by Neil Smith reflects on the problems and possibilities of future names. For critics and activists alike, Remaking Reality provides essential theoretical and political tools to rethink environmentalism and progressive social natures for the twenty-first century.

The Liberal Script at the Beginning of the 21st Century Tanja A. Börzel, Johannes Gerschewski, Michael Zürn, 2024-10-10 This is an open access title available under the terms of a CC BY-NC-ND 4.0 International licence. It is free to read at Oxford Academic and offered as a free PDF download from OUP and selected open access locations. 21st-century liberalism is being contested on multiple fronts and by a wide range of actors. To understand these challengers, it is important to have a better grasp of their common target. This book introduces the liberal script as an analytical concept that allows us to analyze and problematize liberal thinking as well as its different components and linkages and the tensions that they produce. What happens when the pursuit of market efficiency is incompatible with social justice? It is these tensions between the different components of the liberal script that are at the heart of the challenges against it. Different societies have resolved these tensions in different ways, leading to a variety of liberal subscripts and their contestations. The volume integrates theoretical and methodological perspectives from different disciplines, including political science, sociology, law, history, philosophy, post-colonial studies, and educational science. In demonstrating the theoretical and empirical added value of using the concept of liberal script, the volume presents a multifaceted and nuanced picture of what is at stake in the challenges to liberalism in the early 21st century. This volume has emerged from research carried out as part of the Cluster of Excellence Contestations of the Liberal Script (SCRIPTS), which analyzes the contemporary controversies

The Social in Question Patrick Joyce, 2012-12-06 With postmodernism has come the questioning of the very idea of the social Thinkers from across the social sciences and humanities now agree that this one foundational concept can no longer be taken for granted as an objective or real characteristic of the world However their uncertainty has taken on many guises and the social in Question represents an attempt to pull these diverse forms of questioning together Drawn from sociology cultural studies history and theology an international and eminent cast of contributors look at how the idea of the social developed from its mediaeval foundations to its consolidation in the early twentieth century The book then charts how the concept has been brought into the question by critiques from science studies cultural studies and postcolonial studies before going on to look at how new frameworks are being proposed for the exploration of issues formerly seen as the social This book makes a fascinating contribution to the rethinking of contemporary academic activity
