architecture and cultural evolution the author argues that underlying the global environmental crisis is a general resistance to changing personal and social identities shaped by a technology based culture and its energy hungry products The book traces the roots of that culture to the coevolution of Homo sapiens and technology from the first use of tools as artificial extensions of the human body to the motorised cities spreading around the world whose uncontrolled effects are changing the planet itself Advancing a new concept of the meme called the technical meme as the primary agent of cognitive extension and technical embodiment the author proposes a theory of the extended self encompassing material and spatial as well as psychological and social elements Drawing upon research from philosophy psychology and the neurosciences the book presents a new approach to environmental and cultural studies that will appeal to a broad readership searching for insights into the crisis
