The Madeleine Poems:

The Madeleine Poems Paul Legault, 2010 Ann Lauterbach the highly esteemed poet who selected Paul Legault's manuscript for the Omnidawn Poetry Prize explains that in these poems History is here in uneasy tangents landscape is here lonely in its names luminous images are here but they are not pictures music is here in a spare phrasal pacing Here in The Madeleine Poems modernity's abandonment becomes a bare harbor into which sail vessels carrying unexpected cargo In hauntingly beautiful lyricism and with a lightness that conveys the most weighty of subjects Legault offers a dynamically charged vision of the real as he perceives its volatile constantly shifting valences The Madeleine Poems Jane Blue, 1981

Darrell Bourque and Kirby Jambon reveal not only a shift from an oral to a written tradition They also show hybrid perspectives on the Cajun collective memory Based on recurring references to place the texts also reflect on the Acadian past and reveal the innate ability of the Cajuns to adapt through repeated intertextual references The Cajun collective memory is thus defined by a transnational outlook a transversality cutting across various ethnic heritages to establish and legitimize a collective identity both amid the linguistic and cultural diversity in Louisiana and in the face of American mainstream culture Cajun Literature and Cajun Collective Memory represents the first analysis of the mnemonic strategies Cajun writers use to explore and sustain the Cajun identity and collective memory
