Copyright Office, 1970 Hollywood TV Christopher Anderson, 1994 The 1950s was one of the most turbulent periods in the history of motion pictures and television During the decade as Hollywood's most powerful studios and independent producers shifted into TV production TV replaced film as America's principal postwar culture industry This pioneering study offers the first thorough exploration of the movie industry's shaping role in the development of television and its narrative forms Drawing on the archives of Warner Bros and David O Selznick Productions and on interviews with participants in both industries Christopher Anderson demonstrates how the episodic telefilm series a clear descendant of the feature film became and has remained the dominant narrative form in prime time TV This research suggests that the postwar motion picture industry was less an empire on the verge of ruin as common wisdom has it than one struggling under unsettling conditions to redefine its frontiers Beyond the obvious contribution to film and television studies these findings add an important chapter to the study of American popular culture of the postwar period

Art and Politics in Have Gun--Will Travel Kathleen L. Spencer, 2014-09-17 From 1955 to 1964 American television was awash in adult Westerns as much as one quarter of all prime time programming During its six seasons 1957-1963 Have Gun Will Travel was recognized as one of the best shows on television politically the most liberal and intellectually and aesthetically the most sophisticated largely because of Richard Boone This work places the series in its larger historical context exploring why the Western was so popular at the time and examines how the early history of television affected the shows A brief biography of Boone is included revealing how his values and experiences shaped the series Behind the scenes life on the show is compared with that of its most popular competitors Gunsmoke Wagon Train and Bonanza Major themes and patterns of the shows are compared in particular the figures of the lawman the gunfighter and the outlaw racial and ethnic minorities and women

The Creation of the Cowboy Hero Jeremy Agnew, 2014-12-16 As business interests have commercialized the American West and publishers and studios have created compelling imagery the expectations of readers and moviegoers have influenced perceptions of the cowboy as a hero This book describes the evolution of the cowboy hero as a mythic persona created by dime novels television and Hollywood Much of our concept of the cowboy comes to us from movies and the book's main focus is his changing image in cinema The development of the hero image and the fictional West is traced from early novels and films to the present along with shifting audience expectations and economic pressures The Happiest Trails John Brooker, 2017-02-09 John Brooker writes in his Introduction B westerns have always been part of my life I decided to tour the US by Greyhound bus and try and track down some of my childhood heroes From that and subsequent trips Brooker began to write books magazine columns and even a TV series Movie Memories This book contains his interviews with the actors and other research on the B westerns Fully illustrated Western Movie References in American Literature Henryk Hoffmann, 2012-10-19 References to western movies scattered over some 250 works by more than 130 authors constitute the subject matter of this book arranged in an encyclopedic format The entries are distributed among western movies television series big screen and television actors western writers directors and miscellaneous topics related to the genre The data cover films from The Great Train Robbery 1903 to No Country for Old Men 2007 and the entries include many western film milestones from The Aryan through Shane to Unforgiven television classics Gunsmoke Bonanza and great screen cowboys of both A and B productions The American Film Institute Catalog of Motion Pictures Produced in the United States American Film Institute, Kenneth White Munden, 1971 Over 17 000 films produced or released in the United States are included in this volume Research took almost eight years to complete The project covers motion pictures from 1893 the year that Thomas A Edison built the Black Maria the first motion picture studio Names of prominent filmmakers include Americans such as Thomas A Edison Edwin S Porter Sigmund Lubin and D W Griffith Important films include Fred Ott's Sneeze 1893 The Kiss 1896 The Passion Play 1898 The Great Train Robbery 1903 The Adventure of Dollie 1908 Early filmed novels include The Count of Monte Cristo A Tale of Two Cities Ben Hur and David Copperfield Other important titles include The Electrocution of an Elephant Cripple Creek Bar Room 1898 Dream of a Rarebit Fiend 1906 and D W Griffith's A Corner in Wheat 1909 Historically the volume is important because of the extensive documentation of historical figures and events from the assassination of President McKinley to the rescuers of survivors of the Maine There are also a number of films that

Television in Black-and-white America Alan Nadel, 2005 La couverture indigne Alan Nadel s new book reminds us that most of the images on early TV were decidedly Caucasian and directed at predominantly white audiences Television did not invent whiteness for America but it did reinforce it as the norm particularly during the Cold War years Nadel now shows just how instrumental it was in constructing a narrow conservative and very white vision of America During this era prime time TV was dominated by adult Westerns with heroes like The Rebel s Johnny Yuma reincarnating Southern values and Bonanza s Cartwright family reinforcing the notion of white patriarchy programs that Nadel shows bristled with Cold War messages even as they spoke to the nation s mythology America had become visually reconfigured as a vast Ponderosa crisscrossed by concrete highways designed to carry suburban white drivers beyond the moral challenge of racism racial poverty and increasingly vocal civil rights demands      True Western Adventures ,1959
