, 1942 "The Space of Words" Jennifer Miller Hoyer, 2014 Nelly Sachs 1891 1970 has long been regarded as one of the most significant Holocaust poets Her conception of language and words as a landscape has been understood by scholars and critics as an exilic ersatz Heimat for the lost German homeland of a displaced poet This reading however is based entirely on her postwar poems Such an isolated approach to her complex body of work is increasingly historically problematic it is also at odds with Sachs's generally cyclical poetic process In The Space of Words Jennifer Hoyer offers the first sustained critical analysis of Sachs's largely unanalyzed prewar poetry and prose as well as the first analysis that examines structural and thematic ties between the prewar works and the Nobel Prize winning postwar poetry Through close readings of both Sachs's prewar and postwar works Hoyer reveals a diasporic rather than exilic conception of the landscape of language a position of constant wandering rather than static longing for return This diasporic poetics promotes the intellectual and linguistic power of the wanderer and opens new insights into Sachs's essential significance as a Holocaust poet and a twentieth century

The Knight on His Quest Piotr Sadowski, 1996 This book offers an integrated interpretative analysis of the major thematic aspects of the English fourteenth century romance Sir Gawain and the Green Knight The chief aim of author Piotr Sadowski is to look at the contents of the narrative in their entirety and to take full advantage of the poem's exceptional and widely praised harmony of structure and design Within that design Sadowski focuses on the poem's presentation of the main protagonist and his adventures seen first of all as a generalized metaphor of the human life understood as a spiritual quest and in a more historical sense as an expression and critique of certain ideals values and anxieties that characterized the late medieval institutions of the court chivalry and the Church Sadowski built the interpretive framework of Sir Gawain from an eclectic theoretical base that he believes is most valuable and useful in approaching medieval literature The main focus of the study remains the literary text itself created by an author who communicates his view of the world through the poem
