Abstract : We previously reported that the combined treatment of perioperative administration of donor splenocytes via the recipient's portal vein (DSPV) and a short-course Tacrolimus significantly prolonged the survival of fully allogenic grafts in rat small bowel transplantation (SBTX). In the present study we examined whether this effect depended on the quantity of the administered alloantigens in DSPV. In addition, we examined the expression of the surface antigen on T cells of the splenocytes and the induced toleragenic factor, according to the tolerant recipients which in our previous report had shown the prolongation of allogenic transplant small bowel graft survival by the combined treatment of DSPV (1×10^6 donor splenocytes) and a short-course Tacrolimus. Donor splenocytes were prepared from Brown-Norway (BN (RT1^u)) rat spleens for Lewis (LEW (RT1^y)) recipients. The recipients ($n=10$), treated with a short course of Tacrolimus (0.5mg/kg, 0 to 3 days postoperatively) only showed graft rejection with an average of 6.3 ± 1.0 days postoperatively. However, the combined treatment, consisting of DSPV of 1×10^6 donor splenocytes and a short course Tacrolimus significantly prolonged graft survival to 12.7 ± 2.1 days ($n=12$, $P<0.01$). DSPV of less than 1×10^6 donor splenocytes (5×10^5 cells and 2.5×10^7) could not prolong the graft or animal survival under a short-course Tacrolimus treatment. In the tolerant recipients, the CD4 and CD8 percentages of splenocytes were not significantly different from those of control rats or recipients that were treated with short-course Tacrolimus alone. Nevertheless, the percentage of Tcr- α β ⁺ cells expressing IL-2 receptor (R) was significantly lower than in either control rats or the recipients with short-course Tacrolimus. In the suppression assay to one-way mixed lymphocyte response, a toleragenic factor was suggested to the present in the serum of the tolerant recipients. In the present study, it was suggested that the effects of the combined treatment of DSPV and short-course Tacrolimus for the prolongation of graft survival in the rat allogenic SBTX should depended on the quantity of the antigens administered into the portal vein. The beneficial effects of this treatment were reflected in the suppression of IL-2R on the recipient's splenocytes, and tolerogenic factor(s) might subsequently be induced in the tolerant recipient's serum. *J. Small Bowel Transplantation Jan M. van Oosterhout, 1982 Organtransplantation in Rats and Mice Wolfgang Timmermann, Heinz-Jochen Gassel, Karin Ulrichs, Robert Zhong, Arnulf Thiede, 2012-12-06 Main focus of the new book will be the description and discussion of rat and mouse models for organ transplantation Various microsurgical techniques will be presented which allow transplantation of functional organs in syngeneic systems In particular the extremely difficult methods necessary for organ transplantation in mice will be presented and evaluated Besides these practical aspects the book will also cover the theoretical sides of organ transplantation like the immunobiology of allotransplantation Special emphasis will be given to the resurgent field of xenotransplantation The results from xenograft models developed in the recent years using rats or mice will be reviewed and their impact on future human xenotransplantation will be discussed Microsurgical Models in Rats for Transplantation Research Arnulf Thiede, Eberhard Deltz, Rainer Engemann, Horst Hamelmann, 2012-12-06 Preclinical experimental transplantation research that is based on microsurgical models in rats fulfills two indispensable conditions for modern organ transplantation research Almost all organ grafts can be performed on the rat with an amount of technical effort that is still justifiable Thus transplantation models that are analogous to human organ transplantation can be developed tested and evaluated This fulfills a necessary condition from the standpoint of surgery With the species rat we have a great variety of genetically different inbred strains From the immunological point of view this is an indispensable prerequisite for the investigation of preclinical transplantation models that can be expected to produce controllable reproducible results In vivo experimental results can be supplemented by and correlated to in vitro tests Lately these experimental results are being greatly expanded and more precisely defined by the application of immunohistological methods that have been established recently in Kiel In this book we hope to present a cross section of the microsurgical models in use today and of current immunological and immunohistological models Furthermore we wish to record the present state of microsurgical organ transplantation research and to show its relationship to the current state and development of clinical organ transplantation A special aspect of our Kiel research group is the long term well functioning interdisciplinary cooperation between surgery immunology and pathology Through this cooperation we attempt to provide an atmosphere in which theoretical and practical viewpoints can mutually influence each other Cumulated Index Medicus, 1996 Handbook of Animal Models in Transplantation Research Donald V.
