Sinop Landscapes:

Sinop Landscapes Owen Doonan, 2004 Innovative approaches to the study of a diverse heavily forested region will be of interest to archaeologists attempting systematic surveys in such challenging environments. Historians will appreciate the weaving together of rich local and regional narratives and the insights the volume provides into the long term history of the Black Sea. The integration of the emerging field of Ottoman landscape studies with that of historical processes provides an invaluable example for all interested in how patterns established in the distant past can structure recent and even contemporary cultural and economic life. BOOK JACKET Sinop Landscapes Owen P. Doonan, 2011-06-01 The Black Sea coast is different from the rest of Turkey. For more than 5 000 years Sinop, the central point on the Turkish coast, has seemed more remote from the rest of the Anatolian land mass than from Greece, Italy, Africa, the Crimea, Istanbul, and Rome. How was Sinop connected to them? The Black Sea Trade Project explores the perception of connectedness: how connected did people feel to those in other upland villages, coastal villages, ports, the big port of Sinop, and to distant shores? How did economic, infrastructural, and political institutions bind local populations to larger systems, and how were various institutional processes situated in landscapes? In this first volume from the Sinop Regional Archaeological Project, Owen P. Doonan rigorously explores connection through Sinop and its hinterland from precolonial Greek settlements through ages of empires: Roman, Russian, and Ottoman conquests to the present day. Mediterranean Archaeological Landscapes Effie F.

Athanassopoulos, Luann Wandsnider, 2010-11-24 The Mediterranean landscape record is recognized for its length and richness, and the opportunity it offers to study the interaction between humans and their landscape. This volume explores a variety of current archaeological issues in the context of specific landscapes from southern Spain through Greece and Cyprus to Jordan, and from antiquity to recent times. Over the last 25 years, researchers have initiated a dramatic expansion in theoretical approaches, both anthropological and classical. Over the same time span, a huge volume of field survey projects has been carried out in the Mediterranean arena. The contributors to Mediterranean Archaeological Landscapes take stock of what has been learned, identify lacunae, and consider new approaches to our understanding of the rich surface landscape record of the Mediterranean. Their goal is to explore theoretically diverse interpretative themes and the methods that make those approachable.

Sinope, The Results of Fifteen Years of Research. Proceedings of the International Symposium, 7-9 May 2009 Dominique Kassab Tezgör, 2011-10-06 Les premières fouilles archéologiques furent entreprises à Sinope entre 1951 et 1953. Des travaux ponctuels ont ensuite mené à ce n'est qu'au début des années 90 que Sinope a connu un regain d'intérêt et que l'activité archéologique s'est développée à l'échelle internationale avec tout d'abord les fouilles des ateliers amphoriques puis divers programmes terrestres et sous-marins. Les Actes du Symposium international rassemblent les résultats de ces travaux ainsi que les recherches consacrées à l'histoire de cette ville depuis sa fondation jusqu'à la période séleucide, ses productions artisanales, son commerce et ses relations avec le reste de la mer Noire. Hittite Landscape

Local Economies?, 2016-04-26 The Roman economy was operated significantly above subsistence level with production being stimulated by both taxation and trade Some regions became wealthy on the basis of exporting low value agricultural products across the Mediterranean In contrast it has usually been assumed that the high costs of land transport kept inland regions relatively poor This volume challenges these assumptions by presenting new research on production and exchange within inland regions The papers supported by detailed bibliographic essays range from Britain to Jordan They reveal robust agricultural economies in many interior regions Here some wealth did come from high value products which could defy transport costs However ceramics also indicate local exchange systems capable of generating wealth without being integrated into inter regional trading networks The role of the State in generating production and exchange is visible but often co existed with local market systems Contributors are Alyssa A Bandow Fanny Bessard Michel Bonifay Kim Bowes Stefano Costa Jeremy Evans Elizabeth Fentress Piroska H rshegyi Adam

Rome and the Black Sea Region Tonnes Bekker-Nielsen, 2006-09-01 In 89 BC Roman legionaries intervened in the Black Sea region to curb the ambitions of Mithridates VI of Pontus Over the next two centuries the Roman presence on the Black Sea coast was slowly but steadily increased This volume deals with the Roman impact on the indigenous population in the Black Sea region and touches on the theme of romanisation of that area Nine different contributors discuss several aspects of Roman identity and the cultural interaction one article even compares the situation to the American presence in Iraq though at the same time it also looks at the resistance to the Roman Empire and the Roman problems of creating peace in the region after the colonisation Romanisation and becoming Roman in a Greek world is a very popular field of discussion about which a lot has already been written This book however encircles three important themes the domination the romanisation and the resistance It covers two different sides of the Roman presence in the area and shows both the perspective of a Roman just arrived Pliny the Younger and a native seeing the Romans coming the historian Memnon of Herakleia Furthermore it describes how multi identity cultures manage to live together because becoming Roman not necessarily means becoming less Greek or less Gaulish less Scythian less Bosporan etc The diversity of the different chapters in this book creates reflection on the cultural change in the traditionalist yet cosmopolitan environment that was the Roman Black Sea Region

New Regionalism or No Regionalism? Ruxandra Ivan, 2016-04-29 The nation states in the Black Sea area have initiated many co operative policies but the area also sees numerous tensions between neighboring states The conflict co operation paradox along with ethnic fragmentation and shared culture are two of the most salient features of the Black Sea Area These paradoxes are not the only force in the evolution of the region though There are also issues such as ethnic and national identity the failure of democratization energy and resources as well as the influence of other powers such as Russia the EU and the USA The key questions asked by the authors in this book are to what extent is there an emerging regionalism in the Black Sea area Is the Black Sea a region What are the common interests shared by the former USSR states the three EU member states neighboring the Black Sea Bulgaria Greece and Romania and a NATO country Turkey Are the fault lines dividing them more pervasive than the incentives for cooperation Can we speak of a shared identity The first part of the book places the Black Sea problematique in a wider historical and spatial context The authors then take a closer look at the region and examine further the structure of the Black Sea area They offer a perspective on smaller actors with great ambitions such as Azerbaijan and Romania and go on to make a comparison between the emerging regionalism in the Black Sea area and regionalisms in other parts of the world
