A Perpetual Fire Lara Jaishree Netting, 2013-09-01 After serving as a missionary and then foreign advisor to Qing officials from 1887 to 1911 John Ferguson became a leading dealer of Chinese art providing the Metropolitan Museum of Art the Cleveland Museum of Art and other museums with their inaugural collections of paintings and bronzes In multiple publications dating to the 1920s and 1930s Ferguson made the controversial claim that China's autochthonous culture was the basis of Chinese art His two Chinese language reference works still in use today were produced with essential help from Chinese scholars Emulating these men of culture with whom he lived and worked in Peking Ferguson gathered paintings bronzes rubbings and other artifacts In 1934 he donated this group of over one thousand objects to Nanjing University the school he had helped to found as a young missionary This work offers a significant contribution to the history of Chinese art collection John Ferguson learned from and worked with Qing dynasty collectors and scholars and then Republican era dealers and archeologists while simultaneously supplying the objects he had come to know as Chinese art to American museums and individuals He is an ideal subject to help us see the interconnections between increased Western interest in Chinese art and archeology in the modern era and cultural change taking place in China

Eulogy for Burying a Crane and the Art of Chinese Calligraphy Lei Xue, 2019-12-06 Eulogy for Burying a Crane Yi he ming is perhaps the most eccentric piece in China's calligraphic canon Apparently marking the burial of a crane the large inscription datable to 514 CE was once carved into a cliff on Jiaoshan Island in the Yangzi River Since the discovery of its ruins in the early eleventh century it has fascinated generations of scholars and calligraphers and been enshrined as a calligraphic masterpiece Nonetheless skeptics have questioned the quality of the calligraphy and complained that its fragmentary state and worn characters make assessment of its artistic value impossible Moreover historians have trouble fitting it into the storyline of Chinese calligraphy Such controversies illuminate moments of discontinuity in the history of the art form that complicate the mechanism of canon formation In this volume Lei Xue examines previous epigraphic studies and recent archaeological finds to consider the origin of the work in the sixth century and then trace its history after the eleventh century He suggests that formation of the canon of Chinese calligraphy over two millennia has been an ongoing process embedded in the sociopolitical realities of particular historical moments This biography of the stone monument Eulogy for Burying a Crane reveals Chinese calligraphy to be a contested field of cultural and political forces that have constantly reconfigured the practice theory and historiography of this unique art form Art History Publication Initiative A McLellan Book The Legacy of Genghis Khan Linda Komaroff, Stefano Carboni, Metropolitan Museum of Art (New York, N.Y.), 2002 Komaroff curator of Islamic Art Los Angeles County Museum of Art and Carboni curator of Islamic Art Metropolitan Museum of Art produced this fine catalog to accompany a major show of Ilkhanid as the Mongol dynasty was called after conversion to Islam art exhibited at the authors museums in New York and Los Angeles in 2002 2003 Most of the manuscripts metalwork textiles ceramics and other finely decorated objects were created in Iran Many objects are also included from the Yuan Dynasty in China during which the Mongols ruled Eight full length essays are built around the objects of the exhibition and other works all depicted in color The essays describe the history culture courtly life artistic exchanges religious art arts of the book and creation of a new visual language Distributed by Yale U Press Annotation copyrighted by Book News Inc Portland OR
