The Competitiveness Of Industry In The Czech Republic And Hungary:

Competitiveness of Industry in the Czech Republic and Hungary D. M. W. N. Hitchens, 1995 This is a macroeconomic comparison amongst Germany the Czech Republic and Hungary The German studies demonstrate a rapid transition to the market economy in East Germany with inflows of capital from West Germany Hungary proves a case of lower adjustment and the Czech Republic is somewhere in between Trade and Cost Competitiveness in the Czech Republic, Hungary, Poland, and Slovenia Peter Havlik, 2000-01-01 Although the four countries considered in this study are the most developed transition countries in Europe their average wages are only a fraction of West European levels While the labor costs would theoretically give the Central and Eastern European CEEC countries an advantage capital shortages and the lack of skills required for a market economy prevent its use The report was prepared under the auspices of the World Bank by Peter Havlik Deputy Director of the Vienna Institute for International Economic Studies WIIW This report reviews wage and labor productivity developments and examines the evolution of export competitiveness It also summarizes the main findings from the ongoing research by WIIW on the impact of foreign direct investment on restructuring and provides some policy recommendations The Competitiveness of Transition Economies OECD, 1998-07-29 This book offers a comprehensive and a comparative approach on the different interactions between trade FDI and the process of economic transformation

Changes in the Competitive Position of the Czech Republic, Hungary and Poland in the EU Market Iga Magda, Anna Wziatek-Kubiak, 2009 This paper aims at comparing the uneven process of changes in competitiveness among three accession countries manufacturing industries the Czech Republic Hungary and Poland during the period prior to their EU membership 1996 2003 It demonstrates that the three countries improved competitiveness in the majority of their manufacturing industries However these changes were differentiated across time among industries in terms of the quality of segments and between the three countries overall A drop in the productivity gap between the manufacturing industries of the three accession and the incumbent EU countries played the major role in improvement in competitiveness It determined the drop in relative unit labour costs The paper shows that changes in competitive advantages of a given country's industry reflect changes in relative as compared to foreign productivity rather than differences in level and changes in productivity among industries of a given country The dynamics and levels of productivity among the Czech and Polish larger winners were lower than the manufacturing average of both countries However since the improvement in productivity in these industries in both countries was larger than in their incumbent EU counterparts the former pushed the latter out of the EU market Poland's and the Czech Republic's export specialisation in less productive industries implies that their export expansion to the EU would result in lower than potential economic growth in both countries The paper shows that Smith's law of absolute advantages tends to determine changes in market share Modeling Innovation Sustainability and Technologies Albertina Dias, Bror Salmelin, David Pereira, Miguel Sales Dias, 2018-02-01 This book gathers a diverse range of novel research on modeling innovation policies for sustainable economic development based on a selection of papers from a conference on modeling innovation systems and technologies MIST It aims at encouraging interdisciplinary and comparative approaches bringing together researchers and professionals interested in sustainable economic technological development and open innovation as well as their dissemination and practical application The respective contributions explore a variety of topics and cases including regional innovation policy the effects of open innovation on firms innovation and sustainability in tourism and the use of information and communication technologies All chapters share a strong focus on new research and innovation methodologies in keeping with the Experimentation and Application Research EAR and Open Innovation 2 0 principles

Competitiveness, Subsidiarity and Industrial Policy Pat J. Devine, Yannis S. Katsoulacos, Roger

Sugden, 2005-08-18 Leading international economists examine the relationship between competitiveness and community objectives the co existence of diversity subsidiarity and EU industrial policy and the consequences of further European integration Towards Competition in Network Industries Paul J.J. Welfens, George Yarrow, Ruslan Grinberg, Cornelius

Graack, 2012-12-06 Competition in network industries faces particular problems which are analyzed from both a theoretical and policy perspective Issues of vertical integration deregulation and privatization are covered While competition and privatization are rapidly unfolding in telecommunications in Western and Eastern Europe energy and railway transportation represent sectors of more gradual liberalization The different market characteristics of telecommunications energy and transportation raise consistency problems in the fields of deregulation investment strategies and internationalization While transformation policies create opportunities for liberalization in Eastern Europe and Russia the latter shows critical problems in ending monopoly and state ownership Network industries could be subject to competition and promise major investment opportunities plus consumer benefits Competitiveness Creation and Maintenance in the Postal Services Industry

Vaida Pilinkienė, Vilma Deltuvaitė, Asta Daunorienė, Vaidas Gaidelys, 2016-07-01 This book examines the changing business and economic environment for postal services in Lithuania and the upcoming challenges for this industry Postal services continue to play a central part in the development of national economies However the economic and social role of postal services has changed rapidly and fundamentally over the last two decades In most industrialized countries paper based communications are in serious decline while the demand for parcel delivery services is rising steadily with the continuing development of e commerce just in time production techniques and global supply chains For the postal sector as a whole the centre of gravity has shifted dramatically from letters and documents to parcels The authors explain how the organizational paradigm has inexorably shifted from that of a national government owned postal administration providing the basic delivery services required by society to a system of interdependent local and regional undertakings that both compete and cooperate with one another The book argues that there are no indications that the postal sector has stopped changing and that it seems most probable that the European Union's postal sector will look quite different in 2035 than it does today In closing the book explains how the shareholders of postal services companies have recently confirmed that the time has come to rethink the strategy of creating and maintaining competitiveness in the postal services industry Industry Competitiveness:
