Bazyn,2019-01-16 How can one do justice to the heights and depths of the human condition its mind boggling accomplishments its horrid corruptions Christian tradition in its wisdom has acknowledged both extremes We are fallible amphibians composed of matter and spirit yet capable of intense communication with God Bazyn poetically expands on and dissects the conundrums Frustrations dog our every step and cravings overthrow us repeatedly Why are we so prone to duplicity to prejudice What causes us to explode in anger retreat into superficiality see only the short term Why do we mistreat and ridicule others e g the poor minorities women Free will itself can create saints or antiheroes Rich in vocabulary dense in allusions far ranging in insight at times aphoristic in style these poems are the outpourings of anguished authenticity What message is our town bell pealing today Why are there flaws beneath the smoothest of surfaces How is it that we so often follow a zigzag course If revelation comes it may blind us or shine but a dim shadowy half light Bazyn s spontaneous undoctored black and white images clarify and add nuance to each vital topic As Augustine forthrightly acknowledged in Confessions I have become a puzzle to myself

Michael J. Sauter,2021-06-06 This book explores the main currents of European thought between 1350 and 1992 which it approaches in two principal ways culture as produced by place and the progressive unmooring of thought from previously set religious and philosophical boundaries The book reads the period against spatial thought's history spatial sciences such as geography or Euclidean geometry to argue that Europe cannot be understood as a continent in intellectual terms or its history organized with respect to traditional spatial geographic categories Instead we need to understand European intellectual history in terms of a culture that defined its own place as opposed to a place that produced a given culture. It then builds on this idea to argue that Europe's overweening drive to know more about humanity and the cosmos continually breached the boundaries set by venerable religious and philosophical traditions. In this respect, spatial thought foregrounded the human at the unchanging's expense, with European thought slowly becoming unmoored as it doggedly produced knowledge at wisdom's expense. Michael J. Sauter illustrates this by pursuing historical themes across different chapters, including European thought's exit from the medieval period, the Renaissance, the Reformation, the Scientific Revolution, the Enlightenment, and Romanticism, the Industrial Revolution, and war and culture, offering a thorough overview of European thought during this period. The book concludes by explaining how contemporary culture has forgotten what early modern thinkers such as Michel de Montaigne still knew: namely, that too little skepticism toward one's own certainties makes one a danger to others. Offering a comprehensive introduction to European thought that stretches from the late fourteenth to the late twentieth century, this is the perfect one-volume study for students of European intellectual history.

Renaissance Responses to Technological Change Sheila J. Nayar, 2018-10-29 This book foregrounds the pressures that three transformative technologies in the long sixteenth century—the printing press, gunpowder, and the magnetic compass—placed on long-held literary practices as well as on cultural and social structures. Sheila J. Nayar disinters the clash between humanist drives and print culture, places the rise of gunpowder warfare beside the equivalent rise in chivalric romance, and illustrates fraught attempts by humanists to hold on to classicist traditions in the face of seismic changes in navigation. Lively and engaging, this study illuminates not only how literature responded to radical technological changes but also how literature was sometimes forced through unanticipated destabilizations to reimagine itself. By tracing the early modern human's interanimation with print powder and compass, Nayar exposes how these technologies assisted in producing new ways of seeing, knowing, and being in the world.

Anxieties of Interiority and Dissection in Early Modern Spain Enrique Fernandez, 2015-01-01 Anxieties of Interiority and Dissection in Early Modern Spain brings the study of Europe's culture of dissection to the Iberian peninsula, presenting a neglected episode in the development of the modern concept of the self. Enrique Fernandez explores the ways in which sixteenth and seventeenth-century anatomical research stimulated both a sense of interiority and a fear of that interior's exposure and punishment by the early modern state. Examining works by Miguel de Cervantes, Mar a de Zayas, Fray Luis de Granada, and Francisco de Quevedo, Fernandez highlights the existence of narratives in which the author creates a surrogate self on paper, then dissects it. He argues that these texts share a fearful awareness of having a complex inner self in a country where one's interiority was under permanent threat of punitive exposure by the Inquisition or the state. A sophisticated analysis of literary, religious, and medical practice in early modern Spain, Fernandez's work will interest scholars working on questions of early modern science medicine and body politics
