The Complete Works Of Washington Irving Volume Viii Sketch Of Geoffrey Crayon Gent:

Literary Memory Catherine Jones,2003 Theoretically and historically grounded Literary Memory will appeal to all those interested in the writings of Scott the Scottish Enlightenment Romantic cultural history the history of the novel narrative theory and literature in relation to psychology and psychoanalysis BOOK JACKET The Sketch Book of Geoffrey Crayon, Gent. Washington Irving,2015-10-14 THE following papers with two exceptions were written in England and formed but part of an intended series for which I had made notes and memorandums Before I could mature a plan however circumstances compelled me to send them piecemeal to the United States where they were published from time to time in portions or numbers It was not my intention to publish them in England being conscious that much of their contents could be interesting only to American readers and in truth being deterred by the severity with which American productions had been treated by the British press By the time the contents of the first volume had appeared in this occasional manner they began to find their way across the Atlantic and to be inserted with many kind encomiums in the London Literary Gazette It was said also that a London bookseller intended to publish them in a collective form I determined therefore to bring them forward myself that they might at least have the benefit of my superintendence and revision I accordingly took the printed numbers which I had received from the United States to Mr John Murray the eminent publisher from whom I had already received friendly attentions and left them with him for examination informing him that should he be inclined to bring them before the public I had materials enough on hand for a second volume Several days having elapsed without any communication from Mr Murray I addressed a note to him in which I construed his silence into a tacit rejection of my work and begged that the numbers I had left with him might be returned to me The following was his reply American Literature in Transition, 1820-1860: Volume 2 Justine S. Murison,2022-06-23 The essays in American Literature in Transition 1820 1860 offer a new approach to the antebellum era one that frames the age not merely as the precursor to the Civil War but as indispensable for understanding present crises around such issues as race imperialism climate change and the role of literature in American society The essays make visible and usable the period's fecund imagined futures futures that certainly included disunion but not only disunion Tracing the historical contexts literary forms and formats global coordinates and present reverberations of antebellum literature and culture the essays in this volume build on existing scholarship while indicating exciting new avenues for research and teaching Taken together the essays in this volume make this era's literature relevant for a new generation of students and scholars The Legend of Sleepy Hollow and Other Stories Washington Irving,1999-10-01 Before the fall premiere of the new television series read the original legend of Ichabod Crane the Headless Horseman and the singularly spooky town of Sleepy Hollow in Washington Irving's classic book When Washington Irving first published this collection of essays sketches and tales originally entitled The Sketch Book of Geoffrey Crayon Gent readers greeted it with enthusiasm and Irving emerged as America's first successful professional author This volume includes The Legend of Sleepy

Hollow and Rip Van Winkle two of America's most recognizable and loved works of fiction and displays Irving's ability to depict American landscapes and culture so vividly that readers feel themselves a part of them And it is on the basis of these two classic tales that Irving is generally credited with inventing the short story as a distinct literary genre Also included here are gently ironic pieces about life in England that reflect the author's interest in the traditions of the Old World and his longings for his home in the New

Washington Irving Brian Jay Jones, 2011-11-15 Brian Jay Jones crafts a deft biography of the author of The Legend of Sleepy Hollow and Rip van Winkle quintessential New Yorker presidential confidant diplomat lawyer and fascinating charmer The first American writer to make his pen his primary means of support Washington Irving rocketed to fame at the age of twenty six In 1809 he published A History of New York under the pseudonym Diedrich Knickerbocker to great acclaim The public's appetite for all things Irving was insatiable his name alone guaranteed sales At the time he was one of the most famous men in the world a friend of Dickens Hawthorne and Longfellow as well as Astor van Buren and Madison But his sparkling public persona was only one side of this gentleman author In brilliant meticulous strokes Brian Jay Jones renders Washington Irving in all his flawed splendor someone who fretted about money and employment suffered from writer's block and doggedly cultivated his reputation Jones offers a very human portrait of the often contrasting public and private lives of this true American original

New World Dutch Studies Roderic H. Blackburn, Nancy A. Kelley, 1987-01-01

The art archaeology history and lifeways of New Netherland come vividly to life in these essays by world experts on both sides of the Atlantic. The wide range of objects used and manufactured by Dutch settlers in the New World reveals much about their social life and times. Of particular interest in this volume are Fort Orange pipe bowls, ceramics, wooden cellars and other perishable structures, cupboards, the town house, farming techniques and equipment, plates, seals, rural architecture, canals, and the evidence of New Netherland life gleaned from paintings and the Knickerbocker works of Washington Irving. A companion to the widely praised Remembrance of Patria: Dutch Arts and Culture in Colonial America, 1609-1776, this volume offers in depth descriptions and analyses of Dutch colonial life and material culture as assessed by the leading scholars in the Netherlands and the United States. Roderic H. Blackburn is an ethnologist and architectural historian who has held positions as Director of Research at Historic Cherry Hill, Assistant Director of the Albany Institute of History and Art, and Senior Research Fellow at the New York State Museum. He is the author of Dutch Colonial Homes in America: Great Houses of New England and with Ruth Piwonka Remembrance of Patria: Dutch Arts and Culture in Colonial America, 1609-1776. Nancy A. Kelly is an Associate Museum Exhibit Planner at the New York State Museum.

The Genius of Place Christopher C. Apap, 2016-03-10. The Genius of Place examines how after the War of 1812, concerns about the scale of the nation resulted in a fundamental reorientation of American identity away from the Atlantic or global ties that held sway in the early republic and toward more localized forms of identification. Instead of addressing the sweep of the nation, American authors, artists, geographers, and politicians shifted from the larger reach of the globe to the more manageable scope of the local and sectional. Paradoxically, that local representation became the primary mode through which early Americans construed their emerging national identity. This newfound cultural obsession with locality impacted the literary consolidation and representation of key American imagined places: New England, the plantation, the West, in the decades between 1816 and 1836. Apap's examination of the intersections between local and national representations and exploration of the myths of space and place that shaped U.S. identity through the nineteenth century will appeal to a broad interdisciplinary readership.

The American Idea of England, 1776-1840 Jennifer Clark, 2016-04-01. Arguing that American colonists who declared their independence in 1776 remained tied to England by both habit and inclination, Jennifer Clark traces the new Americans' struggle to come to terms with their loss of identity as British and particularly English citizens. Americans' attempts to negotiate the new Anglo-American relationship are revealed in letters, newspaper accounts, travel reports, essays, song lyrics, short stories, and novels, which Clark suggests show them repositioning themselves in a transatlantic context newly defined by political revolution. Chapters examine political writing as a means for Americans to explore the Anglo-American relationship, the appropriation of John Bull by American writers, the challenge the War of 1812 posed to the reconstructed Anglo-American relationship, the Paper War between American and English authors that began around the time of the War of 1812, accounts by Americans lured to England as a place of poetry, story, and history, and the work of American writers who dissected the Anglo American relationship in their fiction Carefully contextualised historically Clark s persuasive study shows that any attempt to examine what it meant to be American in the New Nation and immediately beyond must be situated within the context of the Anglo American relationship
