

Consumer goods in the soviet economy

- The Russian Revolution led to the rapid industrialization of the previously agrarian Russian economy & this made the economy lag behind in the output of light industrial production & consumer durables.
- In the early years, wages were rising & priorities were shifting from consumer to producer goods which resulted in inflation. After WWII, wages were better controlled and consumer goods output was increased.
- The stagnation in the 70's & 80's led to expectations of increased role for consumer goods in the soviet.
- But despite a greater emphasis on light industry and efforts to restructure the entire planning and production systems, the results were not heartening as was seen in the chronic shortage that would grip the entire economy.

Growth And Inflation In The Soviet Economy Fyodor I Kushnirsky, 2019-09-10 While growth figures are high for Soviet industry in general they are especially impressive for the MBMW sector which has far outperformed other sectors of the economy The question widely debated in the U S S R now is whether these impressive figures actually reflect the growth of physical output To put it differently did the Soviet economy receive more machines and equipment as a result of this growth and if so was the rate of real growth the same as the growth in value terms But why would one raise such a question in the first place To answer this and similar questions the procedures of Soviet measurement of output productivity costs and prices have been analyzed in this study Special attention is given to the processes of planning quality improvements and pricing new technological items An analysis of procedures and methodological instructions used in planning and pricing MBMW products may be helpful in revealing possible discrepancies between prices of new goods and their quality
