

The background of the book cover is a detailed illustration of various waterfowl and shorebirds. In the upper right, a mallard duck is shown in profile. Below it, a brown bird, possibly a snipe or woodcock, stands on a patch of grass. To the left of the title box, a dark bird, likely a grebe, is partially visible. The central area is filled with several other birds: a long-billed curlew in the center, a dark bird (possibly a grebe or cormorant) on the right, and a brown bird (possibly a snipe) on the left. The lower half of the cover features a variety of birds, including a large brown bird (possibly a grebe) on the left, a white bird (possibly a swan or goose) in the center, and a brown bird (possibly a snipe) on the right. The overall style is that of a classic natural history illustration, with a focus on the birds' forms and colors.
