PURITANS

Puritans were people who wanted to "purify," or simplify, the Church of England. The Pilgrims were part of the Puritan sect, though they were often called "Separatists" because they wanted to separate from the Church of England, rather than purify it. Puritans felt that the Church of England had kept too many Catholic practices. Many officials in England did not approve of the Puritans and often persecuted, or mistreated them.

Some Puritans saw the discovery of the New World as a unique opportunity to create a model church in America as an example, a "city on a hill" for all to follow. In the 1630s, the Puritans established the Massachusetts Bay Colony in the New England region. It quickly grew to have a population of several thousand people, many of them coming to Boston but others scattered throughout New England.
