

The Atlas

Martin Brückner

The Atlas:

The Effects of Occipitalization of the Atlas on Facial Skeletal Morphology Gaylord Don Noren, 1983 In this study a series of measurements and relationships of the cranial base and facial skeleton from right lateral and posterior anterior cephalometric radiographs of each occipitalized and selected normal skulls is obtained This collection of data is subjected to statistical analyses comparing the group bearing the cranio vertebral anomaly with the group of selected normal skulls Correlation data between measurements within each group are computed to investigate cause and effect relationships

Search for Dark Matter with the ATLAS Detector Johanna Gramling, 2018-08-01 This book discusses searches for Dark Matter at the CERN's LHC the world's most powerful accelerator It introduces the relevant theoretical framework and includes an in depth discussion of the Effective Field Theory approach to Dark Matter production and its validity as well as an overview of the formalism of Simplified Dark Matter models Despite overwhelming astrophysical evidence for Dark Matter and numerous experimental efforts to detect it the nature of Dark Matter still remains a mystery and has become one of the hottest research topics in fundamental physics Two searches for Dark Matter are presented performed on data collected with the ATLAS experiment They analyze missing energy final states with a jet or with top quarks The analyses are explained in detail and the outcomes and their interpretations are discussed also in view of the precedent analysis of theoretical approaches Given its depth of coverage the book represents an excellent reference guide for all physicists interested in understanding the theoretical and experimental considerations relevant to Dark Matter searches at the LHC
