The Company We Keep An Ethics Of Fiction:

The Company We Keep Wayne C. Booth, 1988 Bibliography of ethical criticism p 505 534 Presents arguments for the relocation of ethics to the center of literature examining periods genres and particular works      The Company We Keep Wayne C. Booth, 1988 Wayne C Booth argues for the relocation of ethics to the center of our engagement with literature What he has succeeded in doing is to establish that ethical values must enter into our experience of literature Richard Eder Los Angeles Times Book Review      The Company We Keep Wayne C. Booth, 1988 Presents arguments for the relocation of ethics to the center of literature examining periods genres and particular works      The Company We Keep Wayne C. Booth, 1988 Bibliography of ethical criticism p 505 534 Presents arguments for the relocation of ethics to the center of literature examining periods genres and particular works      Children's Literature as Communication Roger D. Sell, 2002-01-01 In this book members of the ChiLPA Project explore the children's literature of several different cultures ranging from ancient India nineteenth century Russia and the Soviet Union to twentieth century Britain America Australia Sweden and Finland The research covers not only the form and content of books for children but also their potential social functions especially within education These two perspectives are brought together within a theory of children's literature as one among other forms of communication an approach that sees the role of literary scholars critics and teachers as one of mediation Part I deals with the way children's writers and picturebook makers draw on a culture's available resources of orality literacy intertextuality and image Part II examines their negotiation of major issues such as the child/adult distinction gender politics and the Holocaust Part III discusses children's books as used within language education programmes with particular attention to young readers pragmatic processing of differences between the context of writing and their own context of reading      "The Company we keep.", 1980      The Essential Wayne Booth Wayne C. Booth, 2006-07-15 Publisher description      Teaching Literature T. Agathocleous, A. Dean, 2002-12-16 In Teaching Literature scholars explain how they think about their everyday experience in the classroom using the tools of their ongoing scholarly projects and engaging with current debates in literary studies Until recently teaching has played second fiddle to literary research as a mode of knowledge in academia leaving new teachers with nowhere to turn for advice about teaching and no forum for discussion of the difficulties and opportunities they face in the classroom      Kinship and Collective Action Gero Bauer, Anya Heise-von der Lippe, Nicole Hirschfelder, Katharina Luther, 2020-09-28 Make kin not babies Donna Haraway demands in an attempt to offer new and creative ways of thinking what kinship might mean in an age of ecological devastation At the same time the emergence of a seemingly new culture of public protest and political opinion have provoked scholars such as Judith Butler to address the contexts and dynamics of public collective action This volume explores the dynamic relationship between structures of kinship and the material conditions under which collective action emerges from a literary and cultural studies perspective How are kinship and collective action negotiated in literature the arts or in specific historical moments and how does this affect the role of representation How have conceptualizations of both concepts developed over time and what can we infer from this for questions of kinship and collective action today      Transforming Literacy: Changing Lives Through Reading and Writing Robert P. Waxler, Maureen P. Hall, 2011-05-11 The book is interdisciplinary in focus and centers on enlarging teachers understanding of how reading and writing can change lives and how the language arts can contribute significantly to and change educational processes in the twenty first century Implicit in its argument is that although the emphasis on science and math is crucial to education in the digital age it remains vitally important to keep reading and writing language and story at the heart of the educational process This is particularly true in a democratic society because shaping stories through human language can enhance the quality of our lives and teach us something important about what it means to be human and vulnerable In this sense stories allow for self reflection and an increased opportunity to enhance and understand emotional intelligence and human community      Conrad and Theory, 2023-11-27 Series Editor Allan Simmons For submissions and a template please visit www.josephconradsociety.org conradian

American Theorists of the Novel Peter Rawlings, 2007-01-24 Rawlings book explores the work of revolutionary critics Henry James Lionel Trilling and Wayne C Booth Packed with student friendly features he discusses their ideas on moral intelligence realism and representation and authors and narration      Teaching Religion and Literature Daniel Boscaljon, Alan Levinovitz, 2018-09-27 Teaching Religion and Literature provides a practical engagement with the pedagogical possibilities of teaching religion courses using literature teaching literature classes using religion and teaching Religion and Literature as a discipline Featuring chapters written by award winning teachers from a variety of institutional settings the book gives anyone interested in providing interdisciplinary education a set of questions resources and tools that will deepen a classroom s engagement with the field Chapters are grounded in specific texts and religious questions but are oriented toward engaging general pedagogical issues that allow each chapter to improve any instructor s engagement with interdisciplinary education The book offers resources to instructors new to teaching Religion and Literature and provides definitions of what the field means from senior scholars in the field Featuring a wide range of religious traditions genres and approaches the book also provides an innovative glimpse at emerging possibilities for the sub discipline      The Cambridge History of Literary Criticism: Volume 9, Twentieth-Century Historical, Philosophical and Psychological Perspectives George Alexander Kennedy, Christa Knellwolf, 1989 This ninth volume in The Cambridge History of Literary Criticism presents a wide ranging survey of developments in literary criticism and theory during the last century Drawing on the combined expertise of a large team of specialist scholars it offers an authoritative account of the various movements of thought that have made the late twentieth century such a richly productive period in the history of criticism The aim has been to cover developments which have had greatest impact on the academic study of literature along with background chapters that place those movements in a broader intellectual national and socio cultural perspective In comparison with Volumes Seven and Eight also devoted to twentieth century developments there is marked emphasis on the rethinking of historical and philosophical approaches which have emerged especially during the past two decades as among the most challenging areas of debate

How to Do Things with Fictions Joshua Landy, 2012-08-23 Why does Mark's Jesus speak in parables Why does Plato's Socrates make bad arguments Why are Beckett's novels so inscrutable And why don't stage magicians even pretend to summon spirits anymore In a series of captivating chapters on Mark Plato Beckett Mallarm and Chaucer Joshua Landy not only answers these questions but explains why they are worth asking in the first place Witty and approachable How to Do Things with Fictions challenges the widespread assumption that literary texts must be informative or morally improving in order to be of any real benefit It reveals that authors are sometimes best thought of not as entertainers or as educators but as personal trainers of the brain putting their willing readers through exercises designed to fortify specific mental capacities from form giving to equanimity from reason to faith Delivering plenty of surprises along the way that moral readings of literature can be positively dangerous that the parables were deliberately designed to be misunderstood that Plato knowingly sets his main character up for a fall that metaphor is powerfully connected to religious faith that we can sustain our beliefs even when we suspect them to be illusions How to Do Things with Fictions convincingly shows that our best allies in the struggle for more rigorous thinking deeper faith richer experience and greater peace of mind may well be the imaginative writings sitting on our shelves

Narrative and Consciousness Gary D. Fireman, Ted E. McVay, Owen J. Flanagan, 2003-06-12 We define our conscious experience by constructing narratives about ourselves and the people with whom we interact Narrative pervades our lives conscious experience is not merely linked to the number and variety of personal stories we construct with each other within a cultural frame but is subsumed by them The claim however that narrative constructions are essential to conscious experience is not useful or informative unless we can also begin to provide a distinct organized and empirically consistent explanation for narrative in relation to consciousness Understanding the role of narrative in determining individual and collective consciousness has been elusive from within traditional academic frameworks This volume argues that addressing so broad and complex a problem requires an examination from outside our insular disciplinary framework Such an open examination would be informed by the inquiries and approaches of multiple disciplines Recognition of the different approaches to examining personal stories will allow for the coordination of how narrative seems its phenomenology with what mental labor it does its psychology and how it is realized its neurobiology Only by overcoming the boundaries erected by multiple theoretical and discursive traditions can we begin to comprehend the nature and function of narrative in consciousness Narrative and Consciousness brings together essays by exceptional scholars and scientists in the disciplines of literary theory psychology and neuroscience to examine how stories are constructed how stories structure lived experience and how stories are rooted in material reality the human body The specific topics addressed include narrative in the development of conscious awareness autobiographical narrative fiction and the construction of self trauma and narrative disruptions narrative memory and identity and the physiological and neural substrate of narrative It is the editors hope that the multidisciplinary nature of this collection will challenge the reader to move beyond disciplinary confines and toward a coherent interdisciplinary dialogue Why Reading Books Still Matters Martha C. Pennington, Robert P. Waxler, 2017-08-29 Bringing together strands of public discourse about valuing personal achievement at the expense of social values and the impacts of global capitalism mass media and digital culture on the lives of children this book challenges the potential of science and business to solve the world's problems without a complementary emphasis on social values The selection of literary works discussed illustrates the power of literature and human arts to instill such values and foster change The book offers a valuable foundation for the field of literacy education by providing knowledge about the importance of language and literature that educators can use in their own teaching and advocacy work

Routledge Encyclopedia of Narrative Theory David Herman, Manfred Jahn, Marie-Laure Ryan, 2010-06-10 The past several decades have seen an explosion of interest in narrative with this multifaceted object of inquiry becoming a central concern in a wide range of disciplinary fields and research contexts As accounts of what happened to particular people in particular circumstances and with specific consequences stories have come to be viewed as a basic human strategy for coming to terms with time process and change However the very predominance of narrative as a focus of interest across multiple disciplines makes it imperative for scholars teachers and students to have access to a comprehensive reference resource The Oxford Handbook of Virginia Woolf Anne E. Fernald, 2021 A Handbook on Woolf's achievements as an innovative novelist and pioneering feminist theorist It studies her life her works her relationships with other writers her professional career and themes in her work including among others feminism sexuality education and class Through the Lens of the Reader Lilian R. Furst, 1991-11-29 Through the Lens of the Reader is a sequence of ten essays exploring European narrative from the eighteenth to the twentieth century It covers a wide spectrum of authors ranging from Goethe through Balzac Flaubert Zola George Eliot Henry James to Rilke Thomas Mann and Kafka The essays are unified by a particular mode of reading in which the lens of the reader becomes the filter through which texts are constructed in accordance with the signals emitted by their narrational and linguistic strategies
