The Matching Methodology Some Statistical Properties Lecture Notes In Statistics:

The Matching Methodology: Some Statistical Properties Prem K. Goel, Thirugnanasambandam Ramalingam, 2012-12-06 Incomplete data problems arise naturally in many instances of statistical practice One class of incomplete data problems which is relatively not well understood by statisticians is that of merging micro data files Many Federal agencies use the methodology of file merging to create comprehensive files from multiple but incomplete sources of data The main objective of this endeavor is to perform statistical analyses on the synthetic data set generated by file merging In general these analyses cannot be performed by analyzing the incomplete data sets separately The validity and the efficacy of the file merging methodology can be assessed by means of statistical models underlying the mechanisms which may generate the incomplete files However a completely satisfactory and unified theory of file merging has not yet been developed This monograph is only a minor attempt to fill this void for unifying known models Here we review the optimal properties of some known matching strategies and derive new results thereof However a great number of unsolved problems still need the attention of very many researchers One main problem still to be resolved is the development of appropriate inference methodology from merged files if one insists on using file merging methodology If this monograph succeeds in attracting just a few more mathematical statisticians to work on this class of problems then we will feel that our efforts have been successful

Bayesian Thinking, Modeling and Computation, 2005-11-29 This volume describes how to develop Bayesian thinking modelling and computation both from philosophical methodological and application point of view It further describes parametric and nonparametric Bayesian methods for modelling and how to use modern computational methods to summarize inferences using simulation The book covers wide range of topics including objective and subjective Bayesian inferences with a variety of applications in modelling categorical survival spatial spatiotemporal Epidemiological software reliability small area and micro array data The book concludes with a chapter on how to teach Bayesian thoughts to nonstatisticians Critical thinking on causal effects Objective Bayesian philosophy Nonparametric Bayesian methodology Simulation based computing techniques Bioinformatics and Biostatistics

Statistical Matching Susanne Rässler, 2012-12-06 Data fusion or statistical file matching techniques merge data sets from different survey samples to solve the problem that exists when no single file contains all the variables of interest Media agencies are merging television and purchasing data statistical offices match tax information with income surveys Many traditional applications are known but information about these procedures is often difficult to achieve The author proposes the use of multiple imputation MI techniques using informative prior distributions to overcome the conditional independence assumption By means of MI sensitivity of the unconditional association of the variables not jointly observed can be displayed An application of the alternative approaches with real world data concludes the book

Statistical Disclosure Control in Practice Leon Willenborg, Ton de Waal, 2012-12-06 The aim of this book is to discuss various aspects associated with disseminating personal or business data collected in censuses or surveys or copied from administrative sources The problem is to present the data in such a form that they are useful for statistical research and to provide sufficient protection for the individuals or businesses to whom the data refer The major part of this book is concerned with how to define the disclosure problem and how to deal with it in practical circumstances Vital and Health Statistics, 2008

Series Approximation Methods in Statistics John E. Kolassa, 2013-04-17 This book was originally compiled for a course I taught at the University of Rochester in the fall of 1991 and is intended to give advanced graduate students in statistics an introduction to Edgeworth and saddlepoint approximations and related techniques Many other authors have also written monographs on this subject and so this work is narrowly focused on two areas not recently discussed in theoretical text books These areas are first a rigorous consideration of Edgeworth and saddlepoint expansion limit theorems and second a survey of the more recent developments in the field In presenting expansion limit theorems I have drawn heavily on notation of McCullagh 1987 and on the theorems presented by Feller 1971 on Edgeworth expansions For saddlepoint notation and results I relied most heavily on the many papers of Daniels and a review paper by Reid 1988 Throughout this book I have tried to maintain consistent notation and to present theorems in such a way as to make a few theoretical results useful in as many contexts as possible This was not only in order to present as many results with as few proofs as possible but more importantly to show the interconnections between the various facets of asymptotic theory Special attention is paid to regularity conditions The reasons they are needed and the parts they play in the proofs are both highlighted

Model-Oriented Design of Experiments Valerii V. Fedorov, Peter Hackl, 1997-06-20 Here the authors explain the basic ideas so as to generate interest in modern problems of experimental design The topics discussed include designs for inference based on nonlinear models designs for models with random parameters and stochastic processes designs for model discrimination and incorrectly specified contaminated models as well as examples of designs in functional spaces Since the authors avoid technical details the book assumes only a moderate background in calculus matrix algebra and statistics However at many places hints are given as to how readers may enhance and adopt the basic ideas for advanced problems or applications This allows the book to be used for courses at different levels as well as serving as a useful reference for graduate students and researchers in statistics and engineering

A Road to Randomness in Physical Systems Eduardo M.R.A. Engel, 2012-12-06 There are many ways of introducing the concept of probability in classical i.e. deterministic physics This work is concerned with one approach known as the method of arbitrary function It was put forward by Poincare in 1896 and developed by Hopf in the 1930s The idea is the following There is always some uncertainty in our knowledge of both the initial conditions and the values of the physical constants that characterize the evolution of a physical system A probability density may be used to describe this uncertainty For many physical systems dependence on the initial density washes away with time In these cases the system's position eventually converges to the same random variable no matter what density is used to describe initial uncertainty Hopf's results for the method of arbitrary functions are derived and extended in a unified fashion in these lecture notes They include his work on dissipative systems subject to weak frictional forces Most prominent among the problems he considers is his carnival wheel example which is the first case where a probability distribution cannot be guessed from symmetry or other plausibility considerations but has to be derived combining the actual physics with the method of arbitrary functions Examples due to other authors such as Poincare's law of small planets Borel's billiards problem and Keller's coin tossing analysis are also studied using this framework Finally many new applications are presented

Bayesian Analysis in Statistics and Econometrics Prem K. Goel, N. Sreenivas Iyengar, 2012-12-06 This volume is based on the invited and the contributed presentations given at the Indo U S Workshop on Bayesian Analysis in Statistics and Econometrics BASE Dec 19-23 1988 held at the Hotel Taj Residency Bangalore India The workshop was jointly sponsored by The Ohio State University The Indian Statistical Institute The Indian Econometrics Society U S National Science Foundation and the NSF NBER Seminar on Bayesian Inference in Econometrics Profs Morrie DeGroot Prem Goel and Arnold Zellner were the program organizers Unfortunately Morrie became seriously ill just before the workshop was to start and could not participate in the workshop Almost a year later Morrie passed away after fighting valiantly with the illness Not to find Morrie among ourselves was a shock for most of us He was a continuous source of inspiration and ideas Even while Morrie was fighting for his life we had a lot of discussions about the contents of this volume and the Bangalore Workshop He even talked about organizing a Second Indo U S workshop some time in the near future We are dedicating this volume to the memory of Prof Morris H DeGroot We have taken a conscious decision not to include any biography of Morrie in this volume An excellent biography of Morrie has appeared in Statistical Science 1991 vol 6 1 14 and we could not have done a better job than that
