An Introduction to Human Evolutionary Anatomy Leslie Aiello,Christopher Dean (Ph. Schwartz,2022-11-01

Contributors from a range of disciplines consider the disconnect between human evolutionary studies and the rest of evolutionary biology The study of human evolution often seems to rely on scenarios and received wisdom rather than theory and methodology with each new fossil or molecular analysis interpreted as supporting evidence for the presumed lineage of human ancestry We might wonder why we should pursue new inquiries if we already know the story Is paleoanthropology an evolutionary science Are analyses of human evolution biological In this volume contributors from disciplines that range from paleoanthropology to philosophy of science consider the disconnect between human evolutionary studies and the rest of evolutionary biology All of the contributors reflect on their own research and its disciplinary context considering how their fields of inquiry can move forward in new ways The goal is to encourage a more multifaceted intellectual environment for the understanding of human evolution Topics discussed include paleoanthropology s history of procedural idiosyncrasies the role of mind and society in our evolutionary past humans as large mammals rather than a special case genomic analyses computational approaches to phylogenetic reconstruction descriptive morphology versus morphometrics and integrating insights from archaeology into the interpretation of human fossils Contributors Markus Bastir Fred L Bookstein Claudine Cohen Richard G Delisle Robin Dennell Rob DeSalle John de Vos Emma M Finestone Huw S Groucutt Gabriele A Macho Fabrizio Mc Manus Apurva Narechania Michael D Petraglia Thomas W Plummer J W F Reumer Jeff Rosenfeld Jeffrey H Schwartz Dietrich Stout Ian Tattersall Alan R Templeton Michael Tessler Peter J Waddell Martine Zilversmit The Human Lineage Matt Cartmill,Fred H. Smith,2009-03-30 This textbook aimed at advanced undergraduates and postgraduates in paleoanthropology courses tackles a rather difficult task that of presenting the substantial body of paleontological genetic geological and archaeological evidence regarding human evolution and the associated scientific history in a logical and readable way without sacrificing either clarity or detail the sheer quality of the writing and explanatory synthesis in this book will undoubtedly make it a valuable resource for students for many years PaleoAnthropology 2010 This book focuses on the last ten million years of human history from the hominoid radiations to the emergence and diversification of modern humanity It draws upon the fossil record to shed light on the key scientific issues principles methods and history in paleoanthropology The book proceeds through the fossil record of human evolution by historical stages representing the acquisition of major human features that explain the success and distinctive properties of modern Homo sapiens Key features Provides thorough coverage of the fossil record and sites with data on key variables such as cranial capacity and body size estimates Offers a balanced critical assessment of the interpretative models explaining pattern in the fossil record Each chapter incorporates a Blind Alley box focusing on once prevalent ideas now rejected such as the arboreal theory seed eating single species hypothesis and Piltdown man Promotes critical thinking by students while allowing instructors flexibility in structuring their teaching Densely illustrated with informative well labelled anatomical drawings and photographs Includes an annotated bibliography for advanced inquiry Written by established leaders in the field providing depth of expertise on evolutionary theory and anatomy through to functional morphology this textbook is essential reading for all advanced undergraduate students and beginning graduate students in biological anthropology Biocultural Evolution

Pandey,Gaya,2010-08 Human Adaptation Yehudi A. Cohen,2017-07-12 Underlying the anthropological study of humans is the principle that there is a reality to which a human must adapt for survival Populations must adapt to the realities of the physical world and maintain a proper fit between their biological makeup and the pressures of the various niches of the world Social groups must develop adaptive mechanisms in the organization of their social relations if there is to be order regularity and predictability in patterns of cooperation and competition This book presents an introduction to anthropology that is unified and made systematic by its focus on adaptations that have accompanied the evolution of humans from non human primates to inhabitants of vast urban areas in modern industrial societies Human Adaptation contains over forty outstanding essays that are intended to serve as an introduction to physical anthropology archeology and linguistics from the point of view of the processes of adaptation The organization of these selections contains a balance between biological and prehistoric cultural adaptations They provide coherence for the study of human evolution Several selections notably those in connection with linguistic adaptations deal with contemporary people in order to shed light on earlier evolutionary processes More than half of the selections deal with biological evolution This volume unifies the subject matter of anthropology within a single and powerful explanatory framework and incorporates the work of the most renowned anthropological experts on man
