Christopher I. Xenakis, 2002-09-30 Xenakis examines the responses of Soviet experts in American academia primarily political scientists but also economists and defense scholars who specialized in the USSR to the unfolding evidence of Soviet reform during the 1970s and 1980s and to its ultimate collapse He concludes that American Sovietologists and other political scientists were more responsive to the Cold War consensus to the needs of the State Department Defense and CIA policy makers and to the official Washington line of the moment than to the changing face of the Soviet Union As Xenakis makes clear many of the Cold War ideas and attitudes shared by Sovietologists the notion that the USSR was an evil empire the idea that Soviet society was irredeemably xenophobic and indolent that the Soviet political and economic system could not be fixed or reformed and the view that the best way for Washington to deal with Moscow's influence was to contain the USSR
