Events That Changed the World in the Nineteenth Century Frank W.

Thackeray, 1996-08-30 The revolutions around the globe in the 19th century have had an enormous impact on the course of history To help students better understand the major developments in the tumultuous 19th century and their impact on the 20th century this unique resource offers detailed description and expert analysis of the 19th century's most important events The Napoleonic Era the Congress of Vienna and the Age of Metternich the Latin American Wars of Independence the Reform Bill of 1832 the Revolutions of 1848 the Emancipation of the Russian Serfs the Meiji Restoration the Unification of Germany Marxism and the Rise of Socialism and Imperialism Each of the ten events is dealt with in a separate chapter Designed for students the unique format features an introductory essay that presents the facts followed by an interpretive essay that places the event in a broader context and promotes student analysis The introductory essay provides factual material about the event in a clear concise chronological manner that makes complex history understandable The interpretive essay written by a recognized authority in the field in a style designed to appeal to a general readership explores the short term and far reaching ramifications of the event An annotated bibliography identifies the most important and recent scholarship about each event A full page photo of each event complements the narrative This volume contains four useful appendices a glossary of names events and terms a timeline of important events in 19th century world history the comparative population of selected countries in the 19th century and countries colonized during the Imperial Scramble of 1870 1914 This work is an ideal addition to the high school community college and undergraduate reference shelf as well as excellent for supplementary reading in social studies and world history courses

Subject Guide to Books in Print ,1984 Peace, War and the European Powers, 1814-1914 Christopher John Bartlett,1996-10-02 The causes of war have tended to attract more attention than the causes of peace yet the two are intimately related Indeed there was much talk of war during the unprecedentedly long periods of peace between the European great powers in the years 1815 1854 and again in 1871 1914 the Near Eastern crises of 1878 and 1887 8 being only two of the more notable examples In the case of the latter there occurred a spell of fatalistic and belligerent talk in both Berlin and Vienna which in many ways anticipated that which gripped those capitals by 1914 A study of the whole question of the best methods by which to defend and advance the national interest is often more illuminating on why wars were avoided than are studies of the documentation surrounding the Holy Alliance the congress system or the Concert of Europe It is clear that the Concert tended to become most active only after a war had already been fought or when the powers had already decided that conflict was likely to prove too costly dangerous and unpredictable in its effects both at home and abroad Thus the Russians twice advanced almost to the gates of Constantinople only to recoil at the implications of trying to obtain control of the Straits Similarly Habsburg thoughts of war were frequently neutralised by reminders of financial weakness This valuable book will be welcomed by anyone wishing to understand the nature of European state relations in the nineteenth century Professor Bartlett examines why major wars did happen and did not happen with particular attention being paid to the events of 1914

Bulletin of reprints ,1978 The Social Studies ,1921 Studies in Diplomatic History James Headlam-Morley,2015-12-22 This collection of essays delves into issues associated with British foreign policy in the ten years that Headlam Morley worked with the Foreign Office in early twentieth century Britain Originally published in 1930 the issues discussed in this volume include disarmament treaties and security problems as well as discussions of the international relationship between Great Britain and countries such as Egypt Greece and Russia This title will be of interest to students of History and International Politics
