The Politics Of Public Librarianship New Directions In Information Management:

The Politics of Public Librarianship David Shavit, 1986-10-16 Public librarians do not usually see themselves as politicians. However, as decision makers in an institutional setting affected by a variety of pressures and conflicting interests, they are involved in politics in both the broad and narrow sense. Moreover, recent developments in the public library system have brought the librarian directly into the political sphere. Professor Shavit's study, the first major work on the subject in over 35 years, fills a major gap in scholarship on the public library in the political process and provides a detailed survey of the political context in which the modern library functions. Bibliographic Index, 1994 Local Area Networks in Information Management Harry Kibirige, 1989-04-26 Local Area Networks (LANs) have a high potential for alleviating many of the problems associated with stand-alone microcomputers. Kibirige's issue-oriented study explores microcomputer networking systems with particular emphasis on LANs. Although his analysis emphasizes issues from an information scientist's perspective, readers who want to gain an understanding of LAN technology and its applications should find it useful. Kibirige adds a unique flavor to his book by discussing the LAN as an information processing structure, putting more emphasis on the utility of LANs than on the technology. Kibirige argues that the LAN is an information optimization structure that allows the individual and the organization to get maximum utility from the information services and products available, such as the large external databases, e.g., CompuServe. Many of the applications he discusses should be of interest to upper division library science students. Choice Copyright Libri GmbH. Daily, 1978-03-01 The Encyclopedia of Library and Information Science provides an outstanding resource in 33 published volumes with 2 helpful indexes. This thorough reference set, written by 1300 eminent international experts, offers librarians, information computer scientists, bibliographers, documentalists, systems analysts, and students convenient access to the techniques and tools of both library and information science. Impeccably researched, cross-referenced, alphabetized by subject, and generously illustrated, the Encyclopedia of Library and Information Science integrates the essential theoretical and practical information accumulating in this rapidly growing field. Public Library Politics Bob Usherwood, 1993 It is now generally recognized that public sector managers need to be politically sensitive and to have an understanding of the world of politics and politicians. This title presents the views of elected members responsible for public library services and reflects their opinions on the mission, management, and organization of public libraries while examining the factors that influence their attitudes and behaviour. Library Services and Incarceration Jeanie Austin, 2021-11-17 As part of our mission to enhance learning and ensure access to information for all library patrons, our profession needs to come to terms with the consequences of mass incarceration, which have saturated the everyday lives of people in the United States and heavily impacts Black Indigenous and people of color, LGBTQ people, and people who are in poverty. Jeanie Austin, a librarian with San Francisco Public Library's Jail and Reentry Services program, helms this important contribution to the discourse providing tools applicable in a variety of settings This text covers practical information about services in public and academic libraries and libraries in juvenile detention centers jails and prisons while contextualizing these services for LIS classrooms and interdisciplinary scholars It powerfully advocates for rethinking the intersections between librarianship and carceral systems pointing the way towards different possibilities This clear eyed text begins with an overview of the convergence of library and information science and carceral systems within the United States summarizing histories of information access and control such as book banning and the ongoing work of incarcerated people and community members to gain more access to materials examines the range of carceral institutions and their forms including juvenile detention jails immigration detention centers adult prisons and forms of electronic monitoring draws from research into the information practices of incarcerated people as well as individual accounts to examine the importance of information access while incarcerated shares valuable case studies of various library systems that are currently providing both direct and indirect services including programming book clubs library spaces roving book carts and remote reference provides guidance on collection development tools and processes discusses methods for providing reentry support through library materials and programming from customized signage and displays to raising public awareness of the realities of policing and incarceration gives advice on supporting community groups and providing outreach to transitional housing includes tips for building organizational support and getting started with advice on approaching library management creating procedures for challenges ensuring patron privacy and how to approach partners who are involved with overseeing the functioning of the carceral facility and concludes with a set of next steps recommended reading and points of reflection

Public Administration and Decision-Aiding Software Stuart S. Nagel, 1990-10-16 This contributed volume offers a summary of the latest ideas and applications concerning decision making software as applied to administrative decision making and public policy making Stuart Nagel the editor of this work defines the essence of decision aiding software to be software that is designed to enable users to process a set of 1 goals to be achieved 2 alternatives available for achieving them and 3 relations between goals and alternatives in order to choose the best alternative combination allocation or predictive decision rule Containing contributions from both practitioners and theorists this book should be of immediate value to those professionals involved in the field of public administration The book is organized in terms of the major fields of public administration which have been divided into staff procedural activities and into line substantive activities The first part of the book deals with cross cutting procedures including organization theory policy analysis and financial management The second part deals with substantive chapters including criminal justice health environmental energy and transportation as administrative fields The third part of the book involves chapters which combine procedures and substance It includes developmental policy with chapters emphasizing the perspectives of people from developing countries toward the relevance of computers and decision aiding software It also includes the perspective of people from more developed countries trying to apply policy analysis methods to developmental policy The third part also deals with public administration education It emphasizes data banks that are available through telecommunications systems to aid in teaching various aspects of public administration procedures and substance This book should be of interest to public administrators and scholars of the field

Continuity and Innovation in the Public Library Margaret Kinnell Evans, Margaret Kinnell, Rodney Paul Sturges, 1996 The authors have gathered some of the leading experts on public library policy to argue and discuss how the past present and future can meet and enrich the fabric of the public library service Canadian Library Journal ,1989 Resources in Education ,2001-04
