The Telegraph Boy Jr. Horatio Alger, 2017-06-20 The class of boys described in the present volume was called into existence only a few years since but they are already so numerous that one can scarcely ride down town by any conveyance without having one for a fellow passenger Most of them reside with their parents and have comfortable homes but a few like the hero of this story are wholly dependent on their own exertions for a livelihood The Boy's Yearly Book ,1863 The Telegraph Boy Horatio Alger,2019-09-25 Reproduction of the original The Telegraph Boy by Horatio Alger The Telegraph Age ,1909 The Carnegie Boys Quentin R. Skrabec, Jr.,2012-08-13 In the 1890s the Carnegie Veterans Association began as a group of boyhood friends and older Andrew Carnegie steel partners united to share business ideas but it evolved into a powerful secretive network in American business circles By 1925 these Carnegie lieutenants controlled more than 60 percent of the country's industrial assets Haunted by their past with Carnegie Steel they demanded a new ethical relationship with labor and adopted a philanthropic philosophy of paternal capitalism building libraries churches schools and hospitals Ultimately their experiments in industrial democracy and progressive industrialism failed but their efforts formed the root of future cooperative management and employee participation This chronicle of the evolution and legacy of this influential association offers a new more complex perspective on Carnegie and demonstrates how he and his lieutenants helped to shape America's view of capitalism In the Midst of Alarms Robert Barr,2019-09-25 Reproduction of the original In the Midst of Alarms by Robert Barr Lippincott's Monthly Magazine ,1893 Serving a Wired World Katie Hindmarch-Watson,2020-11-10 In the public imagination Silicon Valley embodies the newest of the new the cutting edge the forefront of our social networks and our globally interconnected lives But the pressures exerted on many of today's communications tech workers mirror those of a much earlier generation of laborers in a very different space the London workforce that helped launch and shape the massive telecommunications systems operating at the turn of the twentieth century As the Victorian age ended affluent Britons came to rely on information exchanged along telegraph and telephone wires for seamless communication an efficient and impersonal mode of sharing thoughts demands and desires This embrace of seemingly unmediated communication obscured the labor involved in the smooth operation of the network much as our reliance on social media and app interfaces does today Serving a Wired World is a history of information service work embedded in the daily maintenance of liberal Britain and the status quo in the early years of the twentieth century As Katie Hindmarch Watson shows the administrators and engineers who crafted these telecommunications systems created networks according to conventional gender perceptions and social hierarchies modeling the operation of the networks on the dynamic between master and servant Despite attempts to render telegraphists and telephone operators invisible these workers were quite aware of their crucial role in modern life and they posed creative challenges to their marginalized status from organizing labor strikes to participating in deviant sexual exchanges In unexpected ways these workers turned a flatly neutral telecommunications network into a revolutionary one challenging the status quo in ways familiar today
