Television Across Asia Television Industries Programme Formats And Globalisation:

Television Across Asia Michael Keane, Albert Moran, 2003-10-16 This book explores the trade in television program formats which is a crucially important ingredient in the globalisation of culture in Asia It examines how much traffic there is in program formats the principal direction of flow of such traffic and the economic and cultural significance of this trade for the territories involved and for the region as a whole It shows how new technology deregulation privatisation and economic recession have greatly intensified competition between broadcasters in Asia as in other parts of the world and discusses how this in turn has multiplied the incidence of television format remakes with some countries developing dedicated format companies and others becoming net importers and adapters of formats Internationalization of the Chinese TV Sector Manfred Kops, Stefan Ollig, 2007 In this reader media experts discuss the prospects and problems of program exchange between German and Chinese Broadcasters They explain that program exchange is not the cockaigne one could assume with regard to the non rivalry of media content and the huge Chinese TV market more than 300 million TV households and an estimated 180 000 hours of weekly broadcast time across all TV platforms but that many economic peculiarities of the media that only can be read in the footnotes of economic text books are highly relevant in practice To trade TV programs with China thus requires a solid knowledge about the TV business in general but also about the Chinese media order and the Chinese society and the Chinese way of business Reality TV Susan Murray, Laurie Ouellette, 2004-04-01 Survivor The Bachelor Extreme Makeover Big Brother Joe Millionaire American Idol The Osbournes It is virtually impossible to turn on a television without coming across some sort of reality programming Yet while this genre has rapidly moved from the fringes of television culture to its lucrative core critical attention has not kept pace Beginning by unearthing its historical roots in early reality shows like Candid Camera and wending its way through An American Family Cops and The Real World to the most recent crop of reality programs Reality TV is the first book to address the economic visual cultural and audience dimensions of reality television The essays provide a complex and comprehensive picture of how and why this genre emerged what it means how it differs from earlier television programming and how it engages societies industries and individuals Topics range from the construction of televisual reality to the changing face of criminal violence on TV to issues of surveillance taste and social control By spanning reality television s origins in the late 1940s to its current overwhelming popularity Reality TV demonstrates both the tenacity of the format and its enduring ability to speak to our changing political and social desires and anxieties Contributors include Nick Couldry Mary Beth Haralovich John Hartley Chuck Kleinhans Derek Kompare Jon Kraszewski Kathleen LeBesco Justin Lewis Ted Magder Jennifer Maher Anna McCarthy Rick Morris Chad Raphael Elayne Rapping Jeffrey Sconce Michael W Trosset Pamela Wilson Global Television Formats Sharon Shahaf, Tasha Oren, 2013-06-17 Global Television Formats aims to revise the place of the global in television studies The essays gathered here explore the diversity of global programming and approaches and ask how to theorize contemporary global formats and thus re shape our understanding of television as at once a shared global and specific local text an economic system a socio political institution and a popular practice The contributors explore a wide array of television programming from the Middle East Western and Eastern Europe South Asia North America Latin America and Brazil and represent a br New Television, Globalisation, and the East Asian Cultural Imagination Michael Keane,Anthony Y.H. Fung,Albert Moran,2007-02-01

Challenging assumptions that have underpinned critiques of globalisation and combining cultural theory with media industry analysis Keane Fung and Moran give a groundbreaking account of the evolution of television in the post broadcasting era and how programming ideas are creatively redeveloped and franchised in East Asia In this first comprehensive study of television program adaptation across cultures the authors argue that adaptation transfer and recycling of content are multiplying to the point of marginalising other economic and cultural practices They also show that significant re modelling of local TV production practices occur when adaptation is genuinely responsive to local values Examples of East Asian format adaptations include Survivor Who Wants to be a Millionaire The Weakest Link Coronation Street and Idol Rogue Flows Koichi Iwabuchi,Stephen Muecke,Nabdt Thomas,2004-11-01 Rogue Flows brings together some of the best and most knowledgeable writers on consumption and cultural theory to chart the under explored field of cultural flows and consumption across different regions in Asia and the importance of these flows in constituting contemporary Asian national identities It offers innovative possibilities for envisioning how the transfer of popular and consumer culture such as TV music film advertising and commodities across Asian countries has produced a new form of cross cultural fertilisation within Asian societies which does not merely copy Western counterparts Rogue Flows is unique in its investigation of how Asianness is being exploited by Asian transnational cultural industries and how it is involved in the new power relations of the region It is an important contribution to the literature of Asian cultural studies World Television Joseph D. Straubhaar,2007-05-18

World Television From Global to Local a new assessment of the interdependence of television across cultures and nations brings together the most current research and theories on the subject By examining recent developments in the world system of television as well as several theories of culture industry genre and audience author Joseph D Straubhaar offers new insights into the topic He argues that television is being simultaneously globalized regionalized nationalized and even localized with audiences engaging it at multiple levels of identity and interest therefore the book looks at all these levels of operation Key Features Draws upon both international communication and cultural studies perspectives Presents a new model is presented that attempts to move beyond the current controversies about imperialism and globalization Looks at historical patterns Historical patterns across cultures and countries help compare where television has been and where it is going Takes a contemporary focus Uses of technology flows and patterns of program development genres of television the interaction of producers and audiences and patterns of audience choice among emerging alternatives are examined Explores how the audience for these evolving forms of television is structured The effects of these forces or patterns of television have on both cultural formations and individual identities are identified Intended Audience This is an excellent text for advanced undergraduate and graduate courses in Globalization and Culture Global Media Television Studies Television Criticism and International Media Entertainment Media in Indonesia Mark Hobart, Richard Fox, 2007-11-23 Entertainment media comprises one of the worlds largest industries and this collection is important not just for explaining what is happening in Indonesian entertainment media but also for establishing a theoretical framework for the study of entertainment media in other societies Global Media Ecologies Doris Baltruschat, 2010-07-02 This study highlights dramatic changes in worldwide media production detailing how collaborations in the form of co productions format franchising and audience interactivity define the new media economy and affect a shift across the entire field of cultural production These developments also reflect broader trends in cultural and economic globalization Cultural Adaptation Albert Moran, Michael Keane, 2013-09-13 Cultural borrowing is exploding across the world Creative ideas are transferred and modified in ever increasing number and complexity making new products ranging from TV shows to architectural style in new cities But what do we really know about the spread of creative ideas This intriguing engrossing and comprehensive collection looks at the cultural and commercial dimensions of creative borrowing world wide with an international cast of contributors and case studies from India to Ireland Canada to China Cultural Adaptation explores how creative ideas are packaged and nationalised to meet local taste maps the cultural economy of adaptation in entertainment media ranging from motion pictures to mobile phones and even probes the role of cultural recipes and formats in mutating participatory experiences of theme parks and sporting spectacles Written in a lively and accessible manner the book also provides insight into remaking in lifestyle and consumption cultures including fashion food drink and gambling Essential for communication cultural media leisure and consumption studies scholars and students alike this book opens up important new perspectives on how we understand global creativity This book was published as a special issue of Continuum Journal of Media and Cultural Studies
